Albanian King Has Close Call As Bullets Fly

Two Gunmen Attack King's Party—Adjutant Is Shot Dead—Minister Wounded

SLAYERS ARE PUT IN JAIL

(International News Service)
VIENNA, Feb. 21.—A strong cord of uniformed police and plainclothesmen guarded all entrances to Hotel Imperial today following a bold attempt against the life of King Zog of Albania by two of his countrymen in front of the Vienna Opera House last night.

The 36-year old monarch of the mountainous and bandit-infested kingdom escaped without a scratch, but Major Topolati, the King's Adjutant, fell dead with a bullet in his head. Minister of the Court Libanova was critically wounded.

The gunmen fired nearly a dozen shots from old-fashioned pistols before turning to flee. They were seized by pursuing citizens and police and rushed to the police station. There they were identified as Aziz Kamil and N. Gledol, allegedly members of the Albanian revolutionary party.

Chicago Bandit And Spanish War Vet Are Killed In Gun Fight

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—A bandit and a Spanish War Veteran whom he attempted to rob were dead and a second bandit was believed near death today following a revolver duel which climaxed an attempt to hold up a West side drinking place.

The two men shot each other through the heart after Benjamin Vaughn, 55 year old veteran, whipped a revolver from his coat pocket and opened fire on three bandits rather than submit to being robbed the dead bandit was identified as Richard Alexander, 27.

Before he died Vaughn shot Thos. Raia, 18, critically wounding him. The third gunman escaped and is being sought by police.

Vaughn drew his gun and began firing when the trio attempted to force him and another customer into a back room to rob them.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Mrs. C. W. Brown, of Hamilton street, on Friday afternoon spied a robin redbreast sitting on an eave spout, and judging from the lusty notes of song, the bird was quite satisfied with the weather conditions here. Several people have reported hearing robins this month, but the one reported by Mrs. Brown is one of the very few actually seen.

Pa New observes that a good many dirt streets in the city which have been in excellent condition throughout the winter are now beginning to show the effects of the wet weather during the past two weeks. Big holes are beginning to appear on the surface.

The nature study room in the North street school is an interesting place to visit as they have objects of all kinds, which the children study about. The latest addition to the collection is a big black crow, donated by Herbert Hoffmaster, son of the principal of the school.

The girls of the New Castle News were all decked out this afternoon when they appeared with dainty corsages of sweet peas, presented them by Weingartner and Cunningham.

Daily Weather Report

U. S. Weather bureau statistics for the 24-hour period ending at nine o'clock this morning follows:
Maximum temperature, 36.
Minimum temperature, 31.
Precipitation, 0.1 inches.
River stage 6.9 feet, falling.

SURVEY SHOWS BUSINESS ON DECIDED UP-GRADE IN UNITED STATES NOW

(Copyright, 1931, by International News Service)
A nationwide survey conducted by International News Service today showed that business generally throughout the country is decidedly on the upgrade.

From the New England states to the Pacific coast the reports that were gathered by telegraph showed a steady increase in employment, greater activity in almost all manufacturing lines and evidence of greater buying power everywhere.

The reports showed also that within the next few weeks many large construction projects, for which the money already has been appropriated, will get under way.

The reports by representatives of the International News Service follow:

Peruvian Revolt Takes Heavy Toll Of Lives, Report

Estimate That From 40 To 70 Soldiers And Civilians Have Been Killed

AMERICAN CITIZEN LOSES HIS LIFE

Speedy Termination Of Revolt, But Not Until Much Damage Had Been Done

(International News Service)
LIMA, Peru, Feb. 21.—An abortive revolt against the government of provisional President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro came to a speedy termination here, but it was estimated today that from 40 to 70 soldiers and civilians lost their lives in the resultant fighting, including a non-participating American.

Loyal troops aided by civilians quickly routed the miniature rebel army led by disgruntled officers, who were seized and imprisoned after soldiers overpowered them in the old fortress of Raal Felipe at Callao, where they had barricaded themselves.

A stray bullet which sped through the window of the English club at Callao during the fighting killed Reginald A. Skidmore, assistant marine superintendent for a New York steamship company. Officials here stated he was a native of Bethlehem, Pa.

Skidmore, 40 years old, is survived by a widow and two small children. He was playing billiards when struck down by the bullet.

Lived In Bethlehem

Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 21.—Reginald Skidmore, the American killed during an attempted revolt in Peru, was formerly from Texas, but lived in this city for a short time. He was married here today. He was married about four years ago to Miss Kathleen Sims, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sims, of Bethlehem, Pa.

The girl's parents lived for 20 years in Chile and it was there Skidmore made the acquaintance of Miss Sims. At the time he was employed in Chile by the W. R. Grace Company. Several months after their marriage the couple went to Peru where Skidmore lost his life.

Mr. and Mrs. Sims also are still in South America, but are now reported on their way home.

Mrs. Coolidge Christens Ship

New Dollar Liner Calvin Coolidge Is Christened and Floated Today

(International News Service)
NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Feb. 21.—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge today christened in seawater the magnificent $8,000,000 liner which is to carry the former president's name under the flag of the Dollar Steamship Lines.

Gathered from the seven seas, as was the launching fluid which substituted for champagne in christening of the sister ship President Hoover last fall. The bottle of salt water represented all the oceans covered by the Dollar lines.

Effort Is Made To Cap Big Well

Workmen Frantically Speed Capping Of Gas Well In Tioga County

40,000,000 CUBIC FEET IS FLOWING

(International News Service)
WELLSBORO, Pa., Feb. 21.—Efforts were made today to cap the new and largest gas well in Tioga county, which blew in late yesterday with a roar heard for miles, sent fourteen workmen scurrying for their lives and today was flowing at the rate of 40,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas per day.

The new well, said by experts to be the best natural gas gusher ever brought in east of the Mississippi River, is the third brought in in Tioga county within recent months.

Drillers drove six feet through the gas strata on Wednesday, the crew said, then "choked" the well while awaiting arrival of pipe to be used in casing the shaft. The well was flowing at about 1,000,000 feet a day, then increased to 4,000,000 feet before the blast which sent its gas, showing white, whistling up at a forty million cubic foot flow.

Workers Flee Scene
When the gusher blew in, workers at the well ran for their lives, the escaping gas being held close to the ground by a "low ceiling." Guards were immediately posted to prevent anyone from approaching the well, for fear of ignition of matches and consequent explosion and workers discussed methods of halting the flow.

Special methods will have to be used, it was indicated to bring the well under control because of the great pressure. One method suggested was that of "plugging" the shaft with concrete driven in under great force, in the hope of sealing it so other shafts could be sunk nearby.

Woman Is Sent To State Home At Muncie, Pa.

Mrs. Mary Brandoline Of Ellwood City Sentenced To From 2 To 5 Years

CLAIMED SHE SET FIRE TO HOUSE

Drunken Drivers Are Given Terms In The County Jail At Sentence Court

Mrs. Mary Brandoline of Ellwood City, convicted of arson, was sentenced to the state industrial home for women at Muncie, Pa. for a period of from 2 to 5 years by Judge R. L. Hildebrand this morning.

Brandoline was convicted of setting fire to her residence at Ellwood City.

An application for a new trial was made following her conviction, but in an opinion handed down by Judge Hildebrand this week he refused the motion. Pleas for leniency were made in Mrs. Brandoline's behalf on the grounds that there were no actual eye witnesses to the arson. She was convicted on a strong chain of circumstantial evidence. The commonwealth maintained that she set fire to the house to obtain the insurance. When the Ellwood City firemen broke into the house Chief Plante discovered a strong odor of kerosene and two cans which had contained kerosene or gasoline.

Other Sentences
Other sentences passed by Judges Hildebrand and Chambers this morning were as follows: Gerardo Malizia of Bessemer, driving an automobile while intoxicated, $100 fine and costs and four months to the county jail. Petition for parole to be entertained upon the payment of fine and costs at the end of thirty days. Malizia, it was shown, had come to this city with a friend. He drank some wine at a home in the Croton district and was later arrested on Croton avenue, after he had collided with another car. He has a wife who is under the doctor's care and three children. A plea for leniency was made on account of his family.

Frank Aiello, aged 18 on a charge of transporting liquor, was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Allegheny county workhouse for one year. Aiello lives at Masury, O. He had five gallons of liquor in his car when he was arrested on Grant street. He claimed that he purchased it from a friend.

Death Toll In German Mining Disaster Is 25
Rescue Workers Speed Up Work To Reach 90 Others Still Trapped

(International News Service)
AIX-LA-CHAPELLE, Germany, Feb. 21.—The death toll in the Eschweiler coal mine explosion near here climbed to 25 today as rescue crews strove to reach approximately 90 other miners entombed in the wrecked shaft.

In addition to the fatalities, six miners were seriously injured by the blast, and ten were rushed to the hospital suffering from coal gas poisoning.

The Eschweiler coal mines are within a short distance of the Belgian border.

MAKES PROTEST ON EXECUTION

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Feb. 21.—A protest against the execution of Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague Monday because that day will be generally observed as George Washington's birthday was forwarded to Governor Pinchot today by J. D. Thomas of Pittsburgh.

Thomas pointed out that although the first president's birthday actually falls on Sunday it will be legally observed the following day.

In part, Thomas said: "I am protesting on this score because I do not wish to see the commonwealth desecrate the holiday."

Gun Girl And Pal In Crimes Meet Death Together

(Special Bulletin To The News)

ROCKVIEW, Pa., Feb. 23.—Separated by but a few minutes, Irene Schroeder and Walter Glenn Dague paid with their lives this morning for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul, near New Castle, on December 27, 1929.

Shortly after seven o'clock, the Gun Girl and her paramour, went out to meet the man whose life they took, in that mad battle on the Butler Road. Their career of crime is ended, their violations of man-made law are through, and at the end of their crimson trail of banditry, the electric chair.

Mrs. Irene Schroeder was taken to the death house at 7 o'clock being the first of the pair to be executed. She was pronounced dead at 7:05 o'clock.

W. Glenn Dague followed her to the death chair immediately and he was pronounced dead at 7:13 o'clock.

Mrs. Schroeder was strapped in the chair at 7 a. m. and one contact of 2,000 volts, 10 amperes was applied.

Dague went to the chair at 7:08 a. m. and one contact of 2,000 volts, 12 amperes was applied.

Both were cool and composed when they entered the death chamber and neither spoke a word before their execution.

No scene in the world can quite be compared to that of this morning, when in that chill gray room, where the sunlight never penetrates, the 22 year old blonde and her partner met their end. The quiet hush of the room was almost maddening, watch ticks sounded like gong strokes, and breathing seemed an effort. Quickly, humanely, the two of them were hurled into eternity, but those few brief minutes seemed like an age.

Whistle Announces End.
As the prison physician pronounced Dague dead, as he had pronounced Irene dead, a shrill throat-siren, the prison whistle, pierced the calm of this Central Pennsylvania mountain valley. Prison doors opened and the numbered men marched forth to their daily tasks, guards hurried them along, and out in the prison yard was a scene of activity. In the death house were two forms, stilled forever, not the Gun Girl and her paramour, but a girl and a man who thought they could beat the game.

Hardly had the dawn come when the witnesses and newspaper men gathered at the gas chamber. A telephone call to the prison officers and the group was escorted to the solitary building in the middle of the prison yard. Hardly a sound was heard, no conversation, no comment, just a group of serious faced men, there to witness the state take its toll for the murder of one of its officers.

The death chamber is on the second floor of the death house. Its furnishings are few. A rough wooden chair, two concrete benches, and on the wall the modern engine of destruction, the electric switch. Shortly before Irene was brought in Executioner Robert Elliott demonstrated to the little group that the chair was in good working order, this by lighting a series of lamps connected with the lethal machinery.

The electrocution of Irene Schroeder and Walter Glenn Dague this morning closes for all time the career of two people, who, infatuated with each other, disregarded the laws of God and man that their own desires and purposes might be served.

The crime for which they paid with their lives was one that shocked a nation. On December 27, 1929 Corporal Brady Paul and Private Ernest Moore, state highway patrolmen stationed at New Castle, went out the Butler road to look for a car containing two men and a woman who had held up a store in Butler.

A car answering the description of the one they wanted, came down the road. They stopped it and demanded some evidence of ownership. A man and a woman got out and as they did, the woman whipped out a gun and ordered Paul to throw up his hands. Backing him down the road she fired point blank at him and Paul sank to the ground, mortally wounded. In the meantime Moore had gone around the car and by only a miracle escaped death.

could go before the Pardon Board, but here again their appeal was denied. A last minute appeal to Governor Pinchot for a further respite was refused, and this morning they paid in full for the crimes they had committed.

Miller Wins In Car Smash Case

Jury Of Eight Men And Four Women Spend All Night In The Jury Room

Three women and eight men spent all last night in a jury room at the court house, being unable to agree upon a verdict in the case of Julius Bogenschultz against J. W. Miller, which was tried before Judge Hildebrand. The case was one growing out of an automobile accident near Conneaut, O. Each blamed the other for causing the accident.

The jury retired shortly after noon, yesterday, later coming in for further instructions. All night they deliberated in the jury room, but when their breakfasts were sent in this morning they had not reached a verdict. About 10 o'clock this forenoon the jury came in and returned a verdict in favor of the defendant, J. W. Miller.

For the verdict had been rendered an attorney for the plaintiff asked that the jury be polled. This was refused as it has not been the practice of the court here in civil actions.

Connecticut Cares For Five Indians

(International News Service)
KENT, Conn., Feb. 23.—The Indian wards of Connecticut are now reduced to a mere five in number. They live on the Schaghticoke reservation, named after the tribe to which they belong and which many years ago was a numerous tribe.

The state park and forest commission has charge of the Indians for whom the state has built cottages on the reservation. In the group is a man who is over seventy years of age and sits close to the fire of a wintry day. Then there is an Indian woman with two children whose husband, a white man, is suffering from tuberculosis.

And the fifth in the reservation is a man who is self-sufficient. The state recently supplied $675 to carry the Indians through to June 30, next, when a new appropriation for their care is effective.

The Indian reservation is on Schaghticoke mountain, a tract on which rattlesnakes are more abundant than many would suppose. In the old days the Indians made a fair income from the snakes which they caught without trouble.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 21.—Well, yesterday I had what I thought was a kinder junny "gag." I said the people the Red Cross really should reach was the ones away back in the woods that no one ever heard of, the senate and congress of these United States.

Well, I pick up the paper this morning and I find their sense of humor didn't faze me. They had added the word not to the senate and congress, and made it so it not only didn't have any humor, but no sense.

What I am trying to get at (if I can get the papers to use it as I want it), is to have the Red Cross care for congress and the senate, instead of having it done as a "dole" from the taxpayers, as it is now.

Yours,
Will Rogers.

Three Gangsters Shot To Death In Feud at New York

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Gang guns roaring beneath a poisonous curtain of bootleg fumes in a battle to the death for alcohol racketeering profits, scratched three gangsters out of the reckoning today.

Three other men were wounded. A hotel on East 29th street, was the chief battleground in a series of three shootings during the flare-ups in one of the bitterest East side gang feuds in years.

In the seventh floor room at the hotel lying on his back near a table littered with empty liquor bottles and glasses, Albert Wagner was found shot to death.

His brother, Abe Wagner, was badly wounded, but escaped, police were told.

Another who survived the battle with five bullet wounds is Charles Brown, alias Marcus Weber, 26. A few hours before a rival gang broke in, shooting into the room where Al Wagner and three of his crowd had repaired, John Max "Aces" Mazza, ex-convict and East Side dandy, was put on the spot by four men in front of a restaurant.

The same volley that killed Mazza critically wounded Joseph Koski, 20.

The third murder was in the Bronx where the body of John Franzese, 32 was found in the middle of a street.

Makes Appeal To Governor Pinchot To Save Irene

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Feb. 21.—Judah P. Benjamin, New York City, who was chairman of the Ruth Snyder clemency committee today appealed to Governor Gifford Pinchot in an effort to save Irene Schroeder from the electric chair on Monday. Benjamin made his appeal in the form of a night letter to the governor.

The Governor indicated that the letter might not be answered today. Yesterday he refused a like appeal from Percy A. Rose who had been counsel for Irene.

"Should this execution be carried out it will be an eternal disgrace to the state for the legal murder of the youngest mother ever condemned to such an untimely end," the Benjamin letter read in part. "It will cast an indelible stain on the fair escutcheon of the cradle of American liberty."

Premier MacDonald Entertains Chaplin

(International News Service)
LONDON, Feb. 21.—The King of Laughs paid a visit to King George's premier today.

Charlie Chaplin, visiting the country of his birth for the first time in ten years, was invited to spend the day as the guest of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald at Chequers, the official country residence of Britain's premier.

The visit promised to give the comedian a day's relief from the ordeal of playing hero to the multitudes. Chaplin had hoped that his stay in England would enable him to make pilgrimages in solitude to the drab East end districts where he spent his youth, but he has been mobbed by adulating thousands each time he stepped out of his hotel. Chaplin journeyed to Chequers in the company of Alastair MacDonald, son of the Premier, who called for the comedian at his hotel this morning.

I'd like to write a lifting lay, that breathed an air of spring, I'd like to talk of buds and how the birdsies spring, I'd like to twang a, tam-bourine, and walk around among the stars, but then I see the temperature, and gosh the weather jars. It's thirty eight and chill and bleak, and chills me to the core, and words of spring and buzzing bees become a beastly bore. So I must hold for other days, those words of balmy days, and sing of winter, cold and dark, while February stays.

ABOARD U. S. S. LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—The great "naval war" for possession of the Panama Canal was ended today, with the "attack" partially successful but capture of the main objective still in doubt.

The annual maneuvers of the United States Pacific fleet, aided by scores of planes and the dirigible Los Angeles, demonstrated conclusively the advantage of the combined sea and air defense of the "big ditch". But proved also the necessity for continued study and development of lighter-than air craft.

The Los Angeles actually accomplished her mission in gratifying manner but almost immediately after was "destroying" with little trouble by her foe.

Desertion Charged In Divorce Case

Mrs. Louise Rea Ferrell has filed an application at the prothonotary's office for a divorce from her husband, Charles Norman Ferrell on the grounds of desertion. They were married in September, 1928. The desertion is alleged to have taken place on August 29. After their marriage Ferrell lived at the Y. M. C. A. and Mrs. Ferrell at her home until July 1929, when they went to Pittsburgh, where Ferrell secured a position playing in an orchestra at "The Plantation." They took rooms at the Ritz apartments. It was while there that Mrs. Ferrell says that her husband deserted her without any provocation.

arrival at Rockview penitentiary. A partition has been erected in the cell block which will prevent her from engaging in any long distance conversation with her lover. Whether the pair will be permitted to say goodbye to each other on Monday morning was a matter upon which the warden would not commit himself. Neither would he say whether the relatives of the condemned couple would be allowed to see them while they are in the death house. As the hour of the double execution approaches, Mrs. Schroeder and Dague are reported to be losing some of their steel-nerved composure. From the county jail at New Castle came word last night that Mrs. Schroeder's eyes showed signs of weeping and that Dague has taken to reading the Bible for consolation.

Today preparations are under way for the executions. The town of Bellefonte is filling up with newspaper men and witnesses. Scores have applied for a chance to witness the double electrocution, but only 12 persons will be admitted to the death chamber, six of them newspaper men.

The term "unearned increment" was unknown until John Stuart Mill invented it in 1873.

You're the JUDGE

The following story is interesting, first because of its age, and second, because it casts a light on the insurance methods of a former day. The story is nearly a century and a half old.

A certain insurance company operating in that day issued a policy to some merchants for protection of their places of business against fire. The policy provided that the company would be liable for loss by fire caused by war or rebellion and then it specified that policy holders who suffered loss should immediately notify the company and as soon as possible after that send in a particular account of the nature of the loss and also a certificate signed by some representative householder of the neighborhood, by the minister and church wardens.

One night the place of business of one of these merchants was burned to the ground. The merchant immediately notified the insurance company and followed it with a detailed account with the certificate signed by four, and not one, representative householders, but the minister and wardens refused to sign. The company, upon this, refused to pay the loss. The merchant sued.

STEEN SUBMITS ANNUAL REPORT

City Had Good Health Condi- tions During 1930, Officer States

Dr. William L. Steen, city health officer, has submitted a report covering 1930 health conditions here to members of city council. His report states the city during the period was remarkably free from communicable diseases, excepting during the spring when a mild epidemic of measles occurred.

He reported that there was no smallpox and he ascribed this as a triumph for vaccination. Of the 12,000 pupils in the public school only six were admitted without vaccination "because of poor physical condition." No patients were confined at the municipal hospital.

He commented on the drought and said there while the water was free from dangerous contamination it was impossible to remove the objectionable taste in the water. Tests were made daily of the city water, Steen reported.

Steen said in the report that milk men who were unsanitary in their methods or lacked proper equipment had been refused permits to sell milk in the city. He declared good clean milk should contain less than 25,000 bacteria per c. c. and milk with more than 100,000 bacteria is classed as unsanitary and sale is prohibited.

In regard to the sanitary inspection, he declared there were 4,478 inspections by the officers and that 205 complaints of nuisances were investigated. Food inspections were made regularly.

The municipal nurse made 162 visits to homes under quarantine for contagious diseases and gave practical instructions and demonstrated the proper way to handle patients and to prevent others from becoming infected.

Garbage collection was efficiently carried out and the report says that 7,389 tons were collected and burned and 1,260 loads were hauled to the plant by private firms.

Albert Hall, who was charged with malicious mischief and with attempting to escape from Constable R. B. Morrow, was sentenced four months to the county jail. Hall tried to escape from Morrow when Morrow was taking him to the county jail, but he was run down and captured.

Joe Sniezek for failing to stop and render assistance, was sentenced to pay costs with the understanding that he was to take care of a doctor bill. Sniezek's car hit a child near Scotland lane. He claimed that he had stopped and asked if the child was hurt and upon receiving a negative reply, had driven on. It was afterwards found that the child was injured and the services of a doctor were required.

STAR LORE

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter
The ancient method of taking time at noon from the shadow cast by a vertical shaft called the Gnomon was not accomplished with the great precision made possible by the transit telescope and the Chronograph. A transit telescope is a small telescope mounted with axis bearings exactly parallel with the celestial equator. Its object glass is divided north and south into exact halves by a thread of spider web exactly parallel with the meridian. The observer watches the star as it approaches the filament and just as the filament bisects the star, the observer presses an electric button on the Chronograph and he has registered the exact time to within a hundredth of a second.

Gets Jail Term
Jack Wilk, charged with driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, was fined $200 and costs and given four months to the county jail.

Irwin Peak, charged with break- ing and entering a pool room on Moravia street and stealing some tobacco, was given from 6 months to 3 years in the county jail. A plea was made in his behalf on account of his mother, whom he supports. He claimed that he was intoxicated at the time of the robbery and did not realize what he was doing.

Earl Ward and James Mangine, who were picked up on Grant street with a basket containing four quarts of liquor, claimed that they had found it where it had been hidden by some one else along the Erie railroad tracks. They said the officers to whom four more quarts were secreted. Mangine was given 30 days to jail and Ward was fined $100 and costs and given three months to jail. Ward's sentence was more severe than that of Mangine owing to the fact that he was out on parole.

COLONIAL PROGRAM IN LEGION HOME

Father Time turned the clock backward about a hundred years or more, so it seemed Friday evening at the American Legion Home, as the members of the Auxiliary appeared for their business meeting and tea.

Quant dresses of every description, with wraps to match, were displayed by the members and one particularly beautiful old Paisley shawl and dainty pants were worn by one member. The small chapeaux and flaring brim hats fitted nicely onto the powdered wigs and curls.

During the business session four new members were initiated and teams appointed for a membership campaign, with Mrs. Gertrude Pestoso and Mrs. Edgar McKee as captains. Plans were made for a St. Patrick's day party for the members and the families to be held March 20. Mrs. Carl Wallace was appointed chairman for a card party on March 21 and the regular meeting will be March 6.

Closing the business session the members were invited to the dining room of the Home where a long table had been most carefully laid for the serving of tea. A table cover of ancient days was used and dishes that dated back to Revolutionary days had been brought out for use and hand dipped candles, which were yellowed with age in old fashioned glass holders, gave a faint idea of the poor lights our ancestors had to see by.

Cake holders and plates which had served on tables in by gone days, held the modern delicacies which were served for lunch. Mrs. Mary Arnett, Mrs. Eleanor Runkle and Mrs. Ida Suber, presided at the tea table.

In keeping with the costumes and table accessories were the recitations that were given by Lillie Hartman, Mrs. Mary Arnett, Mrs. Ida Suber, Mrs. Gertrude Pestoso, Mrs. Anna Sturdy and Mrs. Simon Hartman. They had all been culled from books of long ago and were received by the audience with enthusiasm.

Mrs. Carl Wallace pleased with an old vocal number accompanying herself and Mrs. Eleanor Runkle sang a number accompanied by Mrs. Wallace.

Games were resurrected from the time of our grandmothers and after an hour of these the members departed pronouncing the "Colonial" party a decided success.

1914 BOOK CLUB MEETS AT NEW WILMINGTON

Mrs. W. W. Campbell of New Wilmington proved a charming hostess to associates of the 1914 Book Club when they met in her home for a 1 o'clock luncheon. The menu, which consisted of many delicious dishes, was served at nicely appointed tables, by her sister, Mrs. Florence Knuff and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Fillmore Campbell, who were special guests of the meeting.

A game of cards furnished entertainment during the remaining hours. In two weeks, Mrs. W. P. Felch of Lincoln avenue will receive the ladies at her home.

SOROSIS MID-WINTER PARTY FINE SUCCESS

The annual mid-winter party for Sorosis Club members was held Friday evening at the Fountain Inn with 30 being present. The affair which proved most delightful, was featured with a sumptuous 7 o'clock dinner served in the dining room at tables prettily decorated in patriotic tones. Place cards, favors, and other ornaments in keeping with the memory of George Washington's day, completed the arrangement.

During the course of serving, Mrs. Roy Long, acted as toastmistress, and Mrs. John Whitten and attorney Roy Hazen responding with remarks fitting to the occasion. The remaining hours were spent pleasantly with informal diversions.

The committee in charge who were responsible for the complete success of the event, includes Mrs. C. B. George, chairman, Mrs. Earl Thompson, Mrs. John Leonardson, Mrs. Roy Hazen, Mrs. Louis Gordon, Mrs. Thomas Lindsay, Mrs. Roy Jameson, Mrs. T. A. Gilkey, Mrs. Carl Hart and Miss Rebecca Bowden.

Sicilian Girls Club Meets
The Misses Jennie and Nulla Ventrella proved pleasing hostesses to the Sicilian Girls Club at their home on the Wilmington road last evening.

The presentation of a unique club gavel to the president by the secretary opened the business meeting. Miss Sara Mulone and Miss Carrie Sanfilippo were admitted to the club on several o'clock at tables order the club the business meeting was adjourned.

Two tables of cards were put in play and prizes were won by Miss Carrie Sanfilippo, Viola Pala and Sara Mulone.

Dainty refreshments were served at eleven o'clock. Washington Day a pointsments and novelties were used throughout in the tables and menu.

Mrs. Rose Raspani of Pittsburgh was the special guest of the evening.

School Teaching Supervision Here Told By Dr. Green

Inexperienced Teachers Complicate Supervision In City Schools, He Tells

Supervision of instruction in the schools of the city was explained to members of the school board and the officers of the school district in a talk by Superintendent of Schools C. C. Green at a meeting in the model department of the George Washington junior high school Friday evening.

The purpose of the meeting one of a series of special gatherings, was to acquaint school board members and officers with the features of the schools' system.

Inexperienced teachers in city schools make supervision difficult, Dr. Green declared.

His talk in part follows: Supervision of instruction is done by the principals and by supervisors of art, music and health under the general direction of the superintendent of schools. It has been our constant endeavor to impress upon the principals the generally recognized principle that the supervision of the instructional features of the school is their most important function. This includes the following items: the improvement of the teacher's classroom procedure, the administration of the curriculum requirements, attention to the individual needs of pupils, special attention to pupils who constitute problem cases, general and special method, including demonstration lessons by the principal himself, the professional improvement of teachers, the rating of teachers and kindred subjects.

"In the subjects of music, art and health the supervision is adequate. The organization could be vastly improved by the employment of a primary supervisor, and a director of shop work (including industrial arts and trade classes) and a supervisor of home economics who could act also as supervisor of cafeterias.

"Few principals of elementary schools are qualified by training or experience to give adequate supervision in the highly specialized department of primary instruction. There are notable exceptions, of course.

"The supervision of the elementary schools and the junior high schools is complicated in New Castle by the practice of filling vacancies in those grades with inexperienced teachers. The teacher training institutions give their students an abundance of theory, but a negligible amount of practice teaching before graduation. When a young lady receives her certificate she is still a beginner—merely ready to learn the actual work of teaching."

TWO CONTAGIOUS CASES
City health bureau reported two cases of contagion today. The patients are Grace Moore, 6, 1036 Maryland avenue and Charles Reider, 6, 509 Lathrop street. They have chickenpox.

Great critic: One who sits on a fence and seems superior to blundering workers because he doesn't risk his reputation by working.

Nothing is wrong except that go-getters have become set-and-waiters.

Mass Meeting Sunday Night At The Cathedral Auditorium

Trial Scenes To Be Presented

"Who Killed Earl Wright?" Will Be Portrayed For Crowd

EXPECT HUNDREDS TO FILL CATHEDRAL

The various churches of the city will join in a mass meeting in the Cathedral Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, when the law and order committee, Rev. S. B. Copeland, Dr. E. A. Crooks and Rev. Sam Maitland, of the New Castle Ministerial Association presents the closing day of a murder trial.

"Who Killed Earl Wright?" is the trial being presented and the various ministers and members of the different denominations have been chosen to represent the characters found in a court trial. The scene will exactly reproduce the scene of the trial, with the judge in his seat, the jurors in their box, the bailiff, the sheriff, the prisoners, and all the details of the trial in its respective places.

It is anticipated that the cathedral will be filled to witness this dramatic presentation of a scene which will promote the public sentiment to better fulfillment of the law and closer adherence to the cause of prohibition and upholding of the Eighteenth Amendment.

R. E. Johns, choir director of the First Christian church, will lead the congregation singing.

Mrs. Paul Browne Patterson will be at the console and begin her prelude at 7:45 p. m., with the trial set for 8.

Rev. G. M. Landis Unable To Preach

Rev. G. M. Landis, pastor of the First Baptist church, who has been confined to his home the past two weeks by illness, is greatly improved, but at his physician's advice he will not return to his pulpit duties this week.

The Men's Bible class, of which he is teacher, will have "Bill" Butler as teacher at the 9:30 session.

At the morning service there will be two Baptist Institute workers of Philadelphia present, Miss Mueller and Miss Falkenberg and they will present the work of the Institute to the congregation.

At the 7:30 service Rev. J. W. St. Clair of East Brook will bring the message.

Modern Day And Age Subject Of Sermon

As the subject for this Sunday evening sermon Rev. Clifford S. Joshua, pastor of Croton Methodist church has chosen "Social Position and Tainted Souls" and those who have been hearing the interesting sermons this preacher has been presenting on Sunday evenings are looking forward with interest to hear the thoughts he will express on the subject chosen.

Rev. Joshua brings his messages up to date by discussing the modern day and age and the tendencies of the times.

Will Give Trial At Junior High School

Members of the cast which will produce the court trial, "Who Killed Earl Wright," under the auspices of the Ministerial Association and sponsored by the Anti-Saloon League, will give the same performance in the George Washington Junior High School auditorium on Monday afternoon at 2:30.

The trial is being presented to the children as an educational feature.

Many Attend Day Of Prayer; Baptist Church

Women's Missionary Union Chooses Officers To Serve During Coming Year

Over two hundred women were in attendance Friday at the World Day of Prayer, held in the First Baptist church under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Union. Mrs. N. L. Gardner, president, opened the services at 10 a. m. with a period of consecration with Mrs. J. L. Stratton giving the opening prayer. Mrs. W. E. McClure was in charge of the morning program and presented Mrs. G. M. Landis, whose talk was on "Holding Up Jesus"; Rev. Margaret Joshua talked on "Faith In Jesus" and Mrs. McClure talked on "Burnt Offering." The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Roy Hazen.

Afternoon Session
At the afternoon session, which opened at 1 o'clock the various churches took part in the program with the First Presbyterians giving the silent meditation; Mrs. Oscar Woods of Bethany Lutheran church, invoked the blessing on the meeting and the Second Baptists gave a prayer hymn. "A Witnessing Church" was presented by the Arlington Free Methodists and prayers of thanksgiving were given by the Epworth Methodists and the Third United Presbyterian church; the reading of a hymn by Mrs. W. W. Nelson of the Second Baptist church; a prayer for a witness was given by the Highland United Presbyterian; Witnessing through the ages by the First Methodist; prayers for the Crusade of Righteousness was given by the Rescue Mission; the prayer for peace by the Wesley Methodist and the Second United Presbyterian; a responsive reading was presented by the First Age; Madison Avenue Christian church and prayers for this project by the Central Presbyterian and the Central Christian churches; the prayer for the young by the Maitland Primitive Methodist; the presentation of projects and prayer, Reformed Presbyterian and the prayers of dedication by the First Baptists and Mrs. W. H. Watson of the Bethel A. M. E.

The closing prayer was offered by Mrs. W. W. Nelson of the Second Baptist church; the Trinity Episcopal church members contributed with a hymn and St. Paul's Lutheran offering was a solo. The offering lifted will be used for Home and Foreign Missions.

Officers Chosen
The nominating committee presented the names of the officers they had chosen to serve the coming year. These were presented to the assemblage and accepted. Those chosen were:

President—Mrs. J. H. Kocher.
First Vice—Mrs. M. Fankhousen.
Second Vice—Mrs. Roy A. Long.
Secretary—Mrs. Anna Kildoo.
Correspondent—N. U. S. Choens.
Treasurer—Mrs. Henry Gibson.
Interdenominational Secretary—Mrs. J. L. Stratton.

Rev. John Kellner Continues Series

At the 11 a. m. service of the First Pentecostal church, held in the Y. W. C. A. Auditorium, Rev. John Kellner, pastor of the church will give the fifth sermon in a series on "Things Which Are Most Surely Believed Among Us" with the specific subject being "The Absolute Necessity of a New Birth, in Order to Enter the Kingdom of God."

The questions he will answer are: "Is the New Birth Water Baptism? Is it church membership? How may we know that we are born again? What are the evidences of the new birth? and, Are the people lost who are not born again? There will be prayer for the sick at the close of the morning service.

There are 15 men on a Rugby football team, a contrast with the "eleven" of the United States.

The "ex" in "ex-doughboys" applies to the dough as well as the boys.

Members of the cast which will produce the court trial, "Who Killed Earl Wright," under the auspices of the Ministerial Association and sponsored by the Anti-Saloon League, will give the same performance in the George Washington Junior High School auditorium on Monday afternoon at 2:30.

The trial is being presented to the children as an educational feature.

IF WE CEASE TO BE

In dustrious we cease to be self-respecting. Friendly we soon live in a lonely world. Aggressive we are soon on the retreat. Agreeable we are soon at war with all about us. Active we soon cease to be interested. Enthusiastic we soon come to a complete standstill. Faithful there is little of character left.

Sacred Cantata In First Church

Lovers Of Sacred Music Will Hear "The Woman Of Sychar" Sunday Evening

Those who enjoy fine sacred music will have an opportunity to hear a very beautiful cantata Sunday evening at the First Presbyterian church when the quartette of that church will sing R. S. Stoughton's "The Woman of Sychar." In Mr. Stoughton's work we find a delightful atmosphere of the Holy Land and the story of Jesus at Jacob's well is depicted in a most interesting way.

The cantata is divided into three parts and the introduction to each part is most orchestral.

The First Church possesses an organ that is rich in its wealth of orchestral stops and this whole work will give an opportunity to use all these delightful tone colors.

The pre-service recital begins at 7:25 when Mr. Webber will play two numbers from R. Deane Shure's "Thru Palestine."

Dr. W. E. McClure, pastor of the church, visited at the site of Jacob's well while in the Holy Land last summer and his impressions of this historic place, where the scene of the cantata is laid, will be the basis of a short address.

Dr. Michelson Back At Work

Aged Nobel Prize Winner Measures Speed Of Light

TWO YEARS FOR TUBE BUILDING

(International News Service)
SANTA ANA, Cal., Feb. 21.—Dr. Albert A. Michelson, 78-year-old Nobel prize winner of the University of Chicago, was back at work Friday, measuring the speed of light that astronomers of the future will have an accurate yardstick.

Work began Thursday night with Dr. Michelson and his assistants, Dr. Francis G. Pease of Mt. Wilson observatory and Fred Pearson of Chicago, shooting rays of light back and forth in a mile-long vacuum tube and recording their time.

The measuring will be done at night, Dr. Michelson said, because the sun heats the long steel tube and causes small but destructive errors in the apparatus.

Many thousand measurements will be made so that the average of them all, a figure that will be close to 186,285 miles an hour, the speed now used in scientific calculations, will be as accurate as possible.

It has taken two years to build the vacuum tube and correct faults in it, and six months to adjust the delicate mirrors, some of them rotating on shafts.

The tube alone cost $50,000. Money and materials were furnished by scientific institutions such as the University of Chicago, Caltech, Mt. Wilson observatory and the Carnegie institution of Washington.

The Visitor From Mars

A Tale Of Two Worlds

By S. S. MYERS

CHAPTER V.

When I explained the purpose of our war-ships my companion was horrified. The idea that people would plan to kill each other was appalling to him. He regarded it as a crime for which the Creator would hold us responsible.

"Does not your law say 'Thou shalt not kill'?" he inquired.

"Yes," I replied, "but there are conditions under which it cannot be avoided." This he could not understand, and I did not attempt to discuss the matter with him at that time.

We left Los Angeles and journeyed to Chicago, he making notes frequently along the way. On arriving in Chicago I took him first to one of the largest cemeteries and explained that beneath every headstone and monument lay the body of a former citizen who has either died or been killed. It was all very amazing to him. We then visited some of the hospitals in order that he might witness some of the pain and suffering of humanity. After a day spent in the hospitals I noticed that he was very much depressed and, in order to take his mind away from the scenes he had witnessed I led him to talk about things on Mars.

"You say there are artificial waterways on Mars; some of these canals must be hundreds of miles long, and it certainly required great engineering skill and a vast amount of labor to construct them?"

"It doubtless would have required much labor on this planet," said he, "where the gravitational force is about twice as great as it is on Mars and where you do not seem to have the appliances that we have for such work. It was all done by electric machinery. I notice that here you have only begun to use electricity; you are still ignorant of its great possibilities. Here you use electricity to push your conveyances on the surface; we use it for transportation above the surface. We cannot use airplanes such as you have, because of the thinness of our atmosphere, but our airships are controlled by electricity and we send them where we will through the air."

"When making your artificial waterways did you have to cut through great hills and mountains?"

"We have no such great mountain ranges on Mars like the one we passed over coming here. The surface of our planet is more level and rolling, with here and there hills and low mountain ranges."

"Are there any lakes, seas or oceans on Mars?"

"The sea of the sun is our largest body of water. During the melting season of the polar ice cap its dimensions expand many miles. It is the great reservoir for our water supply."

"Is there much waste surface on your planet?"

"Nothing except a few swamps. There was a time when our planet had much more water than now. Then there was a great ocean and some smaller bodies of water, but they have long since diminished until nothing but the swamps remain. The old ocean and sea beds are now our most fertile regions."

After a week in Chicago we journeyed to New York City where we visited most of the places of interest. I took him out to the zoo where we spent two whole days because of his great interest in live animals such as he had never seen on Mars, some of which had never existed there, and others which had been extinct for thousands of years. He was especially interested in the monkeys and large apes, studied them carefully and made copious notes.

Another place of great interest to him was the Museum of Natural History. We spent considerable time there also. The subways excited his curiosity, as he informed me that they had never had anything of the kind on Mars. We finally visited the docks where I explained our ocean liners and transportation system.

We next visited Washington City and made our way to the Capitol building where, after going through it, I explained our system of government while he took notes.

We remained only two days in Washington and then started on a tour of the south and west, arriving back at our starting point two months later.

A thing that at first interested and puzzled my companion was the negro population of the country. He mistook them for a species of highly developed animals until I explained that they were a branch of the human race, and that he would find people of various colors among the inhabitants of the earth, some of them possessed with a higher degree of intelligence than many of the white people.

We arrived at my cabin in the afternoon and found everything as we had left it. Evidently no one had been near the place during our absence. That evening, when discussing the events of our journey, I inquired:

"Now that you have traveled over a part of our planet and seen some of our people and their manner of living. What are your impressions concerning us?"

"There is much I cannot understand—many things puzzle me. Everywhere I have noted a spirit of unrest, discontent and unhappiness. The people seem to be seeking for something they do not find. And in addition to this there is all manner of lawlessness—dishonesty, jealousy, hatred, murder, robbery, warfare, disappointments, pain, sorrow, suffering and death! It appears as though a curse is resting upon this planet. There is something wrong—what is it?"

"You have well said there is something wrong. Our first parents, unlike yours, disobeyed the very first mandate of the Creator and, in doing so, immediately fell from the high estate in which they had been created, and brought all of this into our world, transmitting to their descendants the impulse to transgress the laws of the Creator. As a result we must all experience physical death at least, and perhaps worse."

"What an awful condition!" He exclaimed.

"A title no self-respecting insect would feel proud of!" taunted Peter.

"Well, maybe I'm not self-respecting but the name suits me all right."

The green monster nodded his head several times. Evidently the fellow was well pleased with himself.

Foster's Weather Forecast

Washington, February 21, 1931.—Storm wave of moderately severe force, expected to cross continent during week centering on 18, will move well down into southern states, following what is termed in these bulletins the "southern" transcontinental storm path. This storm period is expected to result in one of the open periods, extending into the far north, forecasted to occur during the present winter; a period unfavorable to winter grains as far south as principal winter grain belt of U. S., as cold wave following this period will be expected to reach down to the Ozarks and farther south in Rocky Mountain country. Storm wave of moderate force, expected to cross continent in central transcontinental storm path, northern winter wheat belt, during week centering on 26, will cause a period of below normal temperatures covering last week of February and first days of March; during passage of this storm center, moderate weather conditions will be general, before and after this storm center reaches your vicinity, cold waves will be expected to be general and to carry temperatures below normal or a little lower than usual. As a general advice for North America, early planting of all crops is advisable for Spring of 1931, but, excepting southern Texas and other areas that are below the frost line, it will not be advisable to let warm period during last half of February rush planting ahead of time when it would be done during the average season. By the end of March I will expect sufficient surface moisture to be present over practically all of continent to give spring planting a good start; moisture is now coming to the dry spots about as expected, probably a little heavier in parts of Texas than forecasted; distribution of precipitation during balance of February and month of March will be general and favorable to all crops in the ground at that time or shortly to be planted.

Forecasts of cropweather features expected during March will appear in next weekly bulletin. Moon phases that occur during the near future are as follows, given to nearest hour of Greenwich Civil time; to change Greenwich Civil time to your local Standard time, count one hour earlier for each fifteen degrees of longitude you are located west from Greenwich: First Quarter February 25 at 11 hours; Full Moon March 4 at 11 hours; Last Quarter 11 at 5 hours; New Moon 19 at 8

INCOME TAX FACTS

NO. 18

Persons engaged in business sustain losses by the theft of goods or automobiles, or the accidental destruction of machinery or other property. As such losses are part of the hazards of a business, they are recognized by the income-tax law as property deductible from gross income, provided they are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

Deductible losses fall within the three following classes:

(1) If incurred in trade or business; or (2) if incurred in any transaction entered into for profit, thereof not connected with trade or business; or (3) if property not connected with the trade or business, if the loss arises from fires, storms, shipwreck, or other casualty, or from theft.

A person who buys an automobile to be used for business purposes and sells it at a loss has had a deductible loss falling within class 1. The taxpayer's neighbor bought an automobile to be used for pleasure and sustained a loss when he sold it. As his loss does not fall within any of the three classes indicated, it is not deductible. This taxpayer, however, bought securities and sold them at a loss. Although not engaged in the business of selling and buying securities, his loss is deductible, as it falls within class 2. Another neighbor bought an automobile to be used for pleasure which was stolen. The loss is deductible, as it falls within class 3. Falling within class 3 also is a loss sustained by a taxpayer whose home is destroyed by fire or whose summer bungalow is damaged by storm.

While losses by theft or burglary are deductible it must be established that the property—jewelry, for example—actually was stolen. Should circumstances attending the loss leave the owner in doubt as to whether it was stolen, misplaced or lost from his person, the claim would not be allowed.

Evidence Gleaned By Wickersham Board Is Placed Before Senate

"The Evidence" Proves As Paradoxical As Report, —Opinions Differ

Colonel Woodcock Gives Home-Brewing Left-Handed Endorsement

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Two warring camps bulging with "the evidence" upon which the Wickersham report based its amazing conclusions on prohibition were in the hands of the Senate today.

The evidence, or that part of it which the commission dared or cared to make public, proved as paradoxical and conflicting as the report of the commission itself. It ranged all the way from testimony that prohibition is a grand success to testimony that it is an absolute failure, and it was gleaned from persons in many walks of life.

Of all the thousands and thousands of words, probably the most important were those of Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, prohibition enforcement director in the administration's new enforcement set-up under the department of justice.

"Home option" was the phrase used by the prohibition director in describing the policy he believed best calculated to apply to the situation. Under "home option" those who want beer and wine may make and have them, and those who don't want them don't have to have them.

The law prohibits all forms of liquor can no more be enforced against the home-owner or home-brewer, Woodcock suggested, than can the laws against gambling be enforced to prohibit a game of bridge or penny-ante in the home—that is, without creating such a storm that the whole structure might be swept away on a wave of public indignation.

Presents Theory
In presenting his theory, Col. Woodcock said:

"I suggest, in reasoning with has much of sophistry but a gleam of common sense and of prophecy of what may be the final evolution of this troublesome question, not state, not country or district option, but home option."

"Any of the other plans of settlement leaves a troublesome and die-hard minority. Home option, about the same as individual option, eliminates the minority."

"If a citizen possesses liquor, or makes liquor in his home, and in such way as not be observed by the public, and if he properly supports his family, this policy would require that he be not disturbed."

"If he fails in a single public duty, if he breaks the peace in any way, if he fails to take care of his family, if he fails to keep himself fit to perform any public duty, the state steps in and punishes."

Cannot Prohibit
"This plan makes unlawful all commerce in liquor does not compel the dry to support a state dispensary, leaves the wet in the full enjoyment of any right which he believes he has, which may be exercised without affecting anyone else."

"The courts and agents ought not to be expected to prevent the making of liquor in the home for non-commercial purposes. They ought not to be expected to stop the consumption of such liquors any more than the courts and police are expected to stop a game of bridge in a private home, with no commercial aspect."

"This conception is a confession that prohibition cannot prohibit."

Whether Attorney General Mitchell and other cabinet officers who appeared before the committee endorse Woodcock's solution of the problem, was not disclosed.

Nowhere in the young library of documents and transcripts of testimony was there any that quoted Mitchell. He appeared before the commission several times, but his views were given in confidence, and the commission withheld them, along with a mass of other testimony that Judge Wm. S. Kenyon, referred to in his individual report a month ago as so startling in its bearing on graft and corruption that a congressional investigation was warranted.

Four specific recommendations were made by Col. Woodcock aimed at the promotion of better cooperation between the states and the federal government.

Opinions Given

1. A law making it an offense for anyone to withhold knowledge of a felony.

2. A financial subsidy to the states from the federal government "conditioned upon their bringing their law enforcement agencies to a certain standard."

3. A direct payment to state officials for each successful prosecution.

4. A special staff in each enforcement district to make investigations and to lay evidence before the local prosecuting agencies.

Some of these suggestions, if carried out, he admitted, might be conducive to abuses. Apparently the commission was of the same opinion, for it incorporated none of them in its report.

Col. Woodcock's suggestions to make home-brewing legally respectable had the endorsement of Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition, and now general counsel for the California vineyardists who are engaged in a national campaign of selling grape concentrate which, if let alone, nature, turns into wine in the home.

Mrs. Willebrandt told the commission that Congress intended to especially exempt the home-owner from prosecution for allowing his fruit juices to become stronger than the one-half of one per cent allowed under the Volstead Act. She did not explain, however, why, then, Congress arbitrarily set the limit of legal alcoholic content at one-half of one per cent.

Different Views
A totally different view was taken by James J. Britt, former general counsel of the prohibition unit. Judge Britt thought that section 29 of the Volstead Act, under which Mrs. Willebrandt thought home-brewing ought to be radically revised. He believed it out of line with the spirit of the constitution.

Included in the voluminous mass of testimony were statements by labor leaders, educators, manufacturers, industrialists, bankers, sociologists and many others—all revealing a vast conflict of opinions as to whether the law is desirable, whether it is enforceable, and varying widely as to prevalent conditions.

Also included were the results of surveys in 32 of the 48 states. Why there were only 32 was not explained.

The Senate probably will do nothing with the report except to read it at its individual leisure, and extract from it such evidence as it desires to bolster individual arguments for and against prohibition. From that standpoint, the evidence will be dribbled into the Congressional record, bit by bit, for many months to come.

Both the wets and the dries can find plenty in it to support their positions.

Many Red Cross Chapters Exceed Quotas In Fund

Close To Nine Million Dollars Now Raised In Drought Relief Campaign

With the National Red Cross Drought Relief fund at the $8,759,000 mark on Thursday, chapters throughout the nation which had not yet reached their quotas were urged to renew their efforts during the coming week to attain the goal established for them.

An interesting feature of the report sent the local chapter yesterday, was the fact that 187 chapters in the eastern states have exceeded their original quotas, making a total of 650 for the country as a whole.

Of the sections reporting, the Midwestern area was nearing $2,000,000 toward the goal. In addition, that area reported 74 additional carloads of food donated, making a total of 398 carloads, aggregating 16 million pounds from central and western states alone.

Relief is being extended in Oklahoma by 58 Red Cross Chapters, using 3,432 volunteers. Among the beneficiaries, it is stated are 1,581 Indian families.

Surprise Program Features Evening At Third Church

The members of the Men's class of the Third United Presbyterian church proved themselves royal entertainers Friday evening when they had their wives, sweethearts and members of the Y. L. B. class as special guests.

A splendid crowd filled the church parlors and the session quartet pleased with several selections, after which the surprise of the evening came when Griff Lewis and Jack O'Neill appeared before the group as two colored boys and seated themselves before a radio and as they turned the dial from station to station, out in person came the radio characters.

First there was the Little German band, which was directed by Gilbert Colnot, and the antics of the band members as well as the music received plenty of applause. Next there were the well known characters, Amos and Andy, portrayed by D. C. Brown and Roy McCown, and Andy's "sitteatins" and "propoliions" brought forth peal after peal of laughter.

Hawaiian guitar duets were furnished by Frank Candiotti and Walter Earl; John Kierker and David Jones sang special numbers and during the evening the Y. P. C. U. orchestra, under the leadership of Watson Wilson, furnished the musical numbers.

The men further demonstrated their ability as hosts when they served a most delicious lunch, which closed an evening of rare entertainment.

Liberty at 3:51 this afternoon. At Tyrone the party would detain and go by automobile to Rockview.

As Irene and Dague left, a thousand or more people crowded around the jail seeking a vantage point to get one last look at the famous pair. For newspaper men and news cameramen the departure was the end of a sleepless vigil that had lasted since Thursday noon. As Howard Kelley, driving the car containing Irene and Dague swung out into Court street, several newspaper cars followed after him, determined to trail the party until it landed in Rockview prison.

Prisoners Sing Hymns
Shortly before they left, the prisoners on both floors of the county jail put on a short service. Up on the second floor, the women sang "The Old Rugged Cross" and "In The Garden." As they finished, the men on the first floor sang "Where He Leads Me I Will Follow." As they sang, Dague stood in the corner, chin erect, apparently ready to carry on to the bitter end without any signs of weakness. His spiritual adviser, Rev. H. O. Teagarden did not accompany the party.

One other car made the trip to Rockview today, but not in the wake of the prison party. This car contained John Schroeder, brother-in-law of Irene, and her aged father Joseph Crawford. All his emotion has been spent, his eyes were tearless, and he seemed just a broken old man, who was going through his own Gethsemane.

He had little to say. "Dejectedly he said, 'I want to be out there with Irene and we're going. Goodbye.' "There is nothing we can say now," said Mr. Schroeder. "We will come back to New Castle Monday and pick up little Donnie and then go on to West Virginia. Irene has not broken down."

Donnie Says Goodbye
Early today, little Donnie Schroeder, five year old son of Irene, said his last goodbye to his mother.

Bright beyond his years, the awful import of this last goodbye seemed to be beyond his comprehension and he bade her a cheery goodbye as she kissed the little fellow for the last time, tears were in her eyes, but she did not collapse.

Some of the women prisoners in the jail were affected as Irene passed out of their sight. "Goodbye Irene was shouted by them. "Goodbye honey, goodbye Angeline" Irene called as she entered the garage to be put into the automobile.

It was the last time the Gun Girl and her paramour would ride together. On their road they passed over the spot on the Butler road where on December 27th, 1929 they murdered Corporal Brady Paul and wounded Private Ernest Moore. Still further in Butler they would pass the stores where earlier on that same day they bound and gagged Wish Angert in his own store, and bound and gagged an aged customer who interrupted their bandity.

Arrive This Afternoon

Sometime this afternoon Irene and Dague will arrive in Rockview. The great prison gate will swing back to receive them, the automobile will drive up to the Death House door, and they will be placed in the Death Cells, there to wait for seven o'clock Monday morning when Executioner Robert Elliott, acting for the people of Pennsylvania, will carry out the provisions of their sentences, "that force of electricity be passed through body in sufficient strength to cause death."

The ride over the mountains of Pennsylvania today is the next to the last link in the long chain of legalities that brought them from the Oestrilla mountains in Arizona, back to Pennsylvania. Their every effort to escape punishment for their crimes was blocked.

They fought extradition in Phoenix, Arizona, and lost. They set up several theories of defense in their trials in March 1930, and lost.

They appealed to the Supreme Court of the state for a new hearing and lost. They appealed to the Pardon Board for commutation, and lost. They made their last desperate appeal to Governor Pinchot for a further respite and lost.

Their last hope of mercy on earth is gone. They have exhausted every legal possibility they could find. Defiant when they were caught, contemptuous of the penalty as they professed to be, they nevertheless took advantage of everything they could, only to be turned back by the stern, relentless decisions of the courts and the Pardon Board.

The end of their crimson pathway of banditry is in sight. Just around the corner is a chair, in a cheerless room on the second floor of the building in Rockview. Here they will find for themselves, the awful truth of that age old truism, "the wages of sin is death."

Goes Through Kittanning
(International News Service)

Kittanning, Pa., Feb. 21.—Moment by moment—hour by hour—mile by mile Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague were whirling nearer and nearer to the gaunt death chamber—and its little oaken chair with straps and buckles—this afternoon.

Leaving the Lawrence county jail at New Castle shortly after 11:30 o'clock this morning, the high-powered limousine bearing Pennsylvania's most infamous criminal couple sped southeastward to Butler, arriving there about 12:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The run from Butler to Kittanning, ordinarily covered in a half hour, consumed about one hour. The car, bristling with armed guards, flashed through Kittanning about 1:35 p. m. Irene could be plainly seen in the rear seat. She was chuckling and smiling. She nodded an acknowledgement of the shouts of throngs here that greeted the appearance of the machine.

Allot Spaces For Auto Show

Final Arrangements Are Made At Meeting Of Dealers Last Evening

Other Cities Will Cooperate In Making Coming Exhibition Successful

Spaces were drawn by members of the New Castle Automobile Dealers Association, at their meeting held in the Elks club last evening, when final arrangements for the big show to be held on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, February 26, 27, and 28, were completed.

It was announced by Manager Ray F. Hall this morning, that all the accessory spaces had been taken and present indications point to one of the most successful shows ever held by the local Association.

There will be 62 cars in the big show which opens Thursday, practically every make of car which is sold in the city, having been entered in the show.

Representatives of the local association have visited Beaver Falls, Butler, and Sharon, and have been assured of the whole-hearted support of these associations in the local show. Window cards have been distributed in these cities and assurance have been received that delegations from these cities will be present to attend the show.

One of the big features of the exhibition will be the entertainment offered both afternoon and evening during the exposition. A fashion revue will be put on each evening of the show under the management of the New Castle Dry Goods Company, and in addition, there will be many novel features.

Work of getting the two dining rooms and dance hall in readiness for the show will be started on Monday, and by Wednesday evening, all the cars will be in place in readiness for the show to start.

The price of admission for adults has been lowered this year, which is expected to result in increased attendance.

Claims Fifteen Million Motorists Have Poor Eyesight

Survey Shows Great Number of Motorists Have Defective Vision

In connection with a series of surveys on the need for universal adoption of driver's license laws, Ralph W. Bolsinger, president of the New Castle Motor Club, declares that their importance is emphasized by the number of drivers with poor vision.

On the basis of reports received from National Headquarters of the American Automobile Association, Mr. Bolsinger pointed out that of the 32,000,000 operators of motor vehicles in the country, more than 15,000,000 have defective sight.

"Fifteen per cent of all drivers," he asserted, "or 4,800,000 need eyeglasses, eight per cent or 2,560,000 should be given restricted licenses, permitting them to drive only when wearing glasses, and one per cent or 320,000 should be denied the right to drive entirely because of poor vision."

"The importance of this condition is clearly seen when it is realized that only fifty-two per cent or 16,640,000 of all drivers possess perfect eyesight."

The A. A. A. club executive here asserted that this is only one of many conditions which clearly show the need of universal adoption of drivers' license laws.

"Under such laws, the operator is required to prove his ability, both mental and physical to drive a motor vehicle," he added.

"With the number of motor fatalities mounting from year to year, it is of vital importance that the states without licensing laws enact them at the forthcoming sessions of the legislatures."

Pennsy Traffic Is Halted By Wreck

Trainman Injured Seriously, Sixty-Five Freight Cars Are Piled Up

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 21.—Traffic over the New York division of the Pennsylvania railroad was halted four hours, a trainman was seriously injured and 65 freight cars were scattered over the right of way when two freight trains crashed at the Frankford Junction near here today.

John Burchell, 32, of Trenton, N. J., a brakeman, may die of the injuries received in the crash, hospital attendants said.

The brakeman was catapulted out of the cab of his locomotive to the tracks below. He was removed to the Frankford hospital suffering a fractured skull and a broken leg.

Strikers Force Workers To Quit

Crowd of 150 Textile Strikers Crash Gates and "Clean Out Plant"

(International News Service)

LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 21.—Crashing through the gates of the Wood mill of the American Woolen company, a crowd of 150 textile strikers and their sympathizers today rushed into the big plant, threw off the power switch, cut the power belts and swept into the street before them 2,500 operatives who had not joined the walk-out.

The "raid" on the wood mill was similar to the method used in clearing the mills at the time of the 1912 strike. Police were called but there were no clashes as the mill operatives left their work in orderly fashion.

Miss Edith Berkman of San Francisco, organizer of the National Textile Workers' Union, who has been at the head of the strike, was not seen at Wood mill today.

FLOWERS MAY BE CULTIVATED AND ENJOYED INDOORS AS WELL AS OUT

The person who loves plants and flowers but does not have a garden may cultivate and enjoy this hobby indoors as well as out. You may start your plants from seed in suitable compost and container. To make the compost, mix together through a quarter-inch sieve equal parts of mellow garden loam, peat moss and sharp sand. Prepare the containers by putting in the bottom a layer of drainage material half an inch in thickness. For the tiny seeds use earthenware, for the larger ones wooden boxes. A pan to grow fine seed is pictured below, center. Control moisture at the surface of the soil by keeping the seed pan covered with a pane of glass, and watering from the bottom by setting the container in a pan of water. Seedlings must be transplanted when they begin to be crowded, as at right. New plants from old may be obtained for the indoor garden by cuttings.

At left below are slips from, top, dusty miller; second row, rose, fuchsia; below, left to right, pelargonium, coleus, geranium. Above, left, cuttings that have formed roots. The one at the left is not quite ready to be repotted; that at the right is ready for a larger pot.

Early Emigrants To Pennsylvania Mostly Old Swiss Families

Discover Passenger Lists Of Early Immigrants From The Palatinate

Rough Comparison Of Names Of "Who's Who" Of Today Is Shown

By WALTER DIETZEL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—Correct pedigrees of thousands of American families have been made possible through the discovery of new passenger lists of palatinate emigrants to Pennsylvania during the eighteenth and the beginning of the nineteenth century by Professor Hermann F. Macco, noted genealogist and historian of the Hoover family.

In most cases the emigrants belonged to former Swiss families, who emigrated to the Palatinate after the peasant revolution in 1641-53, but were driven from their new homes through the French invasion during the reign of Louis XIV.

Pennsylvania wonderland for them was the wonderland, where they expected to enjoy religious and personal freedom and would be freed from the heavy burdens of war tributes and taxation.

When, in the course of years, emigration increased to an extent that the authorities prohibited it altogether, the emigrants fled from their villages at the risk of their lives and wandered down the Rhine valley until they reached Rotterdam Harbor, an important emigration port. Often they had to wait for weeks until they could embark for America.

A rough comparison with names contained in the latest American "Who's Who" showed that the newly discovered passengers and emigration lists contain the following names of American families:

Agne (Agnew), Andrie, Baum, Bayer (Boyer), Bruckner, Bossart, Bartholmes, Buffel, Braun (Brown), Diehl (Deal), Draxel, Falk, Fleck, Fesler, Frick, Frey, Fuchs, Fisch (Fish), Fischer, Gebhard (Kephardt), Gerhard, Gerlach, Goebel, Graff, Gutt (Good), Gruen (Gruen), German, Haas, Hagart (Haggard), Hill, Hoffman, Huber, Hoff, Keck, Kiefer, Kolb, Kress, Keiper (Keller), Kettering (Kettering) Lang, Linn, Lutz, May, Maurer, Muller, Reinhardt, Ridder, Ross, Sevensen, Schmeltzer, Schwartz, Schwalder, Stadler, Stout, Stutz, Treiber, Trautmann, Wideman (Whiteman), Zimmermann.

FIGHT ON HOOVER APPOINTEE IS ON

George O. Smith

John W. Davis

Washington looks for verbal fireworks as John W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate in 1924, assumes leadership, as counsel for the senate, in the legal fight to remove George Otis Smith of Maine as chairman of the newly reorganized federal power commission. President Hoover contends that the senate is trying to encroach upon his executive authority in rejecting Smith's nomination after once confirming it. Attorney General William D. Mitchell upholds the president's stand.

Girl Well Known

Here Badly Hurt

Gladys Thompson, Almira, N. Y., Girl, Formerly Of New Castle, Hurt In Accident

Mrs. W. Scott McCaslin of East Washington street is in receipt of word that her niece, Miss Gladys Thompson of Almira, N. Y., is in the Arnot-Ogden Hospital at Almira, N. Y., suffering from serious injuries sustained in an auto accident she met with a week ago.

Miss Thompson, in stepping from a street car, was struck by the car driven by Albert J. Rietmann, a barber of Almira, and a close friend of the Thompson family.

Mr. Rietmann, when he saw the young lady directly in his path, immediately applied his brakes, and swerved to the side, hitting Miss Thompson, and knocking her for a distance of 35 feet. In this attempt to stop he struck two telephone poles, and in some manner, his car hit the young lady a second time.

Upon examination at the hospital, it was found she had fractured her skull and her pelvic bone was broken in three places.

Miss Thompson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Thompson, the former who is the son of Frank Thompson, who with his wife lives at present in Leeburg, are well known here. Mrs. Thompson was formerly Anna McCaslin, a sister of Scott McCaslin and Mrs. J. W. Johnston of Mottontown, this city.

The Thompson family lived here until twenty years ago when they moved to Almira, and they have many friends and relatives here who will regret to learn of the accident.

Bandit Wounded In Attempted Robbery At Clementon, N. J.

Post Office Bandits Chased By Policeman—One Is Badly Wounded

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., Feb. 21.—Leaving a wounded confederate crumpled on the sidewalk, two burglar suspects escaped after trying to rob the Clementon post office near here early today.

The wounded man gave his name as Joseph Horst, 37, of New York. He was shot in the hip by Patrolman George Miller, who said he saw a machine standing in front of the post office and fired one of his rounds on the first floor open.

At the same time the trio spied him, Miller said and two of them jumped into the car, but he shot his down as he ran for the machine. The other two sped away in the auto.

Harris was taken to the Cooper hospital here where it is said he will recover.

Apparently after having been reprimanded by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pollock, Clara Pollock, a seventeen year old girl of South New Castle boro, drank lye water Thursday about noon and is now in a serious condition in the New Castle hospital.

Reports from the hospital this morning show her condition to be about the same and the attending physician says he cannot tell yet what vital organs may be burned, as it seemed the girl drank quite a quantity of the lye.

Former Policeman Is Found Guilty

Former Erie Policeman Faces Twelve Years Sentence

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Feb. 21.—Val Scott, former Erie policeman, today, faced a possible maximum sentence of 12 years as the result of his conviction of voluntary manslaughter in the slaying of George Herman, proprietor of the Hoffman House.

Herman was shot and killed last December 5. Scott has steadfastly maintained his innocence.

South New Castle Boro Girl In Hospital In Serious Condition

Apparently after having been reprimanded by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pollock, Clara Pollock, a seventeen year old girl of South New Castle boro, drank lye water Thursday about noon and is now in a serious condition in the New Castle hospital.

Reports from the hospital this morning show her condition to be about the same and the attending physician says he cannot tell yet what vital organs may be burned, as it seemed the girl drank quite a quantity of the lye.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Father Of Our Country Is Still Inspiration To Youth—Dr. Myers

Washington's Attitude Toward His Mother, His Family And Countrymen Altogether Admirable

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parent Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

The Father of Our Country is still an inspiration to children and their parents.

Although the cherry tree story may be a myth, the attitude of George Washington toward his mother and his own family, toward his fellow countrymen, and theirs, in turn, toward him, are strong evidence of his remarkable integrity.

We admire him for his vision while still a youth, for his systematic mode of self-improvement, self-education, for his industry, and for his extraordinary will power. Always he had definite plans in private and in public life. Nothing small or large could turn him from his plans once he felt sure that he was right. Perhaps no American has ever met with so many discouragements and difficulties as he did in public life. Certainly none ever rose so victoriously above them.

George Washington did not stoop to do or say small things. He was a model of poise, graciousness and dignity.

One of the most beautiful things of his life was his visit to his old mother just before entering office as the first president of the United States.

The Literary Digest for May 10, 1930, carried on its front cover a reproduction of the painting by Ferris of "Washington's Farewell to His Mother (1789)".

Mr. Ferris has written:
"An affecting scene ensued. The son remarked the ravages which disease had made upon the aged frame of his mother, and address her with these words: 'The people, madame, have been pleased to elect me to the Chief Magistracy of the United States, but before I can assume the functions of my office I have come to bid you an affectionate farewell.
So soon as the weight of public business which must necessarily attend the outset of a new government can be disposed of, I shall hasten to Virginia and—here the matron interrupted with—'And you will see me no more; my great age and disease warn me that I shall not be long for this world; I trust in God that I may be somewhat prepared for a better. But go, George, fulfill the high destinies which heaven appears to have intended for you;

go, my son, and may heaven's and a mother's blessing be with you always."

"Her hand was laid upon his bowed head, and the great man's frame trembled while a sob burst from his breast, for already he saw the shadow upon her.

"When Washington rose to go,
she went with him to the door, leaning fondly upon his arm, and stood upon the threshold to repeat a last adieu."

Let us at this time encourage our older children to read the life of George Washington, and tell the younger ones about him. Let us talk about this great man at the dinner table. The children will find great amusement and enlightenment in enumerating the conveniences we today enjoy which George Washington and his parents never knew about.

Nevertheless, the problems of conduct of right and wrong, of character, indeed, are not fundamentally different.

Proper Diet Essential For Health Of Teeth

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
DENTAL CARIES (decay) occurs most frequently from the ages of 7 to 20.

That fact is worth considerable attention. Casual reflection would probably result in the belief that disease of the teeth occurred largely in middle age. Older people have their own difficulties with their teeth. The teeth structures tend to atrophy as time goes on—the gums recede, the sockets are not as strong as formerly—but decay of the surface of the teeth is much more characteristic of young life than old.

In fact, it may be said that if we can start people out in life with good sound teeth, the surface is likely to endure for a lifetime. It is not quite true of the teeth that if you save the surface you save all, but it helps a lot.

In doing so just as much depends on what happens to the teeth from inside as from the outside. We have been warned, and properly, about the things that candy and other soft foods will do to the teeth, but the fact remains that if the general body nutrition is such as to make good, hard teeth, they will stand an awful lot of punishment from the outside. The teeth are part of the body, and what the blood brings them is just as important for their health and development as what the waitress brings them.

Recent studies on different groups of children indicate that diet is far more efficacious than "dental hygiene" in preventing caries. Children who were given a diet of milk, green vegetables and fruit in preponderance, and who were also supervised in the daily use of an antiseptic mouth wash, had only 5 or 6 per cent of active dental caries. In a control group in which no special supervision of the diet was attempted, but who were made to practice mouth antiseptics, showed 50 per cent with active dental caries. In still another group the proper diet was administered, but no mouth wash was used; and only 6 per cent had active dental caries at the end of the observation period.

Such observations have to be taken, in my opinion, with a grain of salt, or at least a grain of explanation. Certainly it would be unwise from a study of these experiments to decide to leave your children from the prophylactic rites of oral hygiene and banish the tooth brush.
They do indicate, however, the great dependence of teeth on the diet for the proper development of their hardness and resistance.

Milk, especially, is to be recommended in large quantities for this purpose. It contains a large amount of calcium which goes into the structure of the teeth and also other substances which appear to be needed for their proper petrification.

In regions of the earth—primitive dairying and cow-herding regions such as the Punjab of India, where the natives are accustomed to drink as much as a gallon of milk daily throughout their lives—it is by no means uncommon to find a set of perfect teeth in the mouths of men and women over 80 years of age. A dental authority recently said that every child should consume at least a quart of milk a day in order to secure the minerals which are essential to proper bone and tooth development.

Two Slayings Are Hanged To Death In West Virginia

Emery Stevens, 24, And William Claude Adams, 40, Are Put To Death

CURTAIN USED TO SCREEN GALLOWES

(International News Service) MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Feb. 21.—With the attendant innovation of a curtain which was drawn across the gallows, two convicted slayers had paid with their lives today in a double execution at the West Virginia penitentiary here.

Emery Stevens, 24 and William Claude Adams, 40, mounted the gallows last night side by side. The trap was sprung, sending both of them to their death by hanging, exactly at 9 o'clock. Stevens was pronounced dead 11½ minutes later and Adams one minute after him.

As the doomed men were led up the steps, a curtain, for the first time in the history of executions in the prison here, was drawn across the men, screening them from the view of the witnesses. However, they had taken their places on the trap before the curtain was drawn and a view permitted spectators and witnesses. The pair went to their fates calmly and without visible signs of fear.

The delayed execution came after a reprieve had been granted each man. The original date set for the hanging was January 23.

Stevens was convicted of the shooting of Leonard Ooten, a taxi driver, near Williamson, W. Va., Oct. 2, 1930. Adams fatally shot his wife, her mother and his wife's aunt at Cinderella, W. Va., last October 1.

FINAL INCIDENTS IN LIFE OF GUNWOMAN AND LOVER

These remarkable photographs vividly portray the closing chapter in the sensational case of Irene Schroeder, blonde gunwoman and her lover, Glenn Dague, whose last hope of escaping the electric chair, February 23, for the murder of a Pennsylvania state patrolman in December, 1929, has vanished. Up- per left, believed to be the only photo taken of Dague, in jail at New Castle; lower left, Donnie, Irene's son, with Irene's sister, Mrs. Frank Muldoon, and her brother-in-law, Frank Muldoon, as the three left Gov. Gifford Pinchot's office at Harrisburg, following a last appeal; center, Irene, behind the bars at New Castle (copyright by the New York Daily Mirror); right, an exclusive photo of Mrs. Dague, with one of her two children, after she had said good-bye to her husband in jail at New Castle, Pa. ## WASHINGTON EXTOLLED IN TALK AT ANNUAL J. O. U. A. M. BANQUET

The human qualities so well exemplified by George Washington, the father of his country, have a parallel in the humanitarian work conducted by the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, Joseph Beaverson, past state councilor of the order declared in an address at the eighth annual Washington Day banquet of Castle Council No. 365, J. O. U. A. M. in the Croton M. E. church dining hall Friday evening.

Beaverson, the principal speaker at the annual event, spoke on the life and accomplishments of Washington, brought out the high qualities of the great man whose task of bringing victory to the 13 colonies required great military strategy. The speaker lauded the patriotic character of the order and its work to commemorate the heroes of America.

Beaverson also included in his address a description of the work done by the order in maintaining the great orphans home in Tiffin, O., where over 1,000 children from 24 states are housed.

About 150 members of the order and their friends attended the banquet. The W. F. Shippe, pastor councilor of Castle Council, was toastmaster. "Patriotism" was the subject of the talk by Rev. Clifford S. Joshua, pastor of the Croton M. E. church. Rev. Joshua, the first speaker to be called by the toastmaster explained the value and importance of patriotism and added that he had become an American by choice. Rev. Joshua was born in Wales.

Rev. Mrs. Margaret M. Joshua, the wife of the pastor, herself a minister, gave an analysis of the excellent training given in the J. O. U. A. M. orphan's home, adding that no case of moral delinquency has been known in the home for many years.

Two good readings were presented by Miss Marian Shaffer.

The W. F. Shippe, Wallace and McCormick, entertained with musical selections.

Beaverson, the principal speaker, at the banquet helped to organize the New Castle council in 1922.

Judge Hands Down Order Reducing Stock Valuation

Stock Held By Miss Marie McGinley Is Reduced $7.00 By Order Of Court

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Feb. 21.—Valuation of the stock of the West Penn Steel Company, formerly of Brackenridge, held by Miss Marie McGinley, daughter of the late John McGinley, (CQ) an executive of the company, was reduced $7 a share in a final decree handed down by Judge Elder W. Marshall on file in common pleas court today.

The jurist's ruling is applicable to all other stockholders who contested the company's merger with Allegheny Steel Company.

Under a plan by which West Penn shareholders were to receive 7 1-2 Allegheny shares for each West Penn share. The two companies were merged May 6, 1929. Holders of 2,122 shares, including the McGinley estate which held 897 shares refused to surrender their stock. Suits were filed in equity and the court was asked to fix the valuation of the West Penn stock.

The Allegheny company filed exceptions to Judge Marshall's ruling last November when the valuation was fixed at $428 a share. It was stated that the $421 valuation is still considerably in advance over the value fixed by the merger plan.

Three Sentenced To Mercer Jail

Two Men And Woman Sentenced To Jail On White Slave Act Charge

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Feb. 21.—Convicted of conspiracy to violate the Mann White Slave Act, George Mitchell, of Farrell, and George Rodich, of Masury, O., today were under sentence to serve four months in the Mercer county jail.

Mrs. Mary Vicozi, of Masury, was sentenced to serve a three months term. All sentences were imposed by Federal Judge Nelson McVicar.

According to the government, the trio was involved in the transportation of Marian Warring, 19, from Farrell to Masury, last December 24.

The girl was said to have been taken to the home of Mrs. Vicozi.

Close Revival Sunday Evening At Hoover Heights

Nearly every seat was taken last evening at the Revival service being held at the Hoover Heights Tabernacle, Morris street. With much vigor the congregation sang the old time songs, Rev. T. J. Keegan, assisting with the slide trombone. Rev. Keegan also played several selections on the piano accordion and the musical saw. He sang several choruses and the hymn "Jesus Is Tenderly Calling Today." These were all very well received and much appreciated.

Rev. Frank B. Collett, the evangelist, brought another capable sermon on the subject "Answered Prayer."

This evening it is expected that the quartet from the Gospel Tabernacle, Pearson street will be present to sing. There will also be some friends from the People's Mission taking part in the musical program, and it is possible that John Paton will be present to give some violin selections. Tomorrow morning the young ladies quartet will sing and at the evening service Mrs. John Wink and Mrs. L. A. Rigby will sing. These meetings will close with a service tonight and the services tomorrow.

Turkey Hen Makes Egg Laying Record

Clarence Staph of Wampum, is the owner of a youthful Turkey hen, who has established an egg laying record that will be hard to beat.

In the first place, the ordinary young Turkey hen does not start to lay eggs until March or April or in other words in the early spring following its maturity.

This turkey hen started laying the last of January and up until yesterday had laid an egg a day for twenty-three consecutive days, which is another pretty good record. Mr. Staph plans to have the eggs hatched and increase the number of this fine egg laying strain of turkeys.

Mr. Staph won the turkey in a shooting match at Youngstown last Thanksgiving time and deciding to keep it, put it in with other turkeys in his possession. It has proven such a good producer of eggs that it is probable that it will be some time before it graces a dinner table.

Heredity, shock or severe illness will often cause premature grayness.

Revivals To End Sunday

Preparations Being Made For Overflow Meetings During Day

DR. PEACOCK TO SPEAK TWICE

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 21.—Preparations are completed to accommodate the largest crowd ever to attend a revival meeting here Sunday at the finale of the revival service. In view of the great congregations that always pack the U. P. auditorium for the Sunday services the largest of all is expected to attend Sunday.

Arrangements have also been completed for holding an overflow service in the M. E. church Sunday evening. Dr. Luther K. Peacock will first speak in the M. E. church while the song service is being conducted in the U. P. church. He will then proceed to the latter while the former is having song service. Rev. H. D. Maxwell is in charge of the song service in the M. E. church and Rev. H. D. K. Huber in the U. P. church. Sunday at 2:30 Dr. Peacock will address women at a special service. The women are striving to beat the attendance record of the men set last Sunday.

Then at 7:30 p. m. Dr. Peacock will preach his last sermon at both churches. Also arrangements have been made to compensate Dr. Peacock for his valuable work here. The subject for the women's service will be "White Life" and in the evening the "Great Invitation." This evening's service will be on "The Short Fat Jew Up the Tree." ## Important Game In Shelby League Is Set For Tonight

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 21.—The Shelby league will be in full swing tonight as the Hot Mills and Office meet in the second game to decide who will reign for the second half and the one to meet the Specialty for the championship of the season. The Mechanicals will engage the champion Specialty in the first game. In view of the way the champions have been lately going the Mechanicals might produce another upset this evening.

A hot contest is anticipated in both games tonight, and so fans will come prepared for any shock. The addition of Freddy Johnston to the Office line-up has increased their offensive power and the Hot Mills will have to stop him in order to win the game.

Alumnae Girls Win From New Castle

Game Is Played As Preliminary To High School Game Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 21.—The fans in the Lincoln gymnasium were given a complete surprise last night, besides a real treat, as they witnessed the Ellwood Alumnae defeat the New Castle Alumnae in an exciting game by a 28-17 score.

It was formerly planned to have the preliminary game to the Ellwood-Zelenople contest be played between the varsity sextette and the alumnae, but Coach Helen Cooper had complete negotiations to entertain the New Castle alumnae at the "eleventh hour." This contest was just like old times—nearly the same teams that battled on the court for their dear old alma mater three and four years ago. For New Castle there appeared Ponion, Douthette and Patton at their favorite positions, forward; Kaufman and McGrath at center; Clark at side center, and Cowmeadow and Mears at guard. The high school faculty had started the game first, but after the period was well on its way was replaced by the Ellwood alumnae. That incomparable pair, Blazin and Thompson, were at forwards; Cooper at center; Stier at side center and Caplan and Ross at guards. A coincidence occurred that Miss Caplan again guarded Miss Douthette as in the New Castle game just recently, when the red and black maidens were defeated.

The usual rivalry was shown as the two teams struggled to obtain victory. The visitors had scored first and were in front, 6-5 at the end of the first quarter. Finally when the local alumnae had entered the fray and had gotten started the New Castle maidens were behind by a 15-7 score, being held to one point at the close of the first half. Coming out strong again in the third quarter, the Ellwood sextette continued to outscore the invaders, 7-1, and the period ended with a 22-6 score in their favor. The visitors had attempted a rally in the final period, but it was to no avail. The Ellwood alumnae was outscored, 9-6, in the final stanza, but the score stood in their favor, 28-17, at the close of the game.

Ellwood High Wins Game From Zelenople Five

Revamped Lineup Takes Contest Last Night By 31-24 Score

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 21.—Evidently the revamped lineup did not affect the Ellwood City High School passers as they defeated Zelenople 31-24 in a fine game. Considering that three regulars were absent from the lineup the locals made a very good showing for the first time, with the new players.

It became apparent that Zelenople was much improved since their previous encounter. In the initial period the teams seemed to alternate in scoring and a tie-up. It ended in a deadlock at 7 all. Nesbitt of the visitors scored first via the free throw line and then the boys began taking turns about in counting points for their respective teams.

At the opening whistle of the second period the locals started with a rush and registered thrice from the court before the invaders could make the hoops again. With a tightening up of the Ellwood defense the Zelenople lads could only get 4 points while the home team accumulated 10. Ellwood held a commanding lead of 17-11 at the half-way mark. Apparently not satisfied with their showing the Inglenmen came back strong again in the ensuing period and proceeded to outscore the visitors again 11-6 and increase their lead by 1 more point at the close of the period, score 28-17.

The final stanza was marked with much closer guarding by both squads. The Tubers in this quarter had to resort to defensive tactics to prevent a threatened rally by the visitors. They were held to 3 points while Zelenople accounted for 7 in this last period, making the final score at 31-24 for the Ellwood passers.

Cloak and Kennedy were the outstanding performers for the locals, although everybody entering the game contributed his share. Young, Nesbitt, and Smith were the best bets for the losers.

Unpardonable Sin Is Subject

Large Crowd Hears Dr. Peacock Speak on Subject Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 21.—There will be an overwhelming congregation at the Sunday services of the union revivals according to indications last night as Dr. Luther K. Peacock addressed those present. Dr. Peacock, as was planned spoke on the subject of "The Unpardonable Sin." The speaker spoke frankly on this and straight into the heart of the congregation. Murder, crime, desertion and many other things may be forgiven by God but blasphemy against the "Holy Spirit" is the Unpardonable Sin. This is the disdaining spirit of God. Dr. Peacock told of instances of people who sinned against God and of how dangerous it is to resist the will of God.

At the beginning of the services Dr. Peacock had unexpectedly called upon a trio of ministers to sing for the congregation. The Reverends H. D. Maxwell, Arthur M. Stevenson and C. Z. Bell the ones chosen had difficulty in getting started, but after the second attempt things went smoothly. A solo was rendered by James I. Croft at this time.

Rev. Stevenson was chairman at this occasion and the scripture was read by Rev. Bell and a prayer lead by Rev. H. D. K. Huber.

Services will continue this evening as usual at 7:30.

Teachers' Ratings High For Semester Bad Marks For Some

Now students of city schools can sit back and criticize their teachers' standing in scholastic endeavor.

Fifty-four or 15 per cent of the teachers in the schools of the city were highest in the distribution of teachers' ratings for the first semester, 1936-37.

One hundred sixty three, or 46 per cent of the teachers received high ratings.

Eighty-nine, or 25 per cent received "middle" ratings.

Forty, or 11 per cent received low ratings.

Nine, or 3 per cent received lowest ratings.

The distribution of the ratings for teachers is illustrated on a chart in the administration building.

Slight Accidents Reported To Police

C. T. Robinson of 1214 Highland avenue, reported that he was enroute south on Highland avenue at Falls street Friday as a car bearing Pennsylvania license DC351 going west on Falls street failed to make the main thoroughfare stop and the machines came together. Some damage was done to both.

REV. C. F. WHETSELL AT RESCUE MISSION

Rev. C. F. Whetsell of the Nazarene church, will be the speaker this evening at 7:30 in the City Rescue Mission, 17 South Mercer street.

He will use "The Word of the Cross" as his subject. The song service will be conducted by the superintendent, B. J. Watkins.

In this country the average worker spends only 30 per cent of his earnings for food and 70 per cent for comforts.

THE MAN WHO PAYS

The will to pay is hereditary, just as much as red hair or buck teeth. It is common fallacy that a man pays his debts because he has money. This is not necessarily true. On the contrary, the matter of paying has only a remote relation to money.

There are fellows with an abundance of money, who have to be cajoled into paying the most ordinary debt.

And there is the poor fellow without a visible dollar—you know him—who is Johnny on the invoice. Money has little to do with either case. It is the breed of the man.

The man who pays is the bulwark of society. He is the balance wheel of civilization. He is the mainspring of commerce. Business blesses him and he has honor among men for all time.

NEW CASTLE HIGH WINS SECTION THREE TITLE

NEW CASTLE HIGH TOPS BUTLER FIVE IN FAST GAME 21-16

Red And Black Passers Win Fifth Sectional Title Before 2,000 Fans

Coach Bridenbaugh Machine Looks Good Against Smooth Butler Quint

(Special To The News)

BUTLER, Pa., Feb. 21.—For the fifth consecutive year the New Castle high school basketball team will be among the schoolboys quintets battling for honors in the annual W. P. I. A. L. floor tournament which gets under way next week. On Friday night on the Butler high floor a "championship like" New Castle high five won a well deserved victory over a smooth and fighting Butler high team.

The final count was 21-16. A crowd estimated close to 2,000 watched the Tin City cagers capture the contest that won for them the Section Three title for the 1930-31 season.

The "titular" contest saw the Butler team grab off an early lead which was small. The first half of the game was a foul shooting contest, a total of 20 misses being chalked up against the two combinations. After Shaffer missed a foul for New Castle, Reiber gave the red and black clad boys a one-point lead when he sank one out of two fouls.

Defenses Work Well. Both teams made desperate tries to break through the cunning defense their opponents presented. Wolfgang gave the Soap Miners a small lead when he made a pretty shot from mid-court. Fitzmartin pulled up another marker when he sank one out of two fouls. Small but mighty Johnny Uram grabbed a sweet pass and dribbled through the Butler team for a pretty goal that tied the contest at 3 all.

After Fitzmartin missed a foul for Butler, Nick Uram stepped up to the charity line and made good a foul to give the New Castle representatives a one-point advantage. J. Uram accounted for another foul for New Castle.

The quarter ended 5-3, with New Castle on top. This quarter was featured by the good defense the two teams presented. Both quintets played their close guarding game and shots were scarce.

The second period proved another fast one with both teams making attempts to seize the lead. Reiber made good one foul out of two as the second quarter got under way. Keck brought a closer situation when he annexed two fouls to place his team behind one point, 6-5. This same Keck, Butler's premier forward, tied the game when he came through with another foul.

New Castle continued its fast passing in the hope of catching the Butler boys off guard. An opportunity came when Lasky, lanky New Castle center, was open under the basket. Andy scratched a pass from one of his team mates and rang in a double decker to place his team on top 8-6. This lead did not last long as Keck came through with two fouls in rapid order to tie the game for the second time this quarter.

N. Uram caged a foul to give New Castle a 9-8 lead as the whistle blew. This half proved a foul shooting contest with New Castle scoring five points from the charity line while Butler secured six.

Third Quarter. In the third quarter the two teams came out strong, determined to win. After Keck missed a foul for Butler, J. Uram made his free toss good to give New Castle a 10-8 lead. Shaffer was fouled twice and he made both tries good to place the Coach Bridenbaugh lads on top by four points. Luburno, Butler made a pretty dribble through the New Castle defense for a field goal to place Butler behind 12-10.

Jimmy Shaffer scored a bucket near the foul line on a pivot to place New Castle four points ahead.

Lasky made one of two fouls count. At this time Little replaced Kozak for Butler. Fitzmartin was fouled and managed to make the try count. Shortly after this, Keck dribbled around for a field goal under the basket to cut their opponents lead down to two points at 15-13.

The third quarter ended here. So far the game had proven a real floor contest and it was evident that the final chapter would prove a thriller as both teams prepared to show all they had in hopes of coming through in the final period.

Butler's chance of victory was demolished when Keck was ruled out of the game via the four personal fouls method. So far this had proven to be one of Butler's main reasons for having put up such a contest. Mintz replaced him. Reiber made good his foul try to give New Castle a three-point margin.

Reiber was ousted out of the contest too through the four personal foul rule method for New Castle. Hanlon was injected into the fray. Fitzmartin made the contest more interesting when he sank in a two pointer on a follow up shot. The score was now 16-15. Nick Uram demonstrated his coolness amidst a thunder of noise when he stepped up to the charity line to sink two fouls. Shaffer, who so far had played one of the best games of his career, practically clinched the game for New Castle when he rang in his second field goal as New Castle led 21-15.

John Uram was thrown out of the game through the four foul rule. Ostrosky replaced him. As Uram left the floor he was greeted with a big ovation for the exhibition he had given. Wolfgang annexed a foul for Butler to give the losers their 16th point. There remained a short time to play and New Castle didded with the ball during the remaining time. The final score was 21-16. The victory was a well deserved one for New Castle.

The tilt marked the 17th straight victory for the Coach Bridenbaugh machine this season. By virtue of the victory the Tin City cagers are 1930-31 champions of Section Three and will represent this district in the schoolboy tourney. A victory for Butler would have given it a tie for the sectional honors.

Butler gave New Castle the hardest battle of the season and the red and black boys were extended to win. The Heinerman coached machine proved every bit a tough opponent and should be complimented for the brand of ball they played. New Castle will now start preparing for the tournament. The red and black clad boys meet Ambridge high in the first round. The date has not as yet been set.

No Stars. There were no stars for New Castle last night. The entire quintet played like it never did this season. Nick Uram and Reiber at guards played an excellent game. Few shots did their opponents secure.

Andy Lasky at center time and again outjumped Wolfgang, Butler's pivot man. Along with this he came through with a field goal and a foul. The work of John Uram and Shaffer at forwards stood out for the winners. These two boys played the best game of their career. Uram accounted for one field goal and two fouls while Shaffer was high scorer for the evening with two double deckers and two fouls.

For Butler the work of Keck and Fitzmartin featured. The defense presented by Butler was a puzzling one. This can be viewed by the number of goals made. New Castle could secure but four while Butler came through with four also.

The summary:
New Castle 21 Butler 16
J. Uram ..... F ..... Fitzmartin
Shaffer ..... F ..... Keck
Lasky ..... C ..... Wolfgang
N. Uram ..... G ..... Luburno
Reiber ..... G ..... Kozak

Score by periods:
New Castle ..... 5 4 6 6—21
Butler ..... 3 5 5 3—16
Subs—New Castle: Ostrosky for J. Uram, Hanlon for Reiber; Butler: Mintz for Keck, Little for Kozak.

Field goals—J. Uram 1, Shaffer 2, Lasky 1, Fitzmartin 1, Keck 1, Luburno 1, Wolfgang 1.
Fouls—New Castle 13 out of 18, Butler 8 out of 18.

Kid Francis Defeats Shea

Italian Bantam-Featherweight Upsets Dope By Beating Eddie Shea

By LES KONKIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—This Kid Francis, the Italian bantam-featherweight who hasn't lost a bout since January 1929, is what you might call a costly fighter.

In 1928 the wise men of Broadway thought so little of the Italian bulldog that they made Archie Bell a 10 to 1 favorite to beat him. Francis won. Recently the sure-thing gamblers took another financial shellacking when Francis upset the dope by trouncing Jimmy Slavin, leading Irish featherweight.

Shea Was Favorite. Francis again proved costly to the "wise money" lads along the main stem last night when he scored an easy victory over Eddie Shea, the Chicago Phenom, in a ten-round shindig at Madison Square Garden. Shea, who had lost only three fights in the past five years, won only two rounds. Two were even and the other six went to Francis. Shea was the favorite at odds ranging from 8 to 5 to 2 to 1.

Bobbing, weaving and ducking and constantly forcing the pace, Francis forced Shea to the ropes time and again and weakened the pride of the midwest with his relentless body punching. Tommy Grogan, the knockout specialist from Omaha, floored Herman Perlick one of the Kalamazoo twins, five times and won the decision. Jack (Kid) Berg, the junior welterweight champion, who recently outpointed Perlick here, failed to floor him once.

Betty And Stella, Sprint Rivals, Meet Again On Boards

By JACK SORDS
Central Press Sports Artist

Betty and Stella are to battle again. The Northwestern university co-ed and the little Polish business girl from Cleveland are slated to pit their speed prowess against each other in Chicago, Feb. 23rd, in the first annual indoor track and field meet of the Military and Naval Athletic association.

Miss Betty Robinson was American 100-yard dash champion until last year when she was dethroned by Miss Stella Walsh who then went on to win the international 100-meter title in Poland last summer. Miss Myrtle Cook, a fleet Canadian miss, former Olympic champion and a possible winner in this event, will compete against the two American girls but the spotlight of public interest will be on Betty and Stella. With the ex-100 yard queen, running against the girl who dethroned her this race is a "natural."

The trio-rated the three greatest women sprinters in the world will be racing in a special event on the Military and Naval card—a 100-yard dash.

Victory in this race will win any one of the three unofficial recognition as the world's outstanding woman dash star. Stella is in trim for this race, having shown splendid bursts of speed in recent practice and official events.

Record time for the special is highly probable since all three girls are record breakers.

Prior to this indoor season Stella set new marks (indoor) for the 40, 50 and 220 yard events, besides new outdoor 100 and 220 yard records—all during 1930. Miss Robinson's five and four-tenths seconds for 50 yards (outdoor) set in 1929, still stands as a national record.

Ben Franklin Five Beats Harlansburg

Franklin Quintet Adds Harlansburg Five To List Of Victories, 20-19

In a game in which the winner was undecided until the final whistle blew, the Benjamin Franklin Junior high basketball team came through with another victory when they nosed out the Harlansburg team 20-19 in a game played on the Harlansburg floor on Friday.

The game was one of the best played on the Harlansburg floor this season. Motoko with four field goals was the best for the Franklin team while Montgomery and McCracken featured for the losers.

The summary:
Ben Franklin 20 Harlansburg 19
Motoko ..... F ..... J. McCracken
Negro ..... F ..... Johnson
Shellogg ..... C ..... Montgomery
Thomas ..... G ..... H. McCracken
Komic ..... G ..... S. McCracken

Field goals: Montgomery 4, H. McCracken 4, Motoko 4, Marella 1, Shellogg 1, Komic 1.

Fouls: Franklin 5 out of 11; Harlansburg 4 out of 8.

Referee: Leonard.

Grove City Tops Waynesburg 30-22

(International News Service)

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Feb. 21.—Grove City made it two straight today with the defeat of Waynesburg's floor quintet, 30-22. The Groves, flushed from their victory the previous night over Duquesne University, came through with a strong finish to down the Yellow Jackets. The game was close throughout the lead fluctuating several times. The half-way mark found the five deadlocked at 11 all.

Thiel-Westminster In Important League Tilt Tonight On Titan Gym

Lutherans Have Unpredictable Quint Which Must Be Watched

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Feb. 21.—Reminded that they took Thiel too lightly once this season and almost dropped a decision to the fighting Lutherans at Greenville, Coach "Pops" Harrison's Westminster college team is pointed for tonight's return game with the Greenville quint on the Titan court.

The entire Titan squad showed determination in workouts held this week, and every man is on edge waiting the start of the game tonight. Coach Benson has taught his team both a long-range and a short-range offense, and the Titan guards will be given a very busy evening trying to keep the Lutherans from running up the score.

Coach Harrison has decided to start Captain Phil Rice and Marsh Fisher at the guards; Bud Brownlee at center; and Jinx Hamas and Whitey Siljander at forward. Douglas, Kocheran, Newton, Considine, and Bobby will all be ready to be injected at forward if needed; Blauer will be available for guard; and Arthur and Williams will be ready for the center post.

On Monday night, Westminster meets the great Bethany college five on the home court in a game that promises to be one of best of the season. The Bisons, surprised and defeated at Bethany on Monday, will come to New Wilmington determined to even the count.

Thoroughbreds Are Named For Derby

Kentucky Derby Will Be Run At Churchill Downs On Saturday, May 16

(International News Service)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 21.—A field of 130 thoroughbreds including C. V. Whitney's Equipoise, leading money-winning two-year-old of last year, have been nominated for the fifty-seventh renewal of the Kentucky derby it was announced today by Col. M. J. Winn, president of the American Turf Association.

This year's renewal of the $50,000 added Kentucky derby, richest race of the blue grass country, will be run at Churchill Downs on Saturday, May 16.

The list of nominations made public at Churchill Downs today includes all but two of three of the leading two year olds of 1930. Besides Equipoise the nominations include two other two year old of last year which have ruled favorites in winter predictions, the Greentree stable's twenty grand and A. C. Bostwick's mate.

The phrase about "government of the people, by the people, for the people," was probably only another of Lincoln's little jokes.—The Florence Alabama Herald.

St. Mary's Tops Annadale 66-17

Saint Reserves Beat Westminster Freshmen—St. Mary's Girls Victors

THREE FAST GAMES AT AUDITORIUM

The St. Mary's A. A. basketball team increased their winning streak last night at the St. Mary's Auditorium by downing the fast Annadale team 66 to 17, in a lopsided battle. The St. Mary's Reserves beat the Westminster Freshmen 28 to 13. The St. Mary's girls team beat the Annadale girls 21 to 9. All three games were well played.

The Saints took a commanding lead in the first quarter of their game at 14 to 7. The first half ended 30 to 9. The visitors could not score effectively against the locals, whereas the Saints were dropping them through from all angles. The end of the third period found the locals ahead 52 to 15. The locals scored fourteen more points in the final period, against two for the invaders. Bruce Franklin entering the game as a sub was the star with eight baskets, while Uhle, Kulich and Jones also dropped several through the hoops. For the Annadale team the work of Saylor and R. Hovis was the best.

The Saint Reserves won their 13th straight game by dropping the Westminster Freshmen 28 to 13. The first quarter was slow, then the locals opened up. Kroen with four baskets led the locals in points, while Mielie was the best bet for the Westminster team.

The St. Mary's girls beat Annadale with Miss Travers leading scorer of the game with seven baskets, while Miss Dagnon, and Miss Sheridan also played good basketball for the locals.

SPYING ON SPORTS

By WILLIAM RITT

Central Press Sports Editor

Just as football, with overemphasis virtually exhausted as a timely topic, is about to fade into decent oblivion for at least a few months, Yale university grabs the game by the heels and slams it right across the sport pages again, eight-column headlines deep and black.

Yale's decision to close its grid season with Princeton in alternating years—possibly a minor news item in the grain belt—is big stuff in the so-called effete east. What are still referred to as Big Three football circles are shaken to the core by the news.

Harvary to play Yale the prelude to the Blue's annual Princeton game? Cambridge is agast. The Tigers to finish great Yale's football finale for the first time in three decades? Nassau is wild with joy.

If Yale's decision to put an end to the tradition of Harvard always being the Blue's final football foe was made by the New Havenites in hopes of renewing the sundered Big Three rivalry, the plan is already doomed.

The move, annoying Harvard no little, most likely has pushed the possibility of a Harvard-Princeton football reunion further into the remote future.

If Harvard interprets Yale's actions as an effort to force the Crimson school to recognize Princeton as a Yale opponent of equal calibre—"good night!" Harvard men have generally regarded their school as being Yale's dearest foe but now Yale appears to repudiate this. Natural, Harvard love for the Tiger is not increased.

Unbiased football followers are bound to applaud Yale's action. Disinterested folk all went to see the old Big Three system revived. While the three schools no longer rate unquestioned top rank in the pigskin picture the triangle rivalry of these three ancient schools added tone to the game.

The annual tri of football duels—Yale-Harvard, Yale-Princeton and Harvard-Princeton—were the original design from which all existing two-school football rivalries were patterned.

Though the Big Three football battles on a lost significance in terms of national championships, they interested every follower of the game for use of their traditional quality. And three Big Three games each year are far more interesting than just two.

KEEPING IT HOT

Stove League Gossip

Though Boston's Red Sox may again next season lack sufficient fielding defense and batting punch to raise their standard out of the American league dust, the club will have a decent amount of pitching strength.

Nope, pitching shouldn't worry Manager Shano Collins as he puts his charges through their spring training paces.

Added to Milt Gaston, Horace Lisenbee, Jackie Russell, Danny MacFayden, Ed Morris and Ed Durham this year Collins will have the services of Wiley Moore, Johnny Brillheart and quite a number of other capable flingers.

Moore is the last looking prospect of the newcomers. He seems to have regained his old ability which made him a life-saver for the Yankees several years ago.

Hurling for St. Paul in the American Association last season Moore appeared to have regained control of his curve ball and his sinker. He won 22 games, which is a swell record in any man's league.

In the same minor league, Brillheart, tossing for the Minneapolis Millers, won 18 contests last season. He is a southpaw.

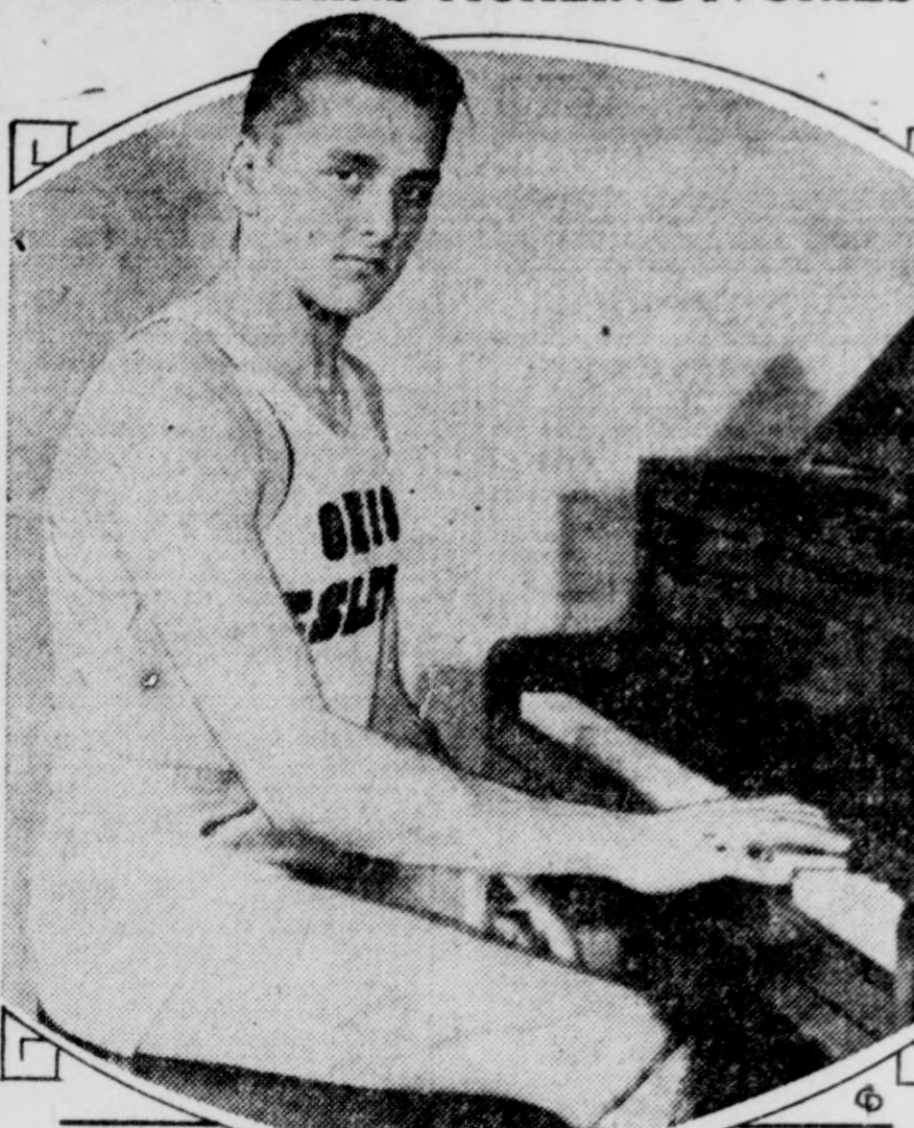

Another likely looking addition to the red posed mound squad is Bob Kline, who won 23 and lost but nine hurling for Erie, Pa., last season. If these three men continue in their 1930 form Collins is going to be one happy manager.

Geneva Defeats Allegheny 39-25

(International News Service)

MEADVILLE, Pa., Feb. 21—Geneva College's quintet today was in possession of a decisive victory over Allegheny's floormen, the final score being 39-25. Allegheny was leading during the early part of the game, but slipped before a basket barrage by Manning and Aultman of the Genevans during the second frame. Manning tolled 8 field goals and Aultman six.

CAGER TRAINS TICKLING IVORIES

To keep his large, powerful hands flexible and strong, Eric Gandrup, Ohio Wesleyan university basketball and football player and discus thrower, plays the piano. Eric's mitts are so large he can cover 12 keys, an octave and a half. He can also span 14 of the 20 keys of an accordion. And, oh, yes, he plays by ear.

Mt. Jackson Trims East Brook, 25-22

Fast Games Played At Mt. Jackson Friday; Jackson Lassies Win 26-7

Holding a small lead which they acquired during the first half of the tilt, the strong Mt Jackson High passers continued their good floor work by handing the East Brook high representatives a 25-22 defeat in a thrilling contest enacted on the Mt. Jackson floor on Friday night.

The Mt. Jackson girls played like they never did this season to win over the East Brook maidens by a 26-7 score. Keane and St. Clair featured for the Mt. Jackson boys while Krause and Schuller shared honors for the losers.

He's had a hard enough time getting asleep as it is.

Poor Howard Wortle! But the reason's plain.

The mother-in-law arrived today from up State.

For a three month's visit. And the Wortles never furnished their spare bed-room.

Mr. Wortle made a solemn vow that next morning he would read the Classified Ads; and from the many bargains offered there he would choose a bed-room suite.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Many Stocks Make New Highs On Eve Of Holiday

By W. S. COUSINS, International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Strong and persistent buying of the market favorites in today's short session forced prices to a new peak for the movement, many of the favorites reaching the best levels since last September's break.

Speculative enthusiasm, fanned by the new opportunities for money-making afforded in the spectacular rise in stock values this month, was again in evidence in the rush to buy the shares which have led the decisive upward move. Transactions in the first half-hour totaled 600,000 shares, punctuated by a rise of 10 1/2 points in Auburn. A 3-point jump in Houston Oil and an advance to the 1931 peak by American Can, United Gas Improvement, Consolidated Gas and other favorites.

Going into the second hour the market met stiffer opposition in the form of week-end and pre-holiday profit taking and short selling. Markets after today's closing do not re-open until Tuesday and many traders are adverse to "taking a position" over a double holiday. Vanadium, Dupont, Case and other speculative leaders sold slightly under Friday's closing prices.

Auburn Auto's 10 1/2-point rise to a new high at 209 1/2 was the feature of the specialties. Industrial Alcohol jumped 5 points to 72 1/2. Houston Oil went on a new rampage and moved up 4 points to 61 1/2, completing a 10 point rise since Monday. The annual reports, issued today, showed net income of $4.47 a share on the old stock in 1936. American and Foreign Power was in good demand and sold up 2 points at 44.

Railroad Ownership Names Are Revealed, Represent Millions

Royal Names Of Railroad Ownerships Are Shown In Committee Report

George F. Baker And Son, Vanderbilts, Arthur Curtis James Big Holders

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The royal names in railroad ownership today, as individuals, are George F. Baker and Son, of the First National Bank of New York; Arthur Curtis James and the Vanderbilt family, the report of the railroad investigating committee made to the House Friday disclosed.

The vast holdings of the Van Sweringens and other interests are in large part through holding companies and the extent of their holdings is more difficult to ascertain.

James Heads List
Arthur Curtis James, with 507,163 shares of railroad stock heads the list but the Baker holdings, based upon stock market quotations are more valuable.

The Baker interests, translated into stock market prices, total $48,024,798. The Vanderbilt family holdings reach $41,420,538, not including 34,358 shares of Chicago and Northwestern preferred and 4,268 shares of Union Pacific preferred. James' holdings exceed $16,300,000 not including minor holdings for which quotations are not readily available.

Edward S. Harkness, of New York, is another large investor. His stock values totaling $31,280,430, not including 8,434 shares of New York, Chicago and St. Louis common.

Many Royal Names
The other Royal family names given in the report are: Falmestock family with 89,546 shares; The Harriman family with 49,468; Whitney family with 35,000 shares and the Widener family with 161,094 shares.

The Baker holdings are B. & O. common 10,000 shares; D. L. & W. 73,400; Erie 50,000; Great Northern PFD 23,400; New York Central 204,863; Northern Pacific 21,000; Southern 5,277.

The James' holdings include: Western Pacific, 349,790 shares; Southern Pacific, 51,000; Northern Pacific, 52,716; Great Northern 52,850; C. B. & O. 808; Boston and Maine PFD, 1,000.

The Vanderbilts are: Chicago and Northwestern 28,000 common 24,358 PFD, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie, common 146,325; D. L. & W. 128,000; New York Central 238,663; Union Pacific 10,000 common and 4,268 preferred.

Control Figures Shown
The 14 major railroad systems now control the following mileage, the report shows:
Van Sweringen companies, 28,631; Great Northern-Northern Pacific, 27,421; Pennsylvania 23,498; Southern Pacific 14,484; St. Louis-San Francisco 14,161; Atlantic Coast Line 13,989; Santa Fe 13,166; New York Central 13,006; Baltimore and Ohio 11,269; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific 11,247; Chicago and Northwestern 10,205; Union Pacific 10,157; Southern 10,036; Illinois Central 9,109.

The Van Sweringen interests are reported to include: Beaumont, Sour Lake and Western; C. & O., C. & E. I., Chicago and Erie; Chicago Great Western; Denver and Rio Grande; Denver and Salt Lake; Erie, Detroit and Toledo short lines; Erie, Rocking Valley; International Great Northern; Kansas City Southern; Missouri-Illinois; Missouri Pacific; New Orleans, Texas and Mexico; New Jersey and New York; New York, Chicago and St. Louis; New York, Susquehanna and Western; Pere Marquette; St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico; San Antonio, Uvalde and Gulf; Texarkana and Fort Smith; Texas and Pacific; Wheeling and Lake Erie.

The Pennsylvania interests include: Ann Arbor; Boston & Maine; Detroit, Toledo and Ironton; Lehigh Valley; Long Island, Monongahela; New York, New Haven and Hartford; New York, Ontario and Western; Norfolk and Western; Pittsburgh and West Virginia; Rutland railroad; Wabash and West Jersey and Sea Shore.

Red Lights On Fire Apparatus Are Violation

Benjamin G. Eynon, Declares Red Lights Are Used Illegally

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Feb. 21.—Red lights such as appear on the front of fire apparatus in this city and others of Pennsylvania, had been branded as illegal today by Benjamin G. Eynon, commissioner of motor vehicles.

"Red lights visible from the front of vehicles are specifically prohibited in section 809 of the vehicle code and it is with the thought of municipalities guarding themselves against this particular violation that I mention it," said Eynon.

"Several years ago this same question was the subject of considerable discussion and the same ruling was cited, but it appears now that there is a prevalent tendency on the part of a great many fire companies throughout the state to purchase and use these 'red' signals."

Vets Auxiliary Plan Card Party For Drought Relief

Committee Is Named To Have Charge Of Party In Legion Home March 16

Members of the ladies auxiliary to the Harry L. McBride post, have started arrangements for a benefit card party to be given in the Legion Home association building on Monday evening, March 16, the proceeds of which will be turned over to the Red Cross drought relief fund.

Mrs. Sarah McCafferty has been named chairlady of the committee in charge, and will soon place tickets on sale for the event.

Previous parties held by the ladies have been widely patronized and no exception is expected in this instance.

On Trouble

If we kin believe ever' buddy we talk to ther haint nothin' that's as equally distributed in this life as trouble. Trouble finds its way int' th' tall stately mansion among th' elms an' in th' humble cot. Th' smilin' grafter, th' well groomed man o' wealth, th' glossy loafer an' th' tired shoveler all have ther troubles.

We see a prosperous lookin' feller whizzin' by in a luxurious tourin' car an' we think how happy he must be. It never occurs t' us that he may be goin' t' th' depot t' meet a lot o' relatives, or has just paid two dollars t' have a valve ground.

People who act th' happiest may have th' most troubles. A feller may be all life an' sunshine in th' presence o' his associates an' brood when alone because he looks like the devil in a dress suit. A gushin' society belle may be th' queen o' her set an' still weep bitter tears because she's got a mole in th' wrong place. A husband may eat a hearty supper an' chat pleasantly with members o' his household an' then jump in th' river t' keep from meetin' a note. A wife may be surrounded by ever' luxury t' day an' leave a note in th' mornin' sayin', 'I've gone t' Seattle.'

Trouble is just a part o' th' scheme o' life an' no home seems t' be complete without its errin' son or daughter, its mortgage, its poverty, or calamity, o' some sort. Trouble softens us. It disturbs that feelin' o' selfish security that's all too likely t' develop with a little easy money. Trouble is a great leveler an' a wonderful conceit diminisher an' it seems t' make a specialty o' hittin' th' high places. Per how often we see folks readin' th' help wanted ads t' day that were frowin' down on us from th' dizzy peaks o' prosperity yesterday.

So th' fact that ever-buddy has ther troubles should make us all th' more reconciled t' our own. Let us study th' beautiful optimism o' poor Robert, th' laborer, in th' ole third reader story, when he says: "Well, then I must sup t'night on an onion. Last night I had nothin'. It will make no difference with me t'morrow what I have had t' day." So sayin' he trudged on, singin' as before.

List Workmen Seeking Jobs On Dam Project

Many Making Application At State Office In Linesville

SHARON, Feb. 21.—In preparation for actual work on the Pymatuning dam, which is expected to go far toward relieving unemployment in this section of the state, the listing of the names of men wishing to obtain work on the project has been started at Linesville, where a local office of the department of forests and waters is maintained.

Ralph J. Ferris, engineer of the department, is resident engineer in charge of the project.

Already many names have been placed on record in the local engineering offices. The name, residence and the kind of work desired is placed on record. Many have listed as wood-choppers or any labor that will go with clearing 9,000 acres that will be covered with water. In this area are 7,541 acres of land covered with woods and timber. Of brush and burned timber there are 872 acres. All of the timber must be cut from these acres and that would provide much work for men. The list on Monday showed that men had placed their names for these jobs, who lived from Meadville to New Lyme, Ohio. Some of the work will be done in Ohio.

There will be great quantities of wood and brush after the timber is all cut out. All that is left, together with brush, second growth and stumps around the shores of the lake will be cleaned up. Much will be burned. The building of a large bridge in the highway from Espyville to Andover will be a big job. It will be necessary to elevate the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad according to the report, for a distance of 9,000 feet, and build a new highway from Linesville to Espyville.

URGE ACCEPTANCE OF PERSONAL SAVIOR

"Have No Malice Against Any One," Says Letter
Signed By Both

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent BELLEFONTE, Feb. 23.—"Our message to every man, woman and child is to accept our personal Savior before it is too late."

This was the message of Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague as penned prior to their electrocution today.

Two letters written by Dague and signed by both Irene and Dague were made public today by the Rev.
H. O. Teagarden, who was their spiritual adviser to the end, and who accompanied Dague to the chair.

Letters Are Read

The Rev. C. F. Lauer, prison chaplain, read the letters to newspapermen while, nearby, the Rev. Teagarden sobbed aloud. The Ohio clergyman clenched and unclenched his hands as the missives were read.

One of the letters contained the following quotations:

"Tell my babies I love them. We have no malice against any one."

The text of one communication was as follows:

"Rev. H. O. Teagarden, Piedmont, Ohio.

"Dear Friends:

"I don't know how to express our thanks to you for what you have done for us. You have taught us how to know our Savior in such a way that it has turned darkness and despair into light, hope and joy. We know the blood of our dear Savior Jesus has cleansed us of all sin.

"We are waiting for these few hours to pass when we are going to eternal joy and happiness.

"The material things we have left in your care. We have no one else that we know would carry out our desires. In the hour of our departing we had only one that we could confide in.

"I do not feel sorry for us.

PA NEW OBSERVES

PA News would hate to have to travel very far on some of the unimproved country roads in this section at the present time. They are about as deep with mud, it seems, it looks as though the frost was entirely out of the ground.

Recent rains and melting snows have given Lawrence County a different aspect. Out in the eastern end of the county the Slippery Rock creek is quite an impressive stream at the present time in contrast to the little rivulet that it was during the long drought.

If we lived out in the vicinity of Rose Point we would start an agitation to have the remnants of two dilapidated buildings along the main highway removed. Both are eyesores, and their removal would add much to the appearance of the village, especially with spring nearing. One of these structures is an old log cabin, and both are standing almost out on the concrete roadway.

It wouldn't be a bad idea if there was a general movement inaugurated by families in New Castle and the surrounding vicinity to plan to secure a small plot of ground early this spring and begin raising garden truck and vegetables for their own use. It is a means that many could utilize to aid themselves in the present period of depression.

Jail cells of Irene and Dague in the Lawrence County jail are unoccupied today, after having had their noted tenants for a period of more than 13 months. Dague and for the witnessing of a religious spectacle.

Before 7:30 every available seat in the capacious building was filled to witness the performance of an educational drama, which depicted the last day of a court trial, which brought forth most strongly the prohibition lesson, as intended.
By seven o'clock every available inch of parking space about the cathedral was taken and by 7:30 for blocks around the building cars of all kinds were parked closely together and inside the building the people were being turned away as there was no more space.

Overflow Meeting

At Highland United Presbyterian church there was an overflow meeting of several hundred, who witnessed the display of the picture "The Transgressor," which brought out the same lesson of law observance.

Rev. S. B. Copeland, pastor of the Third United Presbyterian church and chairman of the law and order committee of the New Castle Ministerial Association, presided at the meeting and the invocation on the assemblage was asked by Dr. Charles B. Wingerd, pastor of Central Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Paul Browne Patterson preceded the opening of the meeting with an organ recital and a brass quartet from the high school played two numbers. R. E. Johns led the singing.

Dr. Davis E. Cruce, district superintendent of the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon league, addressed a few remarks to the audience telling the plot of the scene to be enacted and in telling that this has been shown already in thirty or thirty five different places and never had the trial been given before such a splendid audience.

The presentation of the last day of a murder trial in Iowa was then presented, the dramatization being an exact replica of what had taken

WILL BE BURIED AT INDIANA, PA.

Had Wide Career In School Work—Author Of Several Books

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—Funeral services will be held from his late apartment residence here tomorrow afternoon for Dr. John A. H. Keith, superintendent of public instruction
during the administration of Gov.
John S. Fisher, who died at his home here yesterday following a lingering illness.

Interment will be at Indiana, Pa., where Dr. Keith previously lived, Wednesday.

Harvard Graduate

Dr. Keith, who was 62, began his educational work in the rural schools of Illinois following his graduation from the Illinois state normal university. For several years he was a teacher in the training department there, going thence to Harvard where he completed his work for both the bachelor's and master's degrees.

After his graduation from Harvard, he became professor of pedagogy and psychology in the Northwestern Illinois State Normal school.
Returning later to the state normal university as its training director.

He left in 1907 to accept the presidency of the state normal school at Oshkosh, Wis., remaining there ten years before he came to Indiana,
Pa., as principal of the Indiana
State Normal school.

On Jan. 24, 1927, Dr. Keith entered the Fisher cabinet as superintendent of public instruction and remained in that post until his term closed. Since, he has remained a member of the department as educational consultant, upon invitation of Gov. Pinchot.

Wrote Several Books

Dr. Keith was the author of several notable books in the field of education and a frequent contributor to educational journals. His best known works were "Elementary education, its processes and problems,"
"An introduction to teaching," and
"The nation and the school," of which he was joint author with Dr.
William C. Bagley, of Columbia University Teachers' college.

He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa honorary scholarship fraternity, Theta Delta Chi social fraternity, and the Phi Kappa Phi honorary society.

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 23.—
Here is what George Washington missed by not living to his 199th birthday.

He would have seen our great political system of "equal rights to all and privileges to none" working so smoothly that seven million are without a chance to earn their living.

He would see 'em handing out rations in peace time. That would have reminded him of Valley Forge.

In fact, we have reversed the old system. We all get fat in war times and thin during peace.

I bet after seeing us, he would sue us for calling him
"Father."

Yours,
Will Rogers.

Last Words Of Irene Schroeder

"Will You Please Sing The Hymn 'In The Garden'" Is Request

(International News Service)
BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb. 23.—
Irene Schroeder's last words were "will you please sing the hymn 'In The Garden'."

Irene made this request just before she started on her death march.
It was revealed by the Rev. H. O.
Teagarden, her spiritual adviser.
Rev. Teagarden and others were singing hymns just outside her cell at the time.

Dague's last words, according to Rev. Teagarden who accompanied him to the chair, were as follows:
"Father into thy hands I commend my spirit."

Rev. Teagarden said both Irene and Dague were resigned to their fate and at no time showed the slightest indication of fear.

LARSE PORTER IS ACCIDENT VICTIM

Larse Porter, aged 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Porter, Hillsville, was drowned Saturday afternoon shortly after 3:15 o'clock in an ice covered pool of water that had formed in an old excavation at what is known as the Fox Quarry and located just outside Hillsville.

Ice had formed on the water that was standing in the old excavation, which was abandoned some time ago and afforded what appeared to the little victim and a companion Allen Muldrige, about seven or eight years, an excellent place to skate or slide.

Ice Gives Way

The Porter boy was running and skating on the surface of the ice when it gave away under him and he was precipitated into the water.
Apparently the water was just about as deep as he was tall as his head was above level with the ice. He was apparently unable to save himself owing to the brittle nature of the ice and his smaller companion could do nothing for him.

His companion ran to the Porter home, which was but a short distance away and notified Mrs. Porter, who due to the excitement occasioned by the information forgot to tell anybody else but started out herself to rescue her little boy.

It was probably fifteen or twenty minutes later when others learned of the unfortunate accident a group of persons, including Frank Augustine, John Galazita, Eugene Valen-zo, James Aiken and Jack Garbo, reached the scene and started the work of securing the body from the ice covered pool.

Due to the steep banks on all sides and the treacherous character of the ice on the pool, some little difficulty was experienced in securing the body, it being necessary to use a rope in getting the body out.

Pulmotor Sent

In the meantime, a call had been sent to the city police department for a pulmotor and it was rushed to the scene by Officer Carl Lockard, who on his arrival used it in an effort at resuscitation on the body of the boy, which had been recovered.
The boy was finally pronounced dead.

Coroner J. P. Caldwell made a return of accidental death after investigating the circumstances surrounding the case.

The victim of the accident was born July 29, 1920 at Bessemer. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Porter and the following brothers and sisters, Clarence, Carrie, Sarah, Kenneth and Anna.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday, February 24, 1931 at 2 p. m., at the home of his uncle, George Porter in Hillsville, with Rev. E. O.
Minnich, pastor of the Hillsville M.
E. church in charge. Interment will be made in the Hillsville Cemetery.

DAGUE GIVES LIFE FEW MOMENTS LATER

Neither Says Anything After Being Led Into Death Room

By BART RICHARDS
(News Staff Correspondent)

ROCKVIEW PRISON,
BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb.
23.—Their rendezvous with death has been kept. The law has exacted its toll for the murder of Brady Paul.

As the early February sun traced a thin filigree of gold over the brow of old Mt.
Nittany, before the timbered valley had rubbed the sleep out of its eyes, Irene Schroeder, the Gun Girl, and Glenn Dague her paramour, had stepped off into eternity and the law wrote finis to that mad battle on the Butler road near New Castle on December 27, 1929. Irene was declared dead at 7:05, Dague at 7:13. They died as they lived, defiant unbending, heedless of the outside world.

No hysterics, no sobs, no pleas for human mercy, not for the bandit pair any sign of weakness not for them any outward expression of human emotion. They gave no quarter and they asked none.

Almost Carefree Air

There was almost a carefree attitude about Irene as she followed the chaplain Rev. C. F. Lauer, from the death cell to the death chamber.
That same jaunty twist of the head that marked her during the trial, marked those last few steps to the crude chair that hurled her out into the Great Beyond.

There was no muscular tremors as she entered that cold, dank, cheerless room, no drawing back in horror, nothing but a matter of fact attitude that seemed to be speaking a haste to get the whole thing over.
Not for them any outward expression of human emotion. They gave no quarter and they asked none.

Repeats 23rd Psalm

As Rev. Lauer walked slowly into the room ahead of her, he repeated the Twenty Third Psalm. While the guards adjusted the straps and the electrodes he kept on, for Irene too was walking in the "Valley of the Shadow."

As the gruesome leather mask went down over her face, obliterating almost all signs of it, not even then did she cry out or wince. If she felt any qualms she controlled herself, if she was suffering inwardly there was no outward expression.

As Rev. Lauer intoned the Psalm, a long clawlike hand of a sailor, spare built man reached up to a small handle on the wall. A down-

Let me arise to briefly state, this is the day we celebrate, and likewise carry on, the name and fame of someone who, took up a job and saw

Who led his troops through storm through storm and wind and smiles and tears, it's thirty six today.

Police Hear Of A Number Of Thefts Occurring Over
Week End

R. P. Wish, 140 East Edison avenue, on Sunday advised the police that his home had been entered during the night of February 21 and some money taken.

Detective John Young and Officer Thomas Lynch investigated and found that entrance had been gained through a rear window and that $5 had been taken from a pocketbook, which had been lying on a parlor chair.

H. M. Pyle, 511 Blaine street, also reported that his home had been entered some time during the previous night. Detective Young and Officer Lynch found that entrance had been gained here through a rear window and that $7 in a pocketbook taken.

G. Hitch, 314 West Grant street, also reported that his home had been entered. Officers Dukes and Moore made the investigation and found that entrance had been gained through a window and that $5, a drivers license and some receipts had been taken from the trousers of Mr. Hitch.

Council Fails To Name To Vacancies

Delegation Of V. F. W. Post Interview Solons Prior To Meeting

Councilmen convened in formal session at the City building today but no legislation of importance was transacted. Prior to the councilmanic session, a delegation of members of the V. F. W., Harry McBride post, called upon councilmen in the interest of ex-service men who had been placed on the eligible list for police and firemen jobs.

No mention of the vacancies in the fire and police departments was made during the council session but Mayor Gillespie indicated following the meeting that he would take some action Friday toward filling the police vacancy. It is probable Councilman Reeves will take similar action toward filling the vacancy in the fire department.

You're the JUDGE

J. Gettem Gowing, a business promoter, had brought up his nice little enterprise to the point where he was taking subscriptions for stock. He came to L. Worthington Hodd, the town's leading business man, and offered his proposition to him. After considerable salesmanship Mr. Gowing had won him over to the idea and obtained from him a writing in which Mr. Hodd agreed to take a block of stock and pay for it at a specified time some months hence. Mr. Gowing then shook hands with Mr. Hodd, left him, and proceeded about his business carefully making note of the date when the subscription was due.

But the date came and went, and nothing was heard from Mr. Hodd. And when Mr. Gowing called on him personally Mr. Hodd refused to pay him, whereupon Mr. Gettem Gowing filed suit against Mr. Hodd.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Irene were brought here from Phoenix, Arizona, the latter part of January, 1930.

Warm weather has brought encouragement from the local state highway department branch which announced this morning that roads throughout this section are in splendid condition.

Bankers, postoffice employees, court house attendants and others about the city are enjoying a holiday today, this being observed as Washington's birthday anniversary legally.

As Pa New came out of the Cathedral Sunday evening he heard a man say he had been in the Cathedral at 6:15 in order that he might obtain a good seat for the evening meeting, which was scheduled for 8 o'clock. Just after he entered five more people came in and from this time on the audience began coming in large numbers.

At East Washington street and Crown avenue the state highway department was erecting a new city guide post for motorists this morning. It will indicate the routes out of the city.

Drivers not wishing to submit to another driving test to procure their new operators' card had better have their 1931 permits by Saturday. That's the day the 30 cards expire.

Once again the postoffice reminded one of the day after Christmas, today. Operations were suspended all day long for a Washington's birthday observance. There were no mail deliveries.

place in the court room, when a young man, under the influence of liquor, had taken the life of his best friend.

Characters Taken

The various characters were taken by New Castle men and women with Attorney Clarence Patterson acting as presiding judge; Rev. Sam Maitland was the bailiff; Dr. S. L. Maxwell was the sheriff; Dr. A. J. Randall was the coroner; Frank Lloyd, the defendant; Arthur McKnickie; Mrs. Lloyd, the mother was portrayed by Mrs. S. E. Irvine; Mrs. Wright, the wife of the victim, Mrs. Harold Allen; the bootlegger, Walter Earl; the chaplain, Dr. E. A. Crooks; Mrs. R. L. French, a witness; Mrs. Carrie Jeffries Roberts and the jurors were Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Butler, Mrs. C. M. Grace, Miss Margaret Walker, Mrs. Atkinson, Mrs. Frank Brennenman, H. K. Bell, Dr. C. B. Winger, Dr. C. G. Farr, Dr. W. A. Womer, C. Cripps and T. A. Patterson. The district attorney's party were taken by two Pittsburgh boys, one the son of Dr. Cruza, and his chum.

The scene was enacted in exactly the same way as the trial had been carried on, with the same testimony and pleas of the attorneys for the state and the defendant being given in the words used at the trial.

Punish Bootlegger

As the jury filed back into the court room after deliberating the case, Dr. W. A. Womer, who was foreman, announced the verdict of the jury with Frank Lloyd pronounced guilty of manslaughter, and also recommended that the bootlegger be pronounced guilty and sentenced at the same time.

The young man, Lloyd, was given eight years in the penitentiary and the bootlegger was fined $5,000.00 and given three years in the penitentiary, as it was felt he was even guiltier than the defendant, as he had supplied the liquor, which had robbed the defendant of all manhood and sense of decency.

The scene closed with a prayer by the court chaplain, who was represented by Dr. E. A. Crooks, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church.

the "board of managers" of the investigating body.

Want Evidence

"In my opinion," said Hepburn, "the primary question in this investigation is that involved in the governor's charges of venality and corruption in the commission, or even without corruption, subservience to the utilities or a bias in their behalf."

"It matters not what the law may be. If the public has no confidence in the justice or impartiality of the tribunal administering that law and if the tribunal or any of its members have been guilty of such conduct as to destroy or impair the confidence of the public, it should be corrected."

"I, therefore, intend to direct my attention primarily to that question in any phase in which it is presented; and next, to such improvements in the law as can be attained at this session of the legislature."

"I do not think it is the function of this committee to deal in hearsay, rumor or general charges not supported by concrete facts."

"This is no Caraway committee. We want evidence or information as to where we can get the evidence."

He had been told by the committee he was to have a "free hand" in the probe and was to present any evidence concerning alleged irregularities he could gather, "regardless of whom it may hurt."

Discussing the letter sent by Chairman Alney of the Public Service Commission to Secretary of War Hurley on Dec. 9, 1930, relative to power of the commission in regulating securities of public utility companies, Hepburn said he did not take issue with the letter "as far as it goes."

The letter, sent by Alney in response to an attack on the Pennsylvania commission by former Federal Solicitor Charles Russell in the Clarion River power case, was based on an opinion given Gov. Pinchot in 1925 by a deputy attorney general Hepburn said.

"As I understand it," Hepburn stated, "the opinion advised Governor Pinchot that the Public Service Commission has no jurisdiction to regulate the issue of securities by public utility electric corporations owning or operating electric facilities in Pennsylvania, within the meaning of the federal power act."

The commission, however, Hepburn believes, has power to regulate utility securities by checking up on the statements which utilities must file before issuing securities and in event of improper action, certifying the facts to the attorney-general for action by him. If the commission neglects to act, Hepburn said, the Department of Justice may itself examine the commission's records to acquire the information.

"The proceeding is somewhat cumbersome, I can see," said the probe counsel, "but in my opinion it would be absolutely effective."

Accomplices Escape

Warned by the rattle of guns, accomplices waiting a half a block away in two automobiles, escaped toward Chicago in a hail of bullets from the guard detail.

The three dead are: Joseph Norwick, alias Nork, 30; Julio Chileno, alias Capri, 39 and Alvin Kilmom Jr., 33 all three men were sentenced from Chicago. Chileno had served in eastern penitentiaries and at Flint, Mich.

STAR LORE

PRELIMINARY TO SUNRISE

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

Moving dawn begins when the sun is 18 degrees under the eastern horizon. In attitude of New York City—about 40 degrees north—the sun travels 18 degrees in a little less than two hours. The time required for the sun to climb 18 degrees is governed by the season of the year and by the observer's latitude. At Seattle—47 degrees north—in summer the morning sun skins along just under the horizon for a very much longer time. At Edmonton—53 degrees 40 minutes north—the solar light in the upper sky may be seen all night during the longest days of summer. In the tropics dawn begins an hour and a quarter before sun-up.

Three Men Held
For Hearing Here

Arrests Follow Investigation Of Alleged Lie Liquor
Raids

Three men today were held in the county jail in default of $2,000 bail each by Alderman Green on charges of conspiracy and extortion. They will be granted a hearing Wednesday afternoon.

The men in tow are:

Robert Glass, deputy constable, Ellwood City; George Zollum, Ellwood City, and Harry Agnew, New Castle.

Glass and Zollum were the first taken into custody and Agnew was arrested later by Sergeant Price of Troop D, state police.

It is alleged the arrests grew out of visits to alleged "speakeasies" where fake raids were staged.

At one place in New Castle, it is alleged, the pseudo officers obtained $105.

AT JOLIET KILLED

out the penitentiary for the past three weeks.

The three convicts, members of a kitchen detail of five men, overpowered a guard before dawn yesterday, threatening him with butcher knives, scaling the prison walls with a crudely fashioned ladder and cable, the trio were only a few feet from freedom when the waiting guards opened fire with machine guns and automatic shotguns. Two were instantly killed and the third convict died a few hours later.

Accomplices Escape

Warned by the rattle of guns, accomplices waiting a half a block away in two automobiles, escaped toward Chicago in a hail of bullets from the guard detail.

The three dead are: Joseph Norwick, alias Nork, 30; Julio Chileno, alias Capri, 39 and Alvin Kilmom Jr., 33 all three men were sentenced from Chicago. Chileno had served in eastern penitentiaries and at Flint, Mich.

WASHINGTON PARTY IN FLANNERY HOME

Rebekah and Nora McGrath, assisted by Mrs. Wilbur Flannery, were the hostesses to their Sunday school class of the First United Presbyterian church Friday evening in the Flannery home, Mercer and Grant streets. The event was in the nature of a George Washington party.

A short business session was presided over by Mrs. Nellie McNickle after which such games as "Crossing the Delaware" and contests such as making words out of "Washington" were played and Mrs. Wilbur Flannery's piano numbers were enthusiastically received.

The class extended thanks to Charles McGrath for the beautiful floral decorations and to George Morrow for the chairs he furnished. A delicious lunch, with appointments suggestive of the first president was served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Elizabeth McCandless.

Betty Coed Club

Members of the Betty Coed club met recently at the home of Mrs. Helen Bongivingo, on Glass street. After the business meeting, refreshments were served by the hostess, with several of the members assisting.

Games and dancing were diversions. No meeting of the club will take place until after Easter, when they will meet at the home of Miss Rose Conli, Center street.

Queen Sewing Circle

The Queen Sewing Circle will entertain at the home of Mrs. D. R. Smith on Leasure avenue, Friday evening in place of Thursday as announced.

O. N. O. Club

The O. N. O. Club members will meet Thursday of this week at the home of Mrs. Claire Gorley on North Cedar street instead of Tuesday as scheduled.

COLONIAL TEA FOR D. A. R. MEMBERS

A closing event on the social calendar of last week, and one of outstanding interest, was the Colonial Tea, given by the D. A. R. members at the home of Mrs. S. W. Perry, on North street, Saturday afternoon, with the Daughters of 1812 as their special guests.

The program, in charge of Mrs. C. H. Fisher, was presented upon the arrival of the guests, which included "America" by a group of four lads from the Senior High School, Hendrick Wilkison, Don Anderson, Fredrick Warner and Arthur Gorman, and as a second selection they gave "The Shepherd's Sunday Song," Piccolo solo, "Serenade" by Victor Herbert, by Billy Shira; Cornet solo, "The Charming" by Arthur Gorman accompanied by Miss Mary Long at piano; Trombone solo, "Grenadier" by Henry Wilkison, accompanied by Miss Smith; Piano solo, "Jackstraw" by Ernest Stutzinger, and as the closing number, the quartet gave "Adagio" by Faust.

An added feature of the program was a novel playette entitled "Home Sweet Home" presented by the children of Terrace Avenue School under the splendid supervision of the Misses Anna Perry, Green and Gibbons.

Tea was served in the dining room, which was strikingly decorated in patriotic tones, the red, the white and the blue. American flags, and numerous other novelties, perfectly arranged, were used in completing this arrangement. Mrs. S. C. Royce and Mrs. J. Frew poured, and their aides included associate hostesses of Mrs. Perry, namely, Mrs. Clarence Fisher, Mrs. George Rigby, Mrs. E. L. Stutzinger, Mrs. F. E. Sowersby, Mrs. W. G. Stone, Mrs. William H. Kleckner, Mrs. S. A. Weinschen, Mrs. J. O. Woods, Mrs. William Mitchell, Mrs. S. H. Ounduff, Mrs. Charles Crepps, Mrs. W. A. Hoffmeister and Mrs. J. D. Newell.

Their next meeting will be on March 7, with Miss Anna Perry as hostess.

MRS. J. E. CRAWFORD ENTERTAINS AT TEA

Mrs. James E. Crawford of Locust street charmingly entertained a group of ladies from the Epworth Methodist Episcopal church in her home Saturday afternoon at a silver tea, the sum realized being used for the building fund of their church.

Pastel shades predominated in the menu and table appointments, the dining table being prettily set with dainty silver service, and cakes cut in odd shapes. Those who poured were Mrs. Wayne Stutzinger, Mrs. J. F. Rentz and Miss Dell Davidson. Aides for the afternoon included Mrs. H. E. McCaskey, Mrs. L. M. Alexander and the Misses Virginia Knox and Florence Scott. Forty ladies were served.

G. W. 500 Club

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Miles of Harrison street, was the scene of much merry making Saturday evening, when they entertained the G. W. 500 club in their home. At the conclusion of the game, Mrs. Zelma Hamill, L. A. Hamill and F. A. Hamill, were presented with favors for holding honors.

A dainty lunch was served at a selected hour by the hostess assisted by the ladies of the club. Tones in keeping with the season were used in the appointments. Out of town guests present included Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hamill of Ashtabula, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Sumner and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Hamill of Ellwood City, the latter couple who will be hosts on March 21 in their home.

Entertains Guests

Mrs. D. B. McKnight of 1713 Croton avenue, proved a pleasing hostess Friday afternoon when she entertained a group of friends in her home at a 500 party. After the game, prizes were presented to those successful and a delicious lunch was served. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Hudson Eberhart with the menu which was attractively arranged and served at the small tables.

These participating included Mrs. Edgar Ellis, Mrs. John Pontius, Mrs. Paul Stunkard, Mrs. Winfield Campbell, Mrs. Norris Boyles, Miss Stella Flynn, Mrs. Hudson Eberhart and Mrs. Clyde Brosius the latter who from Brookville.

Washington Party

George Washington's memory will be commemorated this week in many ways and among them will be an interesting party by the B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist church.

Paul Cook, president of the society, announces a party for Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the basement of the church.

Convention Club

Mrs. Lewis Beaman of West Washington street will entertain the Convention Club members and their friends in her home on Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock at a card party.

Daughters Of America

The Daughters of America will hold a card party on Wednesday afternoon from 2 until 4 o'clock in McGough hall for members and friends.

Ministers' Wives Club

Members of the Ministers Wives club will meet this evening with Mrs. F. E. Stough, 320 Winter avenue. A chop suey tureen dinner will be served at 6 o'clock.

N. B. Club

The N. B. Club members will be entertained at the home of Mrs. R. Dale Clark on the New Wilmington road this evening.

VADE MECUM CLUB TO HAVE EVENING PARTY

Associates of the Vade Mecum club were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Jesse N. Rice on Richelleu avenue with Mrs. D. H. Reeber of Alliquippa as associate hostess.

The occasion was featured with a 1 o'clock luncheon, the menu being served in the dining room by the hostesses at a beautifully appointed table. Patriotic tones were carried out in decorations, a miniature cherry tree forming the attractive centerpiece with the novel favors in each guest's place.

The remaining hours were spent in a game of bridge, with lovely prizes for honors being awarded to Mrs. Ralph Allen and Mrs. Fred Fulkerson.

In two weeks the club will be received at the home of Mrs. Frank Taylor, Neshannock boulevard. This gathering will be in the form of an evening party and the husbands of the members will be special guests.

SURPRISE GATHERING HONORS BIRTHDAY

A delightful event occurred in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Brown on Fairmont avenue Saturday evening, when they entertained a group of 24 guests in their home informally, honoring Mrs. David Preston, the occasion being her birth anniversary.

Bridge and 500 whiled away the greater part of the social period, and at the close of the entertainment it was discovered success awards were won by Mr. and Mrs. Dan Richards. A tasty repast was served at a late hour by the hostess and her daughter June.

When the evening was at its height the guest of honor was presented with a beautiful gift in behalf of those gathered there. The remaining hours were pleasantly spent with the telling of humorous "bed-time" stories.

Rainbow Club Meets

The Rainbow Club members gathered at the home of Mrs. Norman McKee on Warren avenue recently. Business of interest occupied the early hours, when election of officers occurred, with the following results: Mrs. Carl Reebel, secretary, and Mrs. Thomas Evans, treasurer.

Games of a wide variety were enjoyed and 500 also helped to fill in the leisure time. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. George Galbreath, Mrs. J. J. Preston and Mrs. Andrew Clum. A dainty lunch was served at a late hour by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Martha.

Mrs. W. L. Davis and Mrs. J. J. Preston were special guests of the meeting.

Mrs. Arthur Maybray of Morton street will receive the club for their next meeting.

Farewell Party

Honoring Mrs. George Garrett of Buffalo, N. Y., who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Liverage of 1413 West Washington St., friends numbering twenty gathered at their home on Friday evening for a farewell party.

Cards and dancing were the chief diversions of the evening, the music being furnished by LaRue LeFever, Lester Marsh and Albert Liverage. At a late hour refreshments were served by Mrs. Liverage, assisted by Misses Frieda Fabian and Frances Burrows.

Class Gathers

The Up and Doing class members were entertained by the Misses Freda Campbell and Mary Elizabeth Jenkins at the former's home on a recent evening. Business transactions were made, followed by a period of games and music. The hostesses served a delicious collation at a suitable hour, being assisted by their mothers.

Ida Mae Ellison and Betty Jane Phillips will entertain at the next meeting, the date and place to be decided later.

M. S. Club

The M. S. club members will meet Thursday with Mrs. Frank Myers, Moravia Stop.

Dad Resolves While Away To Be More Considerate

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland and College Western Reserve University

Dad had been away from home a week. He was sitting in a railroad station for a train two hours late. He set to musing and his family came to mind.

"Now that mirror I forgot to buy. Billy has asked me half a dozen times when I was going to get it for him. Poor kid; no wonder he says he cannot tell when his face is clean. Why should he expect him to know, when he cannot look into the big high mirror in the bathroom."

"I've been going to get a foot-stool for him to use when he sits at the table. I am sure his legs get tired dangling from the chair. How would I feel if my feet could not reach the floor? No wonder he has been scratching the table feet with his shoes. And I've been scolding him for that. I'm ashamed of myself. I won't do it again if he wears all the paint off those table legs. When I need things myself I get them; but the child must go without the things he needs. He can do nothing about the matter. I wish I could give Billy a hug right now."

"And you, Mabel. You are so good to me, and I have not written you for two days. You are so patient with him. Hours and hours you read to him and you seem never to grow weary answering his questions. I'm going to spend more time with Billy. What's a newspaper or the radio when I can be his pal? Next time he wants me to read the funnies I'll put up my old stinky pipe and be a real Dad to him."

"This would surely be a cold and lonely life but for Billy and Mabel. I shall be glad to answer these columns letters addressed to me in care of this paper, provided these questions seem to be of general interest."

If you have a question you would like to have answered personally, write me enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Report Coast Guards Fire On Smugglers

Report Two Rum Ships Sunk By Coast Guards; Crews Rescued

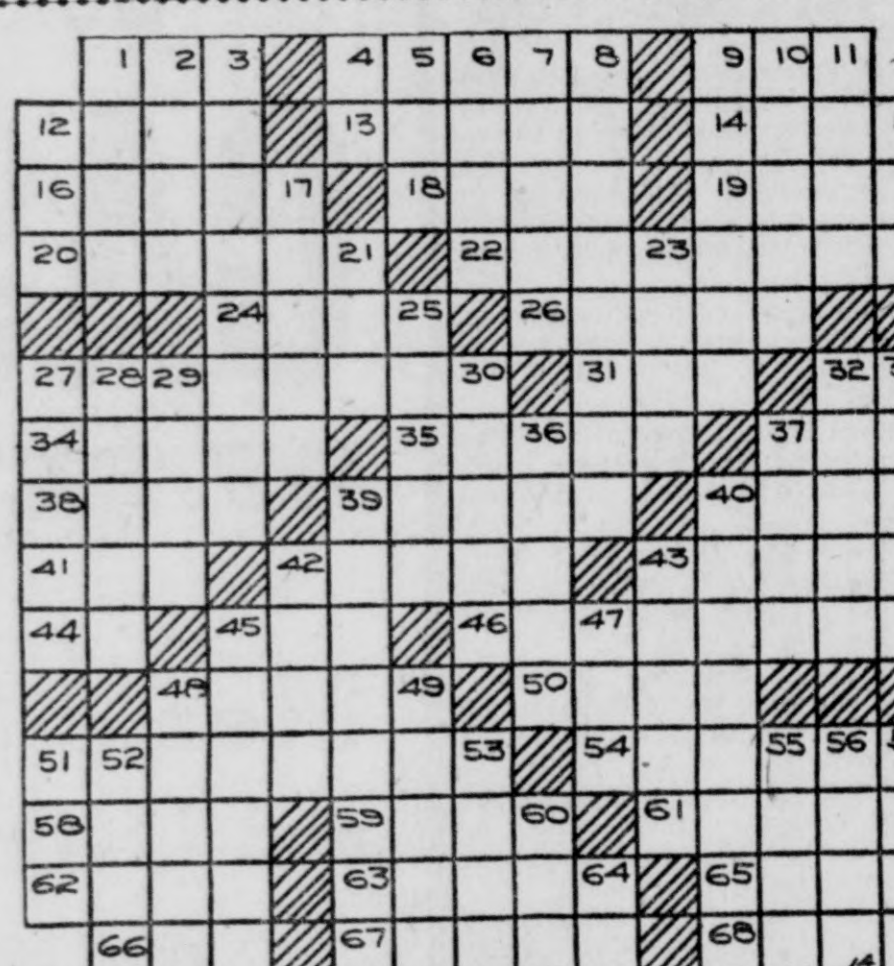

(International News Service)

NEWPORT, R. I., Feb. 23.—Battle of machine gun fire re-echoed across Narragansett bay today and at its conclusion reports were circulated along the waterfront that the coast-guard had been in battle with rum runners. One report was to the effect that two rum ships had been sunk and their crews rescued by the coastguard. Efforts were made to check the reports.

The first sound to come from the bay was that of the firing of a one pounder. This was followed later by machine gun fire. Searchlights were observed far off the shore. The firing was repeated later.

The coastguard vessels had put out of Newport last evening and one returned some time after the sounds of firing early today but left immediately.

Peter's Adventures

A MONSTER TO THE MONSTER

"Hey, Fellow! Why do you stare at me so steadily? If I was a bit sensitive you might embarrass me greatly," demanded the monster of Peter.

"I am looking at your stomach," declared Peter rudely. "It just shows what a pig of an insect you are. I don't believe ever before have I seen such a fat one!"

"I guess you never have," agreed the monster, and proudly patted his tummy. "I'll admit I keep it well stuffed. Suddenly Ambush Bug's thoughts took another turn, and he glared at Peter.

"By the way, for a perfect stranger you have certainly poked your nose deep into my business. I am tired of your impudence. I wish you would go away. But before you go, answer this question? Who are you?"

"A human," confessed Peter, and was startled to hear the Ambush Bug shriek.

"A Human! Good gracious me! I never guessed the truth or I shouldn't have stayed within reach so long. A Human is the one thing I am afraid of," said the monster. "This is the first time in all my life I have not scuttled to get out of one's way."

INCOME TAX FACTS

No. 20.

March 1, 1913, is an important date in income-tax history, the existing income-tax law, adopted in accordance with the sixteenth amendment to the Constitution, having become effective on that date.

To determine taxable gain or deductible loss in the sale or other disposition of property acquired before March 1, 1913, and sold or otherwise disposed of after that date, a comparison of the cost of the property with its fair market value as of March 1, 1913, is necessary. Whichever amount is greater is the figure to be compared with the proceeds of the sale in determining taxable gain or deductible loss.

Bessemer Lady Owns Paper Giving News Of Death Of Washington

High spots in the life of the first president of the United States are being reviewed by thousands today in classroom and drawing room, while the nation observes George Washington's birthday anniversary. Mrs. H. L. Dale of Bessemer owns an old newspaper, a vivid reminder of the life and death of that great diplomat, leader and soldier. It is the Ulster County Gazette, printed 132 years ago, and contains the notice of the death of Washington. The print is not faded. The paper is framed with glass on both sides.

A heavy black line about a quarter of an inch wide divided the columns lengthwise, indicating the mournful news being broadcast. The article commenced in this manner: "General George Washington departed this life on the fourteenth of December, 1799, between three and four o'clock. The sound of artillery from the river, minute guns, awoke on the solemn sorrow, etc." The newspaper was dated Saturday, January 4, 1800, several weeks after the death of the President. As there were no telephones, telegraphs, news traveled slowly.

Many Pastors Speak About Prohibition In Sermons On Sunday

Sunday was observed as "Prohibition" day in the churches of the city at the request of the pastors of Pennsylvania, who assembled a short time ago in Harrisburg and a brief resume of what the different pastors of the city had to say on this subject is given:

At Second U. P.
Rev. A. J. Randles, pastor of the Second U. P. Church, said in part: "Do you believe that the speak-easies are selling more booze than the saloons ever did? Listen to this. Mr. Whiting Williams recently discussed himself as a laboring man and visited many of the wetter-than-average communities in a study of the speak-easy problem. He reports that 'there is a difference between the old saloon, with its bright lights and its comfortable, and the modern speak-easy, dark and grimy, with the threat of the law always hanging over it.' He says: 'It is plain that the saloon is dead, and its soul is not marching on in the speak-easy. Putting together all the hours and all the days in all the wetter-than-average places, the fact remains that in the old days more intoxicated men than I discovered in two, or possibly three saloons within a few blocks in a single day of the whole list of communities visited.'"

At Highland U. P.
Dr. C. J. Williamson, pastor of the Highland United Presbyterian Church said in part:

The situation in America before Prohibition can scarcely be credited by young people who did not see it. To those who are older it seems like a nightmare that can hardly have been true. To think of returning to such a condition is impossible. It is men who are debased enough to want again to make money out of the miseries and death of their fellow men who are financing largely the campaign for the repeal of the 18th Amendment. It is for the money paid by supposedly respectable purchasers that bootleggers defy the law, and shoot down their fellowmen. If these did not buy, the lawlessness would cease. Who, then, is responsible for the deaths of men killed in the violation of law? The man who buys from the bootlegger! We are patriotic enough to believe the government of the United States is bigger than all the bootlegging fraternity and those who support them, and that the greatest experiment in centuries will be continued to a successful end.

First Baptist
Rev. G. M. Landis, pastor of the First Baptist church says: "As a Christian, the Word of God commands me to submit myself to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake (1 Pet. 2:13). As a father, I hope for the protection of my children, that the Eighteenth Amendment may never be repealed. For my own as well as for the safety of my fellowmen, I hope this nation remains bone dry. It is my personal feeling, that we have yet to see in the United States a thorough and sincere attempt to enforce the present dry laws. The places where it is said to be unenforceable are the places where it has been least attempted. The contention that conditions are worse in this country than under the licensed saloon is an insult to human intelligence; and is an evidence to total blindness, willful ignorance, or intentional falsehood."

In Mahoningtown
Rev. D. C. Schenby of Mahoningtown Presbyterian church says: "Recent agitation over prohibition has brought the matter of loyalty to law to the fore again. Some well-known men in public life have bitterly assailed prohibition and denounced all those who favor it as hypocrites and fanatics. The cry is raised throughout the land that prohibition is a failure. They argue that because it has failed, the 18th amendment ought to be repealed. We admit that prohibition has failed in certain respects, viz.:

1. It has failed to please the 'wets'.
2. It has failed to please the lawless.

3. It has failed to make all people total abstainers.

But it has not failed to interpret and apply the spirit of Christianity to social and moral life. Its policy rests upon Christian principles. These, briefly stated, are:

1. The value of the human soul.
2. The strong are to help the weak.

3. The duty of self-sacrifice.

The apostle Paul summed it all up in the words, 'Wherefore, if meat make my brother to offend, I will eat no flesh while the world standeth lest I make my brother to offend.' (Rom. 14:21).

In closing let me say: The liquor business is essentially and fundamentally lawless. It has never obeyed the laws established to regulate it. It flagrantly violated the license system. It was ever in favor of 'temperance' or local option or prohibition or the saloon, as best suited its purpose. Yet its history, all over the world, is that it has never yet obeyed the law. It is the enemy of true civilization. We are all bound in one bundle of life and what affects my neighbor affects me. Civilization means liberty under law.

The story is told of an Irishman who came to live in America. Upon landing he went up the street swinging his arms and crying, 'Hurrah for America!' By accident he struck an American on the nose. The response was immediate and as the Irishman picked himself up he said, 'And phwat did you do that for? Isn't this the land of liberty?' 'Yes,' said the American, 'but I want you to understand that your liberty ends where my nose begins.'"

The oft-repeated words of Abraham Lincoln were recalled: 'Let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father and to tear the character of his own and his children's liberty. Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap. Let it be taught in the schools, in seminaries, in colleges. Let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in the legislative halls and enforced in the courts of justice, and, in short, let it become the political religion of the nation, and let the old and young, the rich and the poor, the grave and the gay of all sexes and tongues and colors and conditions sacrifice unceasingly upon its altar.'"

Dr. Crooks Said

Dr. E. A. Crooks, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church says: "The most important part of our controversy with the liquor traffic is the moral side. Intoxicating liquor is admittedly a bad thing. It brings physical ruin, financial loss, mental deterioration and moral degradation. Any sanction given to the traffic involves those giving it in the evils wrought by the traffic. As long as the government of the United States was in partnership with the liquor traffic, through a system that licensed it, we, the citizens of the country could not escape moral responsibility for the evil effect of the traffic. Any return to a system whereby the traffic would be carried on under legal sanction would involve the people of this country in responsibility for all the loss and damage done by it. This is the most important reason why we should not return to a license system in any form. Having outlawed this monster of society let us go on with the work of delivering ourselves from it until it shall be completely suppressed. Only in this way can we discharge our moral responsibility before God and our fellowmen."

At Third U. P.

Rev. S. B. Copeland, pastor of the Third United Presbyterian church: "The lamps are going out," said a wounded soldier, as his sight gradually left him. The lamps of truth about Prohibition have been going out because of the indifference of good people, the lack of instruction, the civil effects of alcohol, the stay-at-home voters, and the false and misleading propaganda in the wet newspapers.

The lamps of truth must be re-lit by intelligent, enlightened citizens who will vote as they pray, by a popular demand for truthful and straightforward propaganda in the newspapers, and by a positive campaign in the schools on the moral and physical evils of alcohol.

Thus alone can we create the proper sentiment for law enforcement among the 24,000,000 young men and women now voting, who were unable to vote when the 18th amendment was passed, 60 per cent of whom never saw the open saloon and its attendant evils: poverty, unhappiness, economic distress and crime."

In Epworth M. E.

Dr. Samuel L. Maxwell, pastor of Epworth Methodist church, said: "Prohibition at its core is infinitely better than any other solution to the liquor problem. When such a group as the Wickersham commission has no other solution to offer, either collectively or individually, than those which have been suggested, it is plain to anyone wishing to see the liquor evil suppressed that there is only one for America to go, and that is forward, forward to better enforcement, and to law obedience."

Stomach Caused Continual Distress--Health Threatened

"My Entire System Became Rundown Due To Poor Digestion," Says Local Lady In Interview

Prominent and well-known men and women of this city, continue to call on the Nu-Erb Man to tell of the splendid relief that they have obtained through using this new and different medicine.

MRS. ALVIRA VELKER

Through the combination of its twelve medicinal plants, Nu-Erb quickly relieves disorders of the stomach, kidneys and liver and puts an end to constipation, nervousness, rheumatism, and neuritis. Here is the recent statement of Mrs. Alvira Velker, 1407 Wilson Ave., New Castle, Pa.

"Ever since last Spring, I have suffered from stomach distress and indigestion. Gas formed in large quantities after every meal. I was troubled with pains around my heart and severe dizzy spells. At times I felt so sick and weak that I couldn't even do my work. 'When I read of this new medicine and saw what it was made from, I decided to give it a trial. That is only a short time ago, but already it has relieved the indigestion and gas in my stomach. The pains around my heart and through my chest have disappeared and I am no longer troubled with those weak dizzy spells. Nu-Erb also has improved my entire system and I feel stronger and better in every respect. I do not hesitate to recommend this splendid medicine to other sufferers.'"

Eckerd's Cut Rate Store, is the only place in New Castle where Nu-Erb may be purchased. Go see the Nu-Erb man now making his headquarters there and let him explain to you the merits of this remarkable medicine.

Class Has Two Presidents Now

(International News Service)
WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Feb. 23.—When the senior class of G. A. R. Memorial high school here came to elect a class president, they didn't do things by halves.

Instead of electing the usual president, they elected two. And an unexpected controversy as to how Louis Freed and John Yucavage will function as head of the class is the result.

The mixup came about when a "primary" election was held to determine the form of choosing officers. Freed, popular athlete, received 53 votes, Yucavage 54, and Grace Falcon 4 votes. Then several students protested they thought the "primary" was the real election and after much discussion the vote was thrown out. At the election, both youths received 53 votes and their supporters being unwilling to retreat, both were declared class president for 1931.

Truck Upsets; Joy For Kiddies

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—It seems there is an old adage about "It's an ill wind—" and so forth. Youngsters of West Conshohocken believe in it. Only the "Wind" took the form of faulty brakes on a bakery truck.

Starting down Crawford Hill, the truck got away from its driver, crashed through a fence and scattered its contents. A score of boys en route to work as caddies at a nearby country club promptly feasted upon cakes and pies flung wide by the plunging vehicle.

GOVERNOR'S PROGRAM IS BADLY DELAYED

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—Efforts of various factions to gain supremacy, inability to reach agreements on a legislative program coupled with each other are leading factors which are delaying adoption of the "remedial legislation" which Governor Gifford Pinchot, during his campaign, promised the "plain people of Pennsylvania."

Thus far during the session of the assembly, only a few pieces of legislation carrying administration support have been introduced.

A number of election bills, messages outlining in a general way the plans of the administration, and the budget for the 1931-32 biennium are about the only measures carrying endorsement or recommendation of the administration to reach the assembly so far.

Comparison With 1929
In this connection, it is interesting to note that at this time two years ago the administration had before the assembly the anthracite coal tax repealer, the gasoline tax bill, the measure creating the department of revenue and the administrative code, and the assembly had settled well into its stride—an action the 129 session has given no indication of taking.

Governor Pinchot, when he took office, was quite anxious to get administration bills before the Senate and House and undoubtedly would have equalled the record of two years ago had not the 1931 session early developed into a "session of resolutions" for the most part, proposals which are causing revolutions in both houses.

In the session of 1929, the House had but few more than 30 resolutions during the entire session, a comparison shows, while more than half that number have already been introduced this year.

It is unquestionably these resolutions, more important of which have dealt in one way or another with matters concerned with the Public Service Commission, which have tied up important legislation to date in this session.

Bills To Come
Virtually all of the measures promised support by the governor remain to be introduced.

Bills to take over 20,000 miles of township roads, to abolish the coal and iron police, to equalize taxes, to reduce automobile and drivers' license fees, to lift the tax from small inheritances and aid in the relief of unemployment and old age pension legislation are but a few of the many administration proposals still to make their appearance before the legislature.

Beyond a doubt, Public Service Commission investigations and threats of additional probes are interfering seriously with the governor's program. Thus far, the session has been practically nothing but a discussion of the public utility question, roused when the assembly "got the jump" by the Senate's instigation of an investigation of the commission.

Out of the tangle, few see any escape until the utilities matter is thoroughly threshed out in both houses.

Former Resident Gets Sentenced To Penitentiary

Arrested Here Within Recent Months For Youngstown Authorities

Robert C. Shaffer, alias Roscoe Shaffer, aged 33 years, and former resident of this city, has been sentenced to the Columbus, Ohio, penitentiary by Judge George H. Gessner of Youngstown for a period of from 10 to 25 years on a charge of robbery and holdup.

It will be remembered that he was arrested here several months ago for the Youngstown authorities for the crimes of which he has since been convicted and for which he has just been sentenced.

He was arrested here by Detective C. G. Logan and Officer Robert Dukes and after an investigation made with Youngstown officers by Detective John Young and Officer Thomas Lynch.

He had participated in a number of holdups in Youngstown, apparently staying here and living a peaceful life, being captured here while appearing to be just an ordinary every day type of law abiding citizen.

His sentence was quite stiff and was due to the fact that it was the second occasion on which he had been convicted in the Ohio courts on the same charge.

Shoes for men, women and children, and men's and boys' clothing are in particular demand, the chairman of the mayor's relief committee stated this morning.

The supply of clothing which was donated earlier in the winter has been exhausted and an increasing appeal is made daily for second-hand clothing by those who are in want.

All kinds of shoes can be used, it is stated, but the demand for clothing seems to come most from men and boys.

Any person having clothing that can be worn are asked to call the Carnegie auditorium or Smith's Dry Cleaners and the garments will be called for.

Among those made to suffer by the drought are the purists who call it "drouth."

Recommend Increase In Size Of Motor Patrol

Size Of Force Considered Inadequate By President
Gable Of P. M. F.

Feels Thousand Men Necessary To Properly Patrol Highways Of State

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 23.—Increase in size of the State Highway Patrol to a strength of 1,000 men was recommended to Governor Pinchot today by the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, State unit of the American Automobile Association. A resolution from the executive committee of the Federation, forwarded to the Governor, suggests that "a patrol with sufficient man power to keep watch over all public highways day and night will do more to check lawlessness and reduce accidents than any other single factor."

The patrol at present has less than 400 men, according to S. Edward Gable, president of the Federation. Approximately 100 of these are busy most of the time with operator tests and duties other than regular highway patrol work. "When it is taken into consideration that there are more than 12,000 miles of improved state highways, and thousands of miles of secondary roads in Pennsylvania, it can readily be seen that the present patrol force is far too small," Mr. Gable said. "This should not be, for the great system of roads in Pennsylvania should be as carefully patrolled as a city street, day and night throughout the year."

The Federation head compared the Highway Patrol to the police force of a community. "Not only does enforcement of the law fall within

Four Trust Companies And One State Bank Have 31,688 Depositors

(From News Bureau) (State Capital)
HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—The four trust companies and one State bank in Lawrence county had combined resources in excess of $12,500,000 when Secretary of Banking Peter G. Cameron issued the last quarterly call. The trust companies were credited with $1,648,111 in resources and the bank $855,491.

Time deposits in the trust companies totaled $4,494,857 and the bank $605,484. There were 31,688 depositors in the trust companies of which 15,894 had savings accounts. The bank reported 2846 depositors and of that number 1141 had savings accounts. The bank also reported 790 school savings depositors.

Dividends paid last year amounted to $192,250 to stockholders of the trust companies. The bank paid out $2500 in dividends.

Christmas fund payments last December were $258,227 at the trust companies and $12,855 at the bank. The State had $115,000 on deposit at the trust companies when the last call was made and $10,000 in the bank.

Bellefonte Is Thronged With Curious Sunday

Scenes Of Greatest Excitement Prevail On Eve Of Execution Of Pair

PATROL ROADS
Visitors Are Not Permitted To Come Within Sight Of Death House

(Special To The News)
BELLEFONTE, Feb. 23.—Scenes of greatest excitement prevailed in this ordinarily quiet little Pennsylvania town over Sunday, as more than fifty newspapermen from all over the eastern part of the United States and many curious gathered to await the execution of Irene Schroeder and her paramour, W. Glenn Dague.

Hundred of people from miles around attempted to drive into the penitentiary, just trying to catch a glimpse of the gray little prison house where, this morning, the lives of two of the most talked of criminals in the United States for the moment, were to be snuffed out for the killing of a state motor patrolman, Brady Paul.

They were not permitted to do so, however, as a cordon of state policemen stopped every car at a considerable distance from the prison and turned them back, all except the very few who had official business at the prison or who had passes to get in.

The words of Warden Ashe, when he consented to speak about the pair, were hung on eagerly by the crowd which gathered.

Asks For Funny Papers
According to a statement made by the Warden last night, Irene and Glenn were denied permission to say farewell to each other, and both prisoners retired at 10:30 to spend their last night in rest, should they care to do so.

The warden stated that both retained their composure up until the time of retiring.

Irene inquired about whether she would be permitted to have breakfast in the morning, and when told that she would, seemed more at ease.

During the day, she sent out and had the funny papers sent in to her. It was stated that Dague had made a statement to his spiritual advisor Rev. Teagarden, but that the latter would not make it public until after the execution.

There are only three telephone lines running out of Bellefonte, and these were tied up hours before the execution by newspapermen anxious to get the first word of the execution into the hands of their newspapers.

One of these lines was kept open into the office of The News in New Castle and the first word of an actual eyewitness to the execution was flashed into the office of The News. Residents of Bellefonte state that they had never seen as much excitement as has prevailed here over the week end.

Photographers sought permission to take pictures of the death house and the cells of the prisoners, but this request was refused by the Warden.

"There's not a chance, boys," he said smilingly but firmly.

Many begged for an opportunity to see the execution, but there were only twelve men who were permitted to do so, six official witnesses and six newspapermen.

The Pennsylvania law defines this morning the reason the prison whistle is sounded as on the executions are over. Ordinarily the whistle sounds at six o'clock and the activities of the day are commenced. On days that executions occur, however, no work is done at the prison, and the prisoners remain in their cells until the prison doctor pronounces the last of the condemned persons, dead. Those living in the vicinity of the prison, and the inmates, thus know when the executions have ended.

FINAL MESSAGE GIVEN TO PUBLIC AFTER EXECUTIONS

are going now to claim the place Jesus has prepared for us.

"Tell my babies I love them. We have no malice against any one. The state officers are just doing their duty. We are just going home. Our message to all men is that every man, woman and child accept our personal Savior before it is too late.

"God called me and I did not answer but now I hope and pray that all things are for God's own glory. With these few humble thanks we will close.

"(Signed) Your Kids,
"Irene Schroeder, Glenn Dague."

Other Letter

The other letter was also addressed to Rev. Teagarden and excerpts from it were as follows:

"Rev. Teagarden was one among thousands who had not forsaken us. He is our friend and spiritual adviser and give us instructions in the way of salvation.

"On Friday our attorney, Benjamin Jarrett, told us it was possible he could get us a respite of thirty days in which time he was sure he could get our guns for us and prove by them neither of us had fired the bullet which was fatal to Brady Paul.

"We knew if these guns were presented as evidence we could get a commutation of sentence."

The letter referred to the action of the pardon board in rejecting their pleas for a commutation.

One of the concluding paragraphs of this missive read:

"We are both ready to leave this world of sin and go where Jesus has gone to prepare a place for us. Death is but a change."

Rev. Teagarden also had in his possession two manuscripts. One was addressed to "Davy Schroeder", Mrs. Schroeder's five-year-old son. The other contained a 40,000 word "life story" written by Dague.

Rev. Teagarden informed an assemblage of newspapermen that Dague's life story was for sale. He said that both Irene and Dague had left wills and haven't a thing in the world.

He said they felt that if the "life story" was of interest to any agency that desired to have it published the proceeds would be used for the care of their children.

IRENE AND DAGUE CALM AS THEY PAY PENALTY OF CRIME

ward motion, a convulsive jerk from the chair and the Bullet Blonde had passed beyond the scope of human punishment.

Dague Ushered In
Efficient hands released the straps, the body was placed upon a portable table and wheeled into the autopsy room, and almost before the body of Irene was out, Dague was being ushered in, led by L. H. Teagarden, his spiritual adviser. He also repeated the Twenty Third Psalm.

A momentary pause as his glance swept the rushed room. No fear in that glance, no plea for mercy, nothing but a coldly appraising glance. He went out into eternity as he had lived the past several years, all his hands in hand with Irene. Like Irene he was strong, like Irene he uttered not a word, like Irene he was paying the price for his lawless love. Both of them had 2,000 volts shot through their bodies, Irene's at 12 amperes and Dague at 13 amperes. Even in death they made no display.

A convulsive jerk as the deadly current shattered nerve centers and atrophied brain tissue, then a slump as the current was turned off. The executioner was Robert W. Elliott, executioner for the state of New York who electrocuted Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray.

Prison Guarded.
For the execution nothing was left to chance by Warden Stanley P. Ashe, every entrance to the state prison was guarded by burly state policemen, and only those having business there were allowed into the prison yard.

As the group of witnesses and newspaper men passed from the outside guard station to the death house, the prisoners in the main cell block of Rockview set up a howling and boing as if deriding those who were there, or perhaps it may have been a funeral dirge for the man and woman who were in the room where the execution was being performed.

At 6:55 the group was in the lower corridor of the death house. They were ushered upstairs, through iron gates and guarded doors, and just as 7 o'clock turned, Irene was led in, accompanied by two white uniformed nurses, one of whom left before the execution.

The entire scene in the death chamber took but about 15 minutes. Following the autopsy, the bodies were prepared for burial and turned over to Rev. H. O. Teagarden, who will accompany them back to West Virginia. So ends the blood red trail of the gun girl and her paramour. Robbery, pillaging, murder, but at the end of the trail shame and disgrace and sudden death.

Last Sunday
On their last day they would spend on earth. Irene and Glenn ordered meals that would do credit to a dock laborer. For dinner, at noon, they had chicken and stuffing, tomato and lettuce salad, giblet gravy, mashed potatoes, ice cream and coffee. To this list Irene added a tomato and an onion. For lunch in the evening they had broiled steaks, potatoes and gravy potatoes, rolls and coffee. It is a condemned prisoner's privilege to order what he wishes for his death chambers meals and apparently the intensity of the moment had not dulled the keen edge of their appetites. As they whiled away the time in their cells Sunday, one might have thought they were visitors. They chatted with their guards, read papers, but never a word of the morrow's doom.

Asks For Funnies
Irene made special request for the funny papers and these were furnished. At six o'clock Sunday evening their heads were prepared for the electrode cap which carries the current. A space the size of a man's hand was clipped in the back of Irene's head, and a similar space on Dague's. Irene was given the gray prison garb allotted to women, but did not receive her death gown until early Monday morning. This was a simple rayon frock, gray in color, black cotton stockings and bloomers.

Shortly before noon Irene made her last contact with the outside world when her father, feeble old Joe Crawford, and John Schroeder, brother-in-law of Irene, visited in her cell.

Sign of Emotion
This was the only sign of emotion she displayed all day Sunday, as she bade her aged father goodbye, the iron mask of indifference she has worn dropped for the moment and she sobbed like a child. The old man wept a little, but the hot fires of emotion have been burned away for the old man in the soul searing moments of the past week. Feebly he embraced her, and as feebly he bade her goodbye. Then he tottered away, broken in spirit and bent in body to carry with him for his few remaining years the picture of his youngest child in the death cell.

Warden Stanley P. Ashe, human and kindly and sympathetic, broke one of his rules in allowing the old man and Schroeder to see Irene, but at times like this, rules are flexible things when human hearts are breaking under a burden of sorrow.

Rev. Teagarden Visits
Dague's last touch of sympathy came from Rev. H. O. Teagarden, his boyhood chum, with whom he was associated in Sunday school work years ago. Teagarden had been with him in the Lawrence County jail, came with him to Rockview and endeavored to prepare him for the leap into eternity.

For the execution, over one hundred men and women representing newspapers were here. Of this group about fifty were writers, and balance cameramen, telegraph operators, "leg men" and assistants.

The prison is some six miles from Bellefonte, and all day Sunday every road leading into the prison was guarded by state policemen. Only those having official business in the prison could get within six hundred yards of it, but all day long, streams of tourists rode by, endeavoring to break through the guards and being repulsed. Newspaper headquarters were at the Penn-Belle Hotel and here Warden Ashe and Deputy Warden McFarland held conferences with the press.

(An Official Eye-Witness to the Executions)

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb. 23.—With uttering a sound and with a faint wistful smile on her lips, Irene Schroeder, 22-year-old "gun-girl," and "thrill slayer," died in the electric chair here today, the first woman to be electrocuted in the history of Pennsylvania.

She was followed to the chair by Glenn Dague, her sweetheart and partner in crime. They paid the penalty for the shooting of Corporal Brady Paul, highway policeman.

Attired in a gray, rayon smock with white collar and cuffs, Irene Schroeder walked into the citadel of death with a firm tread and went without assistance to the chair.

She was "Iron Irene" to the end. Although a nurse in white broke down and wept violently, Irene did not shed a tear.

Lips Curl Slightly
As they adjusted the leather mask, with its slits at the eyes and mouth, Irene's lips seemed to curl over so slightly—a half-defiant, final leer at the world and society.

Irene blanched countenance seemed to age years in the brief space of seconds from the time she shuffled to the big open door at the brilliantly illuminated death chamber until they strapped her in the weird contraption they call "the chair."

A tomb-like silence, almost terrifying in its oppressiveness, enveloped the room as the gaunt, how-eyed executioner, Robert W. Elliott, the same man who threw the switch on Ruth Snyder three years ago, crammed down the lever that sent 2,000 volts of electricity shooting through the puppet-like form of the girl they called "Iron Irene."

There was a sibilant hiss of high voltage, the low whirr and whine of electricity interspersed with a faint crackle and sputtering—and the mad career of the small town waitress who turned "trigster woman" was at an end.

A few minutes later—endless minutes they seemed to the little knot of witnesses who stood looking on with wrenched hearts—Irene's lover and partner-in-crime, Glenn Dague, 34 years old, a married man and father who gave up his home for an illicit romance, met death in almost precisely the same manner.

Dague's Eyelids Quiver
Dague, moved up by a suddenly acquired religious fervor, also died without uttering a syllable.

The only emotion he displayed was a violent quivering of his eyelids.

Thus did Irene and Glenn pay the extreme penalty for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul, State Highway patrolman, whom they shot to death on Dec. 27, 1929, when he attempted to intercept a car after a holdup at Butler, Pa.

Irene started on her death march—the "last miles"—at two minutes before 7 o'clock. While she was emerging from her cell, the Rev. H. O. Teagarden, her spiritual adviser and an evangelist, sang:

"Lord God, Be With Me This Hour."

Several other voices accompanied his, the singing echoing through the grim corridor of "murderers' row."

She entered the death chamber at precisely seven o'clock. The white-garbed nurse held her gently by the arm, but she did not seem to require any assistance. She looked straight ahead, her blonde hair straining down over her forehead and her round, pale face set in a wistful, resigned smile that was ever so faint.

On the walls of the death chamber were five signs, reading, "Silence," but such a warning was wholly unnecessary.

A reporter's notebook could be heard plainly as it slipped from his grasp to the floor.

An area of 15 feet square had been roped off just inside the door. The ropes were very heavy and white in color. In this enclosure had been laid a black rubber mat. The rest of the room was a spick and span white that was suggestive of an operating chamber.

Strangely Shrunk
Irene's short and rather plump figure seemed strangely shrunk and even though later it was announced that only one contact was necessary. Each time Elliott threw the switch, the row of bulbs lit up.

Through the slit in the mask Irene's tongue emerged, imparting a ghastly touch to the proceedings.

By now, the white-garbed nurse, a handkerchief to her eyes, was sobbing loudly.

Witnesses Turn Eyes
Several of the witnesses turned their eyes away from the grim scene. Elliott walked toward the chair, indicating that his work was done on this victim.

The form in the chair was inert. A spiral of smoke emerged from the top of the leather mask and evaporated into the intense light of the reflector.

Instantly, the three guards stepped forward and deftly unclipped the straps and removed the mask. Two doctors stepped forward and applied stethoscopes to the woman's heart.

Dr. W. H. Barrett, the prison physician, wheeled about and facing the witnesses said in unctuous tones:

"Gentlemen, I pronounce Irene Schroeder dead."

It was precisely 7:05 a. m. The first contact was made at 7:01. Tenderly they lifted the form of Irene out of the chair and placed it upon a porcelain-top wheeled stretcher that resembled an operating table.

Her arms hung limply over the sides of the stretcher. A guard wiped perspiration from her face and neck.

She was then wheeled into the autopsy room adjoining the death chamber.

Warden Ashe stepped forward and announced to the reporters, who transfixed, had been watching the scene with varying emotions: "Gentlemen, you can make a few notes now."

Bring Dague In.
Three minutes later—at 7:08 to be exact—there was a faint tap at the big oak door. It opened.

Dague entered, a guard on each side, holding him by the arm. He was attired in blue-gray trousers, the prison garb, and a white shirt open at the throat.

The left leg of his trousers was slit from the knee down. The hair had been shaved from his head.

Assassin's Target
The guards stepped back. Executioner Elliott rammed down a lever with a crunching sound. A large wheel revolved and a string of nine electric bulbs suddenly lit up.

A sputtering crackle swept the room. In the chair, beneath a huge reflector that sent a strong white light down upon the victim, Irene's body lurched upward. She was in the embrace of death.

Deadening silence prevailed. The seconds crawled. They seemed like hours.

Sob From Nurse.
A low, barely audible sob came from the nurse, leaning against the wall near the door inside the roped enclosure.

Warden Stanley P. Ashe, the silver-haired warden, and the other officials standing near the chair looked on with solemn countenances. The reporters, who had been warned not to take notes in the death chamber, sat very still on the concrete benches built along the walls.

Mrs. Schroeder started violently as Elliott threw on the current. Her body grew taut as if threatening to break through the straps, and then relaxed.

Her hands were clenched tightly, resting on the broad arms of the chair.

They became brick-red as the current was applied. So did the exposed skin on her left leg.

The executioner threw down the switch again and once more the body—which seemed pitifully small—heaved upward.

There seemed to be an intermittent turning of the crank by Elliott, even though later it was announced that only one contact was necessary. Each time Elliott threw the switch, the row of bulbs lit up.

ment road to ward the electrocution building. It was a long, silent march.

As they did, they were loudly booed by the convicts.

Arriving at the concrete electrocution building, they were forced to wait a few minutes on the main floor. They all signed the register before they went upstairs.

Upstairs, a small group, led by Rev. Teagarden, were singing "On, What a Friend We Have in Jesus," came first, then "At the Cross."

Rev. Teagarden's voice could be heard above the others.

On the wall the prison clock ticked off the fateful minutes—ever so slowly.

The warden told the witnesses they would have to be searched. Three state highway policemen, in natty black and gray uniforms with chin straps, thoroughly searched all those who were to witness the electrocution. This was done so that no pictures could be taken in the death chamber. It had been recalled that a photographer had smuggled a camera down his trousers leg at Sing Sing three years ago and had taken a picture of Ruth Snyder in the chair.

This formality disposed of, there was a further brief wait. The clicking of the clock and the singing upstairs was the only sound in the place. There was no clanking of gates, or turning of keys in the cell doors. Even the regular prison guards were silent.

And then came the signal to go upstairs into the chamber of death.

"Right this way, gentlemen," someone said, and the witnesses, accompanied by three state highway policemen, went up the broad winding stairway into the brilliantly lighted execution room.

The electrocution of Irene Schroeder and Walter Glenn Dague this morning closes for all time the career of two people who, infatuated with each other, disregarded the laws of God and man that their own desires and purposes might be served.

The crime for which they paid with their lives was one that shocked a nation. On December 27, 1929, Corporal Brady Paul and Private Ernest Moore, state highway patrolmen stationed at New Castle, went out the Butler road to look for a car containing two men and a woman who had held up a store in Butler.

A car answering the description of the one they wanted, came down the road. They stopped it and demanded some evidence of ownership. A man and a woman got out and as they did the woman whipped out a gun and ordered Paul to throw up his hands. Backing him down the road she fired point blank at him and Paul sank to the ground, mortally wounded. In the meantime Moore had come around the car and by only a miracle escaped death when Tom Crawford, a brother of Irene, fired at him from the back seat.

With the two officers lying in the road, one breathing his last, the bandits got back into the car and sped on towards New Castle. On Adams street they held up Ray Horton and Elsie Nickum and at the point of a gun took the Horton car. The three of them, with a small boy, got into the car and went on down Adams street.

Alarm Spread.
Immediately the alarm was spread over Pennsylvania and Ohio. State policemen patrolled roads for miles but the bandits seemed to have been swallowed in the earth. On December 31, 1929, the marshal of Bellefonte, O. Francis Moran, found a small boy at the home of Joseph Crawford in Bellefonte, O. and thinking that he might be the small boy who was riding in the bandit car notified the Pennsylvania state police.

The youngster, little Donnie, aged 4, laughed gleefully as he saw the officers' uniforms and said "no, no, my mamma shot two cops like you."

Margiotti Believes Executions Of Pair Will Check Crime

(International News Service)
PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Feb. 23.—The increasing wave of crime in our country must cease!

This keynote was struck in a statement today by Charles J. Margiotti, brilliant prosecutor who conducted the state's case in the trial of Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague, soon after the couple had paid with their lives for the death of Corporal Brady Paul.

"The commonwealth prosecuted and convicted Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague with firmness but without feeling," Margiotti said. "Their crimes were heinous and revolting in character, and society in the interest of its own preservation properly imposed upon them the extreme penalty, irrespective of sex."

"I am convinced of the guilt of these defendants and that their punishment will bring about throughout the state a higher regard for human life and especially for the lives of those who, like Brady Paul, are the constant guardians of social welfare.

"The increasing wave of crime in our country must cease and it is the duty of every law-abiding citizen to do all in his power to check its progress. There is no effective way of checking it except by the prompt and rigorous imposition of the penalties prescribed by law."

"While we all deplore the necessity of the death sentence and realize the grief of the Schroeder and Dague families it should not be forgotten that the life of the criminal must not be valued higher than the welfare of the state and preservation of society. The tragic ending of such a criminal career not only punishes the guilty but should serve as a warning and a deterrent to those inclined to the commission of crime."

Local Young Men Take Part In Week-End Confab At East Liberty

Covering the period from Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock until Sunday afternoon at 2:30, the third annual Western Pennsylvania Young Men's conference, sponsored by western Pennsylvania branches of the Y. M. C. A., was held at East Liberty, Pittsburgh, with 13 New Castle delegates attending.

Before adjournment, Altoona was chosen as the 1932 conference city.

General Secretary R. L. Meermans, this city, took a prominent part as resource man in the Leaders' corp group conference. Leading Y. M. C. A. men from the state and nation at large were present to direct the discussions.

"Training for Leadership," the conference theme, was the subject of opening message by Samuel W. Grafflin, outstanding speaker of the Y. M. C. A. from New York, at the banquet Friday night. Saturday night another leader, W. H. Dewar, spoke on "The Changing Trends of Modern Civilization." He also closed the sessions with an inspirational address.

Recreation and entertainment was provided by the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. and the residents of East Liberty, who opened their homes to the delegates, sightseeing trips featured. About 100 were registered as delegates while others also took part. Conference officers besides President Booth, who succeeded Alfred H. Owens, New Castle leader, were Perrin Shanley, Ridgway, vice president, and Allen Byer, East Liberty, secretary.

Phalanx Organizes

New officers of the Western Pennsylvania Phalanx Tribunal, one of the most predominating organizations taking part, are Jacob Freeman, Erie, primus, and Dean Stumpt, Tarentum, pro-primus.

Delegates from here besides General Secretary Meermans included: Uparatka club, Edgar Beal, Homer Rosser and William Thomas; Phalanx fraternity, Linden Bruce and Bruce Ewing; Young Men's Industrial club, Walter Chernyavsky, Edward T. Sesko, Stanley Mackiewicz; Wrestling club, Paul Alford, Nick George and Thomas Gritzie; Leaders' club, Joe Bara.

"The Story of the Flag" was given by Angeline Cataline, Edna Bigley, Dorothy Jones, Anna Brinsco, Helen Presner, Lucille Jaworski, Dorothy Cast, Josephine Krupa and Elizabeth Klenotich.

"The New Hatchet" was presented by Sonny Smith as Little George; Mike Hitz as Mr. Washington and Helen Presner, Edna Bigley, Elizabeth Klenotich, Dorothy Cast and Natalie Natcher as servants.

Original poems were given by Archie Davis, Chester Gierlach, Louise Radice, William Gush, James Johnson, Lew Milnyk, Matthew Dretowicz and Jack Ketzler.

Archie Davis acted as the announcer.

Women Still Barred In This Day Of Vaunted Freedom, Fair Sex Kept Out Of Lawyers' Organization, Whereupon A Portia Has Her Say

GRACE LUDLOW KELLY

By HOWARD P. JONES
Central Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Women still are not admitted to membership in the Bar Association of New York, no matter how well qualified they may be as lawyers, and despite some hours of brilliant debate the other night led by such men as George W. Wickham, Arthur Garfield Hays, James Byrne, Henry W. Taft, Samuel Seabury and Emory R. Buckner.

But do they care?

Miss Grace Ludlow Kelly, 29, and prominent young New York attorney, shook her bobbed blonde head decidedly and lit a cigarette.

Sees No Handicaps

"Women aren't handicapped in the practice of the law by their sex, and since that is true, what difference does it make?" she retorted. However, she was writing an article, she admitted, to prove why they should be members. Not that it mattered.

Miss Kelly should know whether a woman meets obstacles in law and politics not encountered by a man. She has been active politically since 1924, and has practiced law from her small desk in her own office—she doesn't believe in sumptuous offices, she says—for three years.

Her Entry

"Saying it with flowers" brought Miss Kelly into politics. She had her start when she was made vice chairman of the junior flower committee for the reception of James J. Walker in 1924, when New York's doughty mayor was but a candidate.

In 1925 she organized the Democratic Junior League in New York, which was a "new voters" organization. Later she traveled for the party under the direction of the Democratic national committee, and despite her youth, is now a member of the board of the Manhattan county Democratic committee.

"I was in politics before I was 21," she admits, laughingly, "but I didn't vote before I was 21!"

Political Timidity

She dodges the perennial question as to whether the female vote has had a constructive influence in politics by pointing to the future where she foresees many educated, politically-minded women working together.

"The younger generation have a new point of view," she insists. "Women never have been able to stand together politically. They will not back another woman. And it is useless to look to the men to force women to take an active part in politics. They may or may not welcome us—the point is that a man never will pick an aggressive woman for a job. And so far, at least—women have not been broadminded enough to recognize a woman who has made good. They've worked against her instead of for her."

"Why, anybody who has been in politics must be amazed at the timidity—I mean political timidity, of course—of the average housewife between 30 and 40 years of age. Politics scares her. She isn't informed and she doesn't expect to be. The new woman will be different."

Miss Kelly's blue eyes darkened when the inevitable question of the ideals of this "younger generation" came up.

"It's not true, all these things they are saying," she insisted. "Youth today is looking straight, that's all. As for drinking and smoking and wild parties, there isn't a bit more

Police Capture Four Youths At People's Autos

Youths Have Musical Instruments And Claim To Be Musicians

While on guard at the Cathedral last night, watching for persons said to be stealing from cars parked at the Cathedral, Officers Richards and Showalter saw Wallace Anderson, one of a group of four colored young men, take a package from the car of C. A. Stewart of Bessemer. The package contained a cake and some other foodstuff. The officers arrested the four young men, Anderson, James Ellis, Hubert Mans and Vaughn Fitzhugh, and in their possession were a number of articles which they claimed to have secured at a certain home. On investigation they found that this was a misstatement and the articles are still awaiting the owners at the police station.

The young men had musical instruments and claimed to be musicians and playing as a group or orchestra. When before the mayor this morning they were all fined $10 as suspicious characters.

Legion Post To Meet Tuesday

National Commander's Banquet And Membership Campaign To Be Considered

Regular meeting of Perry S. Gaston post No. 343, American Legion, will be held Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the Legion home and there will be many matters of importance up for consideration.

Various important phases of the national commander's banquet to be held March 11 will be up for consideration and action will be taken. An effort will be made to make this the biggest affair of the kind ever held here, due to the fact that it is the only time that the national commander will be in Pennsylvania this year.

The membership campaign is lagging and at this meeting ways and means of stirring up interest in the post and the securing of more members will be considered.

Mike Kane will bring eight boys from Alliquippa, who can handle a glove and four four-round bouts under the supervision of Mike will be staged. Every member of the post is expected to be present and bring along an ex-service man as a guest.

Nick speed and his K. P.'s will prepare and serve a good luncheon. Major Guy J. Wadlinger, the post commander, will be present and preside at the meeting.

DISORDERLY HOUSE RAIDED BY POLICE

Officer Dukes and Kennedy and Officer Price of the P. & L. E. answered a call to 612 West Lutton street, Sunday night, where disorder was reported. They arrested William Smith, colored, as proprietor, and Anna Cole, colored, as an inmate and two white male visitors. The Cole woman and Smith were fined $15 each. The former paid but Smith went to the county jail for twenty days in default of the fine. The white visitors were fined $10 but could not pay and are spending ten days in the county jail.

Children's Specialist Tells Success Secrets Mothers Should Know

Youngsters' Symptoms Are Often Misleading, Experiences Of Physicians Are Likely To Prove

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
Children have quite a siege of coughs in the winter. Coughs and colds and infections of all kinds assail them. And children are queer customers in some ways, and do not always present the same sort of picture to their families and doctors that adults do with the same disease.

A famous children's specialist has recently written that he made his reputation because he learned two things. The two things he learned are part of what every mother should know. One is that pneumonia does not hurt children. The other is that if a child has a cough and fever it is a sign there is an infection in the ear.

He relates an experience of having been called on the long distance telephone and being asked to come quite a distance to see a sick child who seemed to be puzzling the local experts. He asked what the child's symptoms were and was told by the father "Cough and fever." He suggested that the ear be examined, and it turned out that the child had an infection of the inner ear. The family was saved a large consultation fee, the doctor a tiresome trip and the patient a long wait before diagnosis was made by the exercise of this piece of wisdom.

Cough caused by irritation in the ear is a reflex due to a curious anatomical arrangement of the nerves. One of the nerves which goes to the bronchial tubes sends a small branch to the canal of the ear. As a consequence, any irritation of the ear is likely to induce a cough by setting up a reflex. You may be familiar with this by remembering any time your ear was washed out for treatment purposes with a syringe, it always makes you cough.

One of the frequent experiences of physicians with children is to find a loud persistent whoop as the sign of a foreign body in the ear. The child playing on the floor pops a bean or a pea into the ear. It immediately induces a violent fit of coughing which wedges the bean tightly into the canal of the ear. By that time the child has forgotten all about it, or is afraid to say anything about it for fear of being scolded. The only thing that remains is the cough. To the mother this sounds like croup or bronchitis. Only to the initiated does this spell the advisability of looking into the ear for the cause of the trouble.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
L. G. S. Massachusetts: "What is the cause of shingles? How does one prevent attacks?"
Answer: Shingles, or herpes zoster, is generally considered to be an infection due to one of the organisms too small to be seen with any of our microscopes. There is no known method of preventing a first attack. But the first attack confers immunity and therefore second attacks do not occur. If you have already had it, you need not worry about prevention.

Editor's Note: Five pamphlets and four articles by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each pamphlet and 2 cents in coin for each article, with a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes" and "Feminine Hygiene." The articles are: "Normal Diet," "Diet of the Expectant Mother," "Tuberculosis" and "The Atonic Abdominal Wall."

Mascot First To Jump Fire Truck

(International News Service)
BRADDOCK, Pa., Feb. 23.—With a record of having never missed a fire, first to reach the truck when an alarm is turned in and last to leave the scene of a fire, Fifi, police dog mascot of the Turtle Creek fire department, is one of the smoke-eaters' prized possessions.

Harry Craig, departmental truck driver, says the dog invariably reaches the truck before he does and is always "ready to go" when the alarm rings.

PRaises POLICE

New Castle News,
Dear Editor:

On perusing mostly all the New York papers you find statements under the caption of "New York's Finest" referring to their police force. In looking into their qualifications relative to making them the New York Finest I find that such can be found right in our local police force.

Why not therefore call them New Castle's Finest. There is enough said about the detrimental characteristics of policemen that I think we should say something about the good qualities of those that possess the same. There are two that stand very good representatives of the New Castle police force.

Perhaps there are many others but I am writing about two in whose police records I have scrutinized. Officers W. E. Tyrrell and J. William Wall. Everyday and over four times a day I can see Mr. Tyrrell standing at the corner of North and East streets protecting the lives of hundreds of children.

It does not matter what creed or race they belong to they seem all the same to him. Little ones who are afraid to cross the street are taken into the arms of the officer and like a great big father he carries them safely to the other side. I noticed on a rainy day when it was slippery, a child ventured across North street and fell. I have never witnessed such expeditious moments that were executed by any man than was by Officer Tyrrell.

Picking up the child and putting her in a place of safety he went back to the place of the incident and with interest as with one of his own he picked up the school articles which had also fallen with the child. There is no father that could be more interested in his children than this officer seems to be in the children of North street school. I take my own child there four times a day and it gives me pleasure to watch his human actions. I have been informed that Officer Tyrrell is the dean of the Police in New Castle.

Then there is Officer Wall a man with an immaculate character fearless to execute his duties to its fullest capacity. Sixteen years he has put his life in jeopardy that the citizens in New Castle around his district could rest in peace from the lawless of the city. He loves his God for he attends church nearly every Sunday.

He stands for all that the word man applies. If it were necessary he would prosecute those nearest to him that the law might be fulfilled. Can New York's finest do any better than these two gentlemen? And New Castle has more like these. There let us give credit to whom credit is due and speak of New Castle's finest.

Gilbert H. Coffey,
Pastor, St. Luke A. M. E. Church

LOOKING BACK IN NEW CASTLE

Every city in its inception has its suburban districts, which are named after some outstanding individual, industry or some other peculiarity or characteristic of the district.

In some instances these names outlive the separate existence of these districts and continue to designate some particular district of the city by which they have been absorbed as time rolls on.

In the case of New Castle, most of these former characteristics of small town divisions have been absorbed by the city, but their names in some instances still continued to cling to the district to which they were first applied.

To name all such places that have existed since New Castle was first plotted would be an endless task, but here goes some of the names of districts, which were known in the past 50 or 60 years and are still known more or less today.

In this list we have Crowtown, Middletown, Reynoldstown, Pumpkintown, New England Slattown, Phillipsburg, Snakes Rest, Mullenstown, Spring Hill, Posey Hill, Oakland and Ryantown.

Crowtown was the upper present day Croton district. Middletown was near the top of the present Croton avenue hill. Reynoldstown was in the Pearson street district. Pumpkintown is now known as East New Castle, New England was in the Home street and Luton street district. Slattown was a designation for that South Side district along Long avenue and vicinity. Phillipsburg centered about Elm street. Snakes Rest still exists in the western part of the first ward Mullenstown was in the sixth ward district. Spring Hill was just outside the sixth ward and included a part of the present sixth ward. Posey Hill was close to Oakland, Oakland still holds forth in Union township and Ryantown was in the Sampson street district.

Average Child
Costs Family Much

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—The average child who reaches 18 years of age in the United States represents an investment to his family of approximately $7,250, and of something more than $1,100 to the community, according to a bulletin issued here by the American Research Foundation.

"Included in the cost to his family, of course, is the expense of being born and all other incidentals thereafter, except that of his education in the public schools," says the bulletin. "Cost of clothing and shelter leads the expense list with approximately $3,400. Food is estimated at $2,500 and medical attention at $284. Recreation and incidentals cost $1,068.

The Visitor From Mars

A Tale Of Two Worlds

By S. S. MYERS

CHAPTER VI

"Yes," said I, "the condition of the human race would have been hopeless had not the Creator promissed our first parents that he would in his own good time provide a means of redemption so that we might be saved from the consequences of their sins. There were some who believed this promise and two, or who kept in such close relationship with the Creator that they were not called upon to suffer physical death, but, like your people, were taken hence bodily to the realms of bliss."

"Then in time, true to his promise and His great love for the human race, the creator sent his beloved and only Son to the earth to suffer and die in our stead. The Son took upon Him our flesh and went about healing the sick, comfort-forting the sorrowing ones and opening the eyes of the blind, everywhere declaring that He came to seek and to save the lost ones and that all who believed on Him would be forgiven their transgressions and have eternal life.

But the rulers of His day and generation rejected Him because He exposed their sinfulness and hypocrisy and finally caused Him to be put to a cruel death. Consequently He was despised and rejected, a Man of sorrows and acquainted with grief. Yet He bore our griefs and carried our sorrows. He was wounded for our transgressions and bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him, and with His stripes we were healed. All of these things He willingly suffered for us in order that our race might be redeemed."

"After His death He was laid in a tomb, but three days later He arose from the dead triumphantly, having conquered death for us. After appearing to many and instructing His friends to spread the news of salvation over all the earth, He ascended to the Creator and is ever making intercession for us."

"What a wonderful love!" exclaimed the man from Mars. "Perhaps no other race on any of the other worlds in space have had such a manifestation of love."

"Perhaps like your race, they have not fallen from their high estate and such a sacrifice has been unnecessary," I replied.

For a time he was silent, lost in meditation. Finally he enquired: "If your race has been redeemed why does all of this lawlessness, pain, suffering and sorrow still prevail?"

"Because there are yet multitudes who fail to acknowledge the Son as their Redeemer and will not accept His salvation. They are careless, indifferent and live only to accomplish selfish ends. So long as this condition prevails there will be wars, sorrow and suffering. And it will not cease until all have accepted the salvation provided for the race."

On our return we had withdrawn the money that remained in the bank, and my companion offered to share it with me, but I refused his offer, reminding him that he had seen only a small part of the earth so far, and that if he desired to make a complete report to his people he would have to visit Europe, Asia and Africa, where, he would find different branches of our race and widely different ideas of life and modes of living, and that he would need all of his money for such a journey. I had paid all of my own expenses as well as his out of the money we had taken with us, and felt that I had been amply remunerated.

After a night's rest we went to his ship and taking the pole he had used to close the door, he approached to within the length of it, touched a spring and the door swung open. We entered and he began to make preparation for his departure.

"Before you leave," said I, "I am anxious to know something more about this conveyance of yours—How you manage to guide it through space from your planet to this?"

"My ship is an electro-magnetic machine. After getting beyond the gravitational influence of the planet I can go anywhere in space riding on the cosmic waves. It is a new creation by our scientists, constructed, as I said before, with a view to making this journey. I, therefore, am the first to make an interplanetary visit."

When the time came for his departure he embraced me farewell, entered his ship and closed the door. A few moments later it began to rise perpendicularly from the earth. After reaching a certain height it turned westward. I stood watching it until it faded from sight in the tender blue of the atmosphere.

Ancient Fire Truck Placed In Storage

(International News Service)
ASHLAND, Pa., Feb. 23.—While veteran firemen sang sentimental melodies and tears furtively dimmed many an eye, one of the oldest relics of Ashland was placed in storage.

The relic was the 80-year-old hook and ladder carriage belonging to the Washington Fire Company, used in fighting virtually all early fires here.

The ancient truck was put in a storehouse, to be used in future purposes for parade purposes only.

Evangelistic Campaign Concludes On Sunday With Great Services

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 23.—The greatest meeting of the evangelistic campaign was held last night in the U. P. Church and in the M. E. Church, where Dr. Luther K. Peacock conducted his final services. The latter church was an overflow service at which a fine congregation was present to hear the parting words and message of the famed evangelist. Dr. Peacock gave his address in the M. E. church while the U. P. church was holding song service led by Rev. H. D. K. Huber. Upon finishing there he proceeded to the other church and again spoke while the M. E. church was holding song service being led by Rev. H. D. Maxwell.

At the close of the services hundreds of people had taken the opportunity to re-dedicate their lives to God, and be blessed. Dr. Peacock's closing address was "The Great Invitation."

In the U. P. church every available space was occupied—the largest crowd to ever attend the meetings as yet. The combined choirs of all the churches had rendered some special music and Mrs. W. R. Thompson sang a solo to which there was a fine response.

Dr. Peacock made his last appeal for the people to outlaw sin and accept Christ as their savior. He pointed out that it is difficult for one to have faith in Christ if not in the church. The church is one of the greatest assets to the community and without it the people would be lost. The church was founded by Christ and if it were exterminated from a town, the land would be valueless and the people would desert. As an example of what a great factor the church is in this country, the speaker gave the status of women in countries where Christ is not known and explained that they are mere slaves as in India and China. The gospel of Christ is the cause of our success. The speaker entreated of the people to live a clean, holy life, and thus be an example to their children who will in turn make it a better world to live in.

Rev. Bert Edw. Williams was the presiding minister at the M. E. church. The scripture was read by Rev. Maxwell and the prayer was led by Rev. Paul Elliott. In order Rev. W. E. Wente, J. E. Caughey, and J. A. King were in charge at the U. P. church.

Bridge Party At Cooper Home

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 23.—Miss Helen Cooper entertained several friends at a delightful bridge party Saturday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. Byron McCandless in Second street. The party was in honor of Miss Jeanette Patterson, of Portage.

There were three tables at play with the prizes going to Miss Maggie Yeomans and Miss Kathryn Hemmerly. Miss Patterson received the guest award.

Later in the evening a delicious luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her sister, Miss Jane Cooper.

Others present on the occasion were the Misses Mary Hemmerly, Elizabeth McKnight, Mary Abraham, Abigail Cresswell, Betty Sowry, Mary Thompson, Barbara Yeomans, and Dorothy Quayle.

Bethany Class Loses Contest

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 23.—In a close attendance contest the Bethany Class of the First Christian Church lost to the Loyal Men's Class Sunday with an attendance of 109 for the winners and 106 for the losers.

As a result the losers will sometime next week be the hosts to an oyster supper to the winners, and the interesting part of it will be that they will have to do the cooking and serving. So the Loyal Men are making preparations of bringing their own lunch.

The success of the contest was featured with fine interest, friendliness and fellowship by the classes. The Bethany class has again challenged the winners for another contest which was accepted and will begin at the first of the month.

Mechanicals And Hot Mills Winners

Two Hard Games In Shelby League On Saturday Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 23.—Coming from behind in the last quarter and making a supreme rally the Mechanicals trounced the champion Specialty, first half winners in the Shelby league, to a 40-30 defeat after being on the tail end for three periods. The Office did not live up to all to the expectations of the fans as the strong Hot Mills quintet gave them a 38-17 drubbing in the Shelby auditorium Saturday night.

The results of the contests practically eliminate the Specialty from any contention for honors in the second half and places the Hot Mills in a position to challenge the Specialty for the season and Shelby league championship. Of course the Office is still in the running, in case the Hot Mills is defeated twice before the end of the round.

The Mechanicals in the first game in true fashion proved to be a real threat to future contestants in the league as they so impressively defeated the champion Specialty. The teams in the early periods seemed to be evenly matched—neither team getting a safe distance ahead until the third quarter when the champions surged to the fore with a 26-18 score in their favor.

But the closing stanza was a different matter altogether as the Mechanicals unleashed a surprising offense and outscored the Specialty 22-4. The scoring started and came like a tornado with field goals being rained in one after another in rapid succession. This sudden spurt had left the champions in a daze and they were unable to cope with the situation as White, Mayne and Labate of the Mechanicals led the unforeseen attack. They had a total of 20 field goals with 11 of them coming in the last period.

Joe Lattiano and Sumner were the outstanding performers for the losers, the former acquiring five baskets and the latter three.

In the second game there was no score for a lengthy time as both teams revealed a fine defense. Each missed numerous easy shots that could have been counted up. Finally the Hot Mills broke through the hoops as Chambers, on a follow up shot registered. The Hot Mills offense began to work smoothly from then on. Fitzgerald, the roving sentinel, tallied from the court three times, then Chambers repeated once after a nice tip off from the bank board. On the next play Ursu sunk a foul and the period ended with the Office being scoreless and the Hot Mills running up 11 points.

The Office at last got started when Johnston scored on a follow up shot after Fitzgerald's marker in the ensuing period. This served as an example for his team mates after which Elder and Blandine aided him in their cause. Freidhoff scored a foul for the Hot Mills and the half ended with them being outscored 8-6 but still maintaining the lead at 14-8. The Hot Mills had not at any time lost the lead or been seriously threatened.

In the third quarter the Hot Mills began the scoring again as Fitzgerald sank one foul and Clyde three, which was followed with a bucket by Ursu. Johnston, Elder and Leyda repeated for the Office in succession and then Fitzgerald again scored which was the final marker for the period with the score standing 22-14 in their favor.

The final stanza was a complete rout for the Hot Mills as they outscored their opponents 16-3, and taking the game by a 38-17 score.

Fitzgerald and Chambers were the best performers for the victors, the former accumulating eight baskets and the latter half that number. For the losers Johnston and Elder were outstanding.

Cleveland Woman Robbed Of Jewels At Famous Resort

Four Men, Armed With Guns, Invade Hotel Foyer And Stage Daring Holdup

(International News Service)
MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Feb. 23.—Four men, armed with pistols and sawed-off shotguns, early today invaded the foyer of the Arethusa hotel in this Michigan health resort and robbed a Cleveland, O., guest of two diamond rings valued at $3,500. Police later were advised that two of the alleged robbers were captured in Detroit. The men, who are said to have admitted participation in the hold-up, gave their names as George Miller, 25, alias Harry Gordon, of Chicago, and John Vincek, 33, of Cicero, Ill., according to police.

Fourteen guests were in the lobby of the Arethusa House when the bandits entered. While three men covered them with guns, Miller went to a table where Mrs. Samuel Alter of Cleveland was playing bridge, and forced the woman to surrender the two valuable rings. Authorities have spread a dragnet for the other two robbers.

Faculty Members Produce Books

(International News Service)
STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Feb. 23.—Fifty-seven books, representing years of research and study, have been produced by present members of the faculty of Pennsylvania State College. It was found when an Authors Club was organized among faculty members here.

The majority of the volumes are the result of technical studies and do not include the numerous technical bulletins issued by the college or scientific papers published by faculty members in various journals.

Four of the writers have four books each to their credit, two have written three books each, three are credited with two each and 23 members of the college staff have produced one book each.

Many faculty members are presently collecting data for new publications and research is being conducted in every school of the college.

Much of the original investigation carried on at Penn State appears in bulletin form, as the most convenient and least expensive manner of presenting it to the public.

City Determined To Be Second Chicago

(International News Service) BAY POINT, Cal., Feb. 23.—Despite the threat that Illinois would probably change the name of some of its towns to Los Angeles or San Francisco, the city of Bay Point is determined to change its name to Chicago.

The town's chamber of commerce is still hoping that even the protest of A. R. Coleman, first assistant postmaster general in Washington, won't cause any upset in its plan to have Bay Point become Chicago. They point out that there are 12 Bostons in the United States, twelve Pittsburghs, six Philadelphias, and two Los Angeles.

Coleman wired the chamber of commerce that the use of the name, Chicago, for Bay Point would cause much confusion and delay in mail delivery. He said it was contrary to the policy of the postal department to duplicate names of any metropolises.

But the chamber of commerce of Bay Point is determined and it is proceeding with steps to change Bay Point's name to Chicago as planned.

And besides, they pointed out, there are already two Bay Points in the United States, anyway!

To Name Highways After Heroes Of '76

(International News Service) HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 23.—Connecticut plans to name her highways after Revolutionary heroes. A road leading north from Norwich to the Massachusetts state line will be called the General Israel Putnam Memorial highway, while a road from Winsted across the western section to New Milford is to be called the Lafayette Memorial highway.

Over the Lafayette road, 150 years ago this spring marched a French army, proceeding from Newport, R. I., to Yorktown, Va., where in October, 1781, it aided in trapping the British army under Cornwallis and so ending the Revolutionary War. Putnam proceeded over the road from Norwich in 1775 after the battle of Lexington.

Two of the convicts were captured last night by a party of guards who had set out at the first alarm with bloodhounds to aid them in the man-hunt.

Capital Lecturer Addresses Rotary

Race Discoveries Are Told By Dr. Bricker, Speakers' President

Dr. Garland A. Bricker, president of the National Speakers' association of Washington, D. C., was the speaker at the Rotary club luncheon in The Castleton today. "Great Race Movements" was the subject of his discourse.

The speaker discussed the tremendous potential possibilities of the Chinese people, the rapid spread of Mohammedanism over Africa and southern Asia, and the almost unbelievable discoveries of the English-Israel movement.

"When I discuss the Chinese people," said Mr. Bricker, "I have no notion of preaching yellow peril, but its tremendous possibilities should not be ignored. On the other hand, the wonderful opportunities—commercially, industrially, economically, and otherwise—that are open to America as friend of a country four times its size in population and twice its area are almost incalculable."

Dr. Bricker's address was concluded after he discussed other races briefly.

The speaker is a former newspaper writer of Youngstown.

Gone are the days when boyhood's dreams were wrapped up in the uniform of a fireman, policeman or cowboy. Little Kermit Peter Hayford (above), nine-year-old Rochester, N. Y., youth, wants to be a radio station operator and is shown taking the test in the local post office.

Four members of the Episcopal clergy were asked by the Rev. Dr. Eliot White (above), former curate of Grace Episcopal Church, New York, to prefer charges against him under canonical law, questioning his position as a militant crusader for companionate marriage.

Four Lose Lives In Big Avalanche Of Snow In Alps

Three Members Of Skiing Party In Austrian Alps Killed By Snow Fall

(International News Service) BERLIN, Feb. 23.—Three members of a skating party of five were killed when they were overwhelmed by an avalanche of snow in the Austrian Alps today. Another skier lost his life in a similar accident in the German Alps.

Six of a party of fifty rescuers who braved the avalanche in the Austrian mountains were buried by another slide, but all were rescued. The German avalanche buried seven, but six of them were rescued by the Red Cross.

Heavy snows have crippled transportation and communications in various parts of Austria and Switzerland. One man was killed in the Italian Tyrol when an avalanche buried his farm. A train was derailed near Innsbruck by the snow.

Iron And Steel Complaints Are Sustained Today

Commission Sustains Complaints Against Increased Rates

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—Complaints brought by 74 producers of iron and steel products and civic associations against increased freight rates in the Pittsburgh and Johnstown industrial districts today were sustained by a majority of the public service commission.

The commission issued an order prescribing the rates of railroad shipments with a minimum of 40,000 pounds, fixing the charges on all zones from five to one hundred miles.

Commissioners Charles H. Young and J. W. Brown filed a dissenting opinion, differing with the finding of the majority of the commission and holding that the districts affected by the rates directed would enjoy advantages at the expense of other industrial sections of the

THE TRUTH AND NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH ABOUT OUR FEBRUARY FURNITURE SALE

Quite frankly this sale at Haney's is not for everyone. Not for those who will buy anything if the price is low enough—caring little or nothing if the furniture is poor quality or in questionable taste. Nor is it for those lavish souls who don't seem to care if they do get less than their money's worth. Haney's February Sale is for those with an eye for furniture values—those who insist on craftsmanship as well as low prices, fine design as well as discounts, good taste as well as thrift.

The present prices at Haney's are not the lowest you can find—but they are the lowest at which the Haney's kind of furniture has ever been offered before. The discounts are not the sharpest to be found—but they are based on prices that were already extremely low and thus perhaps even more significant. Whether the chair you choose costs $6 or $80, and the dining room suite $80 or $550—you will be getting the utmost in real and lasting value for the price you pay.

The sale includes every suite and single piece—every rug and carpet—throughout our entire five floors. And, it goes without saying, all from our regular distinguished stock. Haney's do not purchase furniture specially for sale purposes.

Walker-Risko To Battle Tuesday

Boxing Spotlight Shifts To Southland Tomorrow Night

BOUT WITH JACK SHARKEY PROMISED

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The boxing spotlight shifts to the Southland this week with Mickey Walker, king of the middleweights, meeting Johnny Risko, the Cleveland heavyweight at Miami in a ten round bout tomorrow night.

With a bout with Jack Sharkey as a possible reward of victory, Mickey hopes to repeat his "David" role of last November in Detroit when he spotted "Goliath" Risko more than twenty pounds, scored a knockdown and won the decision. Risko, however, is a notorious in-and-out and may upset all calculations by handing the Jerseyman a neat shellacking.

The affair will feature W. L. Stribling, father of Young Strib, in the role of front man for Madison Square Garden. The genial Georgian is on his home grounds and can make the fight a box-office success if any man could turn the trick. Latest advices from Miami, however, indicate that the fans will stay away from the Madison Square Garden arena, a large number.

The other star bout of the week will be held in New York on Friday when King Tut, the tow-headed, barrel chested Minneapolis slugger, and Billy Petrolle renew their four-year feud. Tut has ruined the Fargo Italian on three occasions, but Billy managed to beat the King twice previously and thinks he can even the score with his nemesis.

Crowning Race Winner and Fair Rider

Miss Joan Blondell, cinema star places the crown of roses on "Ritter," winner of the fourth running of the Coronado Town Plate at Agua Caliente, Southern California, as Miss Vera McGinnis, California girl, brings her mount into the winner's circle. The race which is run exclusively for women riders, attracted a big crowd to the border track.

Not-So-Glad Gladiator

An agonizing hold, as can be plainly seen from the expression on the face of the underdog. ## Three Games In Church League

Three fast games are on tap tonight in the New Castle Church League. The first game starts at 8 o'clock. The feature game will be w in the Central Christians and Temple Israel's tangle in the first combat. They have been rivals for the Church League lead for quite some time. The Temples have a chance to win the flag this year.

The three games are:
Central Christians vs. Temple Israel, A.
First Christians vs. Central Christians, B.
Wesley M. E. vs. Wampum Presbyterian, A.

Ban Johnson Still In Critical State

(International News Service)
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 23.—The condition of Ban Johnson, former president of the American League, still remained grave today, his physicians reported at St. John's hospital.
Johnson has been confined at the hospital here for several weeks, suffering from diabetes and a general breakdown. A blood transfusion last week brought a temporary rally in the veteran baseball leader's condition.

CLINIC EXAMINATIONS
HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—More than 225 persons were examined at the mental health clinic and in special examinations held at institutions throughout the state during the past month, according to a report of the bureau of mental health, State Department of Welfare.

Polish Falcons Defeat Sokols

The Polish Falcons had very little trouble in downing the Sokols of Struthers, Ohio, in a four game played at the Polish hall on Saturday night. The locals were always in the lead. The all-around playing of Cegielka and M. Kolodjeski featured for the Falcons also the work of Johnson was mighty good. For the losers the work of Petrus and Davids was the best. It was the first game for Johnson and he played fine basketball.

For the coming week the Falcons have a busy card ahead of them. The Monaco "Macks" will be met at the Falcon Hall tonight, on Wednesday the Finnish Lutherans at the Y. M. C. A. and Wesley M. E. at Falcon Hall on Thursday night.

The lineup:
Polish Falcons 51 Sokols 26
Frankovich F. Gonda
M. Kolodjeski F. Davits
Cegielka C. Basista
J. Mehalic G. McColester

Referee—Neyman.

OPEN MEETINGS
HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—Dr. A. M. Northup, secretary of the Department of Labor and Industry, announced that during this Administration all meetings of the industrial board of the Department of Labor and Industry will be open to the public.

A statesman is a man who thinks 25 million isn't much if it belongs to others.

Emmett Rocco and K. O. Christner will meet Tuesday night in an Akron ring, bringing to a head a fistic rivalry that has brewed for several years. A knockout is not improbable as they are sluggers. Christner once occupied an envious place among the heavyweights but has slipped. Rocco lost to Toughy Griffiths but came back with some great fighters, especially against Tom Heenev, George Panka and Al Friednan then lost to Arthur De Kuh. Rocco believes he can knock out the Akronite. Christner has said he will go right after Rocco. If they carry out these intentions a knockout is highly probable.

You've not been to Pulaski unless you've visited E. C. Lostetter, 81 years old. We had the pleasure of meeting him Saturday night and discovered that he was the ice-skating champion of the Shenango Valley 50 years ago. No doubt he will be remembered to many of the oldtimers as the mineral water bottler of Pulaski. He has a small cigar store in Pulaski and he operates it along the honor line. Rarely does he have to arise from his seat. The men and boys just take what they want and put the coin in the box. Although he's 81 he doesn't mind fishing at night and during the summer time enjoys night fishing.

There is some talk of the Schmeling-Stribling fight being staged in Cleveland with Detroit as the alternative city, according to reports from Miami. The municipal stadium at Cleveland can seat 100,000.

Thunberg of Finland won the International speed skating championship tournament yesterday at Heilingsfors. Bert Evenson of Norway was second.

For the first time in 10 years Italy's soccer team beat Austria Internationalists, 2 to 1, at Milan. The game was watched by 45,000 spectators.

Rube Ferns, former welterweight champion of the world, died in New York yesterday. He captured the title in 1900.

Gentlemen:

My attention has been called to your campaign against "Spit-Tipping" in the manufacture of cigars. You are a commercial organization and obviously are interested in your own product. However, in carrying on this particular campaign, which awakens the public consciousness, against the "Spit" evil, whether it be in the public highway or public places, or elsewhere, I feel that you are doing a work which deserves commendation. Any use you may care to make of this letter will be agreeable to me.

Very truly yours,

Monument Now Marks Site Of State's Once Famous Cherry Tree

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—The annual crop of cherry tree stories that goes the rounds after Washington's birthday, has brought to light the incident of what was probably the most historic cherry tree in Pennsylvania, officials of the Department of Forests and Waters said to-day.

Hardly a community is without trees that have historic associations, as shown by the records of big and historic trees compiled for years by the Department, but few trees have had the distinction of the old cherry tree that stood at the meeting point of Indiana, Cambria and Clearfield counties, according to Department officials. The memory of this old cherry tree, an important landmark for many years and long since disappeared, is perpetuated by the tri-county monument at the junction of the three counties.

The tree gained distinction not only because three counties converged in the soil about its roots, but because it was a boundary line tree of the famous Fort Stanwix Treaty with the Six Nations, concluded with the Indians by the Proprietary Governors on November 5, 1768. By this treaty a large area of land, extending roughly from Towanda westward to Kittanning and south into Cambria county, was conveyed to the Province. The deed is recorded in Deed Book No. 3 at the poll office in Philadelphia.

The western boundary of the purchase passed up the south side of the West Branch of the Susquehanna in Cambria county to the forks of the Branch at the Canon Place, which is now the corner of Indiana, Cambria and Clearfield counties. The line running from the point "now called the purchase line," as described in the deed, was run by James Galbraith by order of Surveyor General Lukine, bearing the date April 7, 1768. In course of time the cherry tree which marked the point was washed away and other landmarks lost.

By an Act of Assembly of March 29, 1849, the commissioners of the three counties appointed surveyors to re-locate the intersection corner. After the survey the surveyors recommended the erection of a monument to mark the historic spot.

Local opinion that the expense should be borne by the State, deferred the matter until 1893 when the citizens of Cherry Tree took action and a bill was approved by the Assembly appropriating $1500 for the purpose.

Work proceeded immediately and the monument was unveiled November 16, 1894. Over 1500 persons gathered to participate in the dedication, at which the unveiling address was made by Governor James Beaver. A stone wall around the monument was provided for by a later appropriation. The land adjoining was donated by Wilmer McKeage for the use of the citizens of the Cherry Tree borough, and the Civic Club, composed of women of the community, subsequently transformed the unsightly old river bed into a place of beauty.

Young People Of Methodist Churches Will Have Rally In Mahoning Church

All Methodist young people of the New Castle district are looking forward with interest to the rally Friday evening of this week in the Mahoningtown Methodist church. Jack Evans will be in charge of the Vaudeville entertainment, which will feature the evening and this will consist of musical numbers, solos, duets, trios, quartets and stunts of all kinds.

The pep singing will be led by "Red" Williams and at the close of the program there will be a period of games.

The ladies of the Mahoningtown church will serve the lunch at the close of the evening.

There will be a delegations of young people from the First Methodist, the Croton, the Epworth, the Wesley, Savannah, Wampum, New Wilmington, East Brook, Edinburg, and New Bedford Methodist churches.

Rochester Hotel Shows Nice Profit

ROCHESTER, Pa., Feb. 23.—The Penn-Beaver hotel in Rochester showed a profit of over $12,000 last year W. M. Goettman state today. It was the first year since the hotel was built that any profit was realized. More depreciation was charged off last year than in 1929 according to Mr. Goettman, secretary of the board of directors who made the announcement at Beaver today.

Last year the loss shown by the board was in excess of $6,700.

A meeting of the directors will be held in the hotel this afternoon when officers for ensuing year will be elected.

TREES BEAR HEAVY WEIGHT OF LEAVES

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—That an acre with a dense stand of oak trees growing upon it carries from four to six tons of leaves during a single growing season, was revealed by studies recently conducted by Research Forester Geo. S. Perry of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters.

If all these leaves were laid edge to edge they would cover an area of about five and a half acres. The green surface of the leaves on an acre of oak forest exposed to the light about eleven acres of green leaf surface.

White pine forests do considerably better than oak, and also hold their needles throughout the year. A stand of these trees studied in January of this year had approximately 490,000,000 needles per acre, with a green weight of almost seven tons. If these needles were laid end to end they would reach nearly around the world, or a total distance of 24,030 miles. The green surface exposed by the needles from an acre of white pine had a total area of surface of more than 19 acres.

An acre of pitch pine forest in mid-winter carries only about 63,000,000 needles, with a total weight of less than two and one half tons, while red pine, although it bears only 355,700,000 needles per acre in winter, the weight is much greater, and an acre of green foliage of red pine weighs almost 19 tons.

"Married Life" Not Worth While

Blames Wives' "Nerves"

"Weak nerves," said a New York doctor recently, "in my estimation wreck more happily married lives than any other cause."

Besides making the sweetest disposition sour and irritable, nervousness is a terrible drain on your vital forces—it saps your youth and your strength and dulls your beauty. What a difference from the bright-eyed, vibrant girl he married. No wonder married life seems unbearable!

But you can get rid of your nervousness—speedily too—and become the steady-nerved, radiant woman you once were. Try the effect of Tanlac after meals and before going to bed, and if it doesn't soon make a new woman of you—doesn't rid you of that tired, strained feeling—go back and get your money.

Go to your druggist now and get a bottle of Tanlac. Millions of folks have started back on the road to youth, health and happiness with this world famous tonic and there is no reason why you, too, can't begin today to rebuild your worn-out tissues and revitalize your entire system.

through which the marvelous alchemy of nature transforms a little earth, some water, and a vast amount of carbon dioxide gas into wood, one of the most useful and versatile servants of mankind.

Post Commanders Meet Here Sunday At Legion Home

Make Plans For The National Commander's Banquet On March 11

Members of the general committee in charge of the Legion's National Commander's banquet to be held in the Cathedral on March 11 and the commanders of the posts of the twenty-sixth congressional district met at the Legion Home Sunday at the call of Harry Long, the general chairman, for the consideration of final arrangements for the event.

Reports received from the various post commanders and the other outlying districts, which have been visited by the visitation committee were most encouraging and indicated the probability of approximately two thousand, the quota that can be entertained at dinner that night.

Ellwood City, Greenville and New Brighton drum corps were reported as planning to be present, also the Beaver Falls Post Band. There is also a possibility that the Sharon Post Drum Corps will attend.

The program was also considered at some length and preliminary plans made for that part of the evening's activities. Word was received and announced to the effect that General Smedley Butler, who had been invited here, could not be here, due to the fact that he has a speaking engagement for the same date in Georgia.

Request of the Slippery Rock Post for the visitation committee to make a visit to the post on March 4 was announced. It is possible that the committee will accept the invitation and be present, as requested.

HUNTERS' LICENSES HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—Incomplete reports from county treasurers show the sale of 529,888 resident and 6012 non-resident hunters' licenses during the past hunting season. Both are new high totals.

LIBRARY CLOSED The New Castle free public library will be closed all day in observance of the national holiday, George Washington's birthday.

Revival Services Brought To Close At Hoover Heights

The Revival Meetings which have been in progress for the past three weeks at the Hoover Heights Tabernacle, came to a close last evening.

Special music provided over the week-end services was very well accepted. A trio from the Gospel Tabernacle, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jenkins and Mrs. Edwina Hinkson sang "Take Time to Be Holy," and "He Knows the Way." Mrs. Ada Anderson and Mrs. Amy Scripture sang "When I Survey," Mrs. John Wink and Mrs. L. A. Rigby sang to the accompaniment of Gafars "Fix Your Eyes Upon the Cross," and "It Was Not to Save the Righteous Jesus Came," Miss Esther

Gibbons also sang "The Cross is not Greater than His Grace."

Rev. Frank B. Collett, the Evangelist brought more stirring and thought provoking sermons. Last night's sermon was on "The Greatest Question."

PARKS BESIDE

FIRE HYDRANT Louis Cialella paid a fine of $5 over the week end on a charge of parking near a fire hydrant. He was ordered into the police station by Officer George Wyman.

CLUB BOWLERS TO

TANGLE IN MATCH

Opening what looms as a starter for further matches between New Castle's three different service clubs the Rotary pinner on March 5 will stack their efforts against the bowlers of the Kiwanis Club.

Both aggregations are busy rehearsing with an eye to out-scoring the other. The scene of the match will be made known later.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)
